SCHOOLS HEAD STRIKES BACK AT CRITICISM

Points Out Board's Achievements.

James B. McCahey, president of the board of education, struck back yesterday at charges that a political spoils system is operating in the Chicago schools with a counter charge that facts have been garbled and distorted in recent attacks on the board.

J. B. McCahey.

He detailed the achievements of the board since 1933, ranging from the resumption of regular day days for teachers to the elimination of tin, portable schools.

The statement was Mr. McCahey's first formal reply to assertions in a magazine article that Chicago school children are being deprived of educational advantages. The article was written by Mrs. Mabel P. Simpson, executive secretary of the citizens' school committee. She repeated the charges in a speech before the City club of Chicago two weeks ago.

Declines Forum Invitation.

Attorney Herbert Bebb, president of the City club, requested McCahey to answer Mrs. Simpson's charges at a meeting of the club forum on June 4 and said the invitation would be withdrawn if not accepted by yesterday. McCahey, however, declined to attend the forum and made his answer in a letter mailed yesterday to Bebb.

"If anything constructive could be accomplished by such an appearance before the City club]," McCahey wrote, "you may be assured that I should be glad to avail myself of the privilege. However, the policy of the board has been to ignore reckless and irresponsible charges, and my judgment is that the school system, which is of paramount importance, will not be benefited in any degree by my participation in a discussion before your organization of the charges to which you refer."

Improvements Listed.

McCahey then listed the improvements effected by the board and the manner in which it has carried along its work. These are:

1. School teachers are paid regularly. When the board went into office in 1933, it owed teachers and other employés $23,000,000.

2. Ninety per cent of the schools have been cleaned, painted, and decorated and this work is now going on in the other 10 per cent.

3. 580 of the tin portable schools have been eliminated and the others are on the way out.

4. Old buildings are being torn down and replaced with new ones. There have been 22 elementary and high schools and additions completed since 1933, and 24 other schools and additions are being built. There is no school in Chicago now which has been condemned as unsafe.

5. Extravagances of all kinds have been cut out, but no essential educational activity has been curtailed. On the contrary, further educational opportunity has been extended by establishment of three junior colleges.

Conditions Compared.

Amplifying these statements, McCahey wrote:

"When the board went into office, the school treasury was bankrupt, school credit was gone, the board owed teachers and other employés $23,000,000. The cost of instruction per pupil had increased from $39.19 in 1910 to $124.90 in 1932. The lowest estimate of the board's deficit at that time was $10,000,000—financial authorities fixed the deficit at closer to $35,000,000. School buildings were in a deplorable condition. There were 692 one room, stove heated, unsanitary portable buildings in use. Forty-two thousand senior high school pupils were housed in portables, rented quarters, or forced to attend only part time sessions. On the other hand, there were 400 vacant rooms in elementary school buildings and several hundred other rooms used only part time.

"I need not tell you how difficult it was to handle this situation. The important thing is that the board did keep the schools open, did improve

21,405 WATCH INTERNATIONAL AMATEUR BOUTS

Chicago's Golden Gloves team tied the amateur boxing champions of Europe, four bouts to four, in the sixth international bouts sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., at the Stadium last night. A crowd of 21,405 saw the bouts. Lem Franklin, Chicago heavyweight, scored a technical knockout over Herbert Runge, Germany, in the first round of the final bout to tie the score.

KING FORBIDS WALLY TITLE OF 'YOUR HIGHNESS'

Edward Loses Fight Over Her Rank.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 28.—Mrs. Wallis Warfield [Simpson] will not be given royal rank. Duchess of Windsor, yes, but not "her royal highness."

The last act of the government of former Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin was to announce in the London Gazette, official government organ, tonight that the nuptials on June 3 at the Château de Cande, near Monts, France, will not elevate the duke of Windsor's bride to his royal status.

All the thunder of his majesty's government is apparently hurled at the American woman. It is a bitter defeat for Edward, who had demanded royal rank for his duchess.

Earlier Stand Contradicted.

Baldwin's parting shot, according to the duke's friends here, contradicts his arguments before parliament last December that there is no such thing as a morganatic marriage in English law, and that a wife assumes her husband's status automatically. The point was that had Mrs. Warfield married the duke at that time, she would have been queen, Baldwin's argument being there was no way to prevent it.

Tonight's announcement in the London Gazette that the duke will continue to be designated as his royal highness, but that the title will be withheld from Mrs. Warfield, extends the ban also to any children of the marriage. They and Mrs. Warfield, it was stated, will be entitled only to the forms of address appropriate to the wife and decendants of a duke not of royal blood.

Act on Cabinet's Authority.

By constitutional practice, it was pointed out, the announcement was made through King George VI. on the authority of the cabinet. Letters patent defining the application of the title were issued Thursday, Baldwin's last full day as prime minister.

Announcing that Mrs. Warfield will not be entitled to call herself "her royal highness" after her marriage, tonight's London Gazette stated: "The king has been pleased by letters patent under the great seal of the realm bearing the date 27th of May, 1937, to declare the duke of Windsor shall notwithstanding his instrument of abdication, executed the 10th day of December, 1936, and his majesty's declaration of abdication act, 1936, whereby effect was given to the said instrument, be entitled to hold and enjoy for himself only the title, style or attribute of royal highness so, however, that his wife and descendants if any shall not hold the said title, style or attribute."

Cite Queen Victoria's Ruling.

Against the claims of Edward's friends that depriving the duke's wife of "royal highness" title refutes Baldwin's former arguments, sources close to the court cited rules laid down seventy years ago by Queen Victoria to support the action.

The latter's patent defining the application of the title of "her royal highness," as issued by Victoria, it is contended, laid down that titles shall be extended only to relatives of a sovereign who are "in succession to the throne."

A BOMBSHELL FOR WALLY

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTS, France, May 28.—The Château de Cande officially has no comment to make on the announcement in the London Gazette tonight that Mrs. Wallis Warfield [Simpson] will not be entitled to call herself "her royal highness," Herman L. Rogers, American press spokesman for the couple, indicated tonight. But THE TRIBUNE, from private sources, learned that it fell on Mrs. Warfield and Edward like a bombshell.

Up to tonight Mrs. Warfield had taken it for granted she would be known as "her royal highness" after her marriage to the duke. Hopes at the château were particularly high. THE TRIBUNE understands, because Edward had been informed that his own status and title would be put on

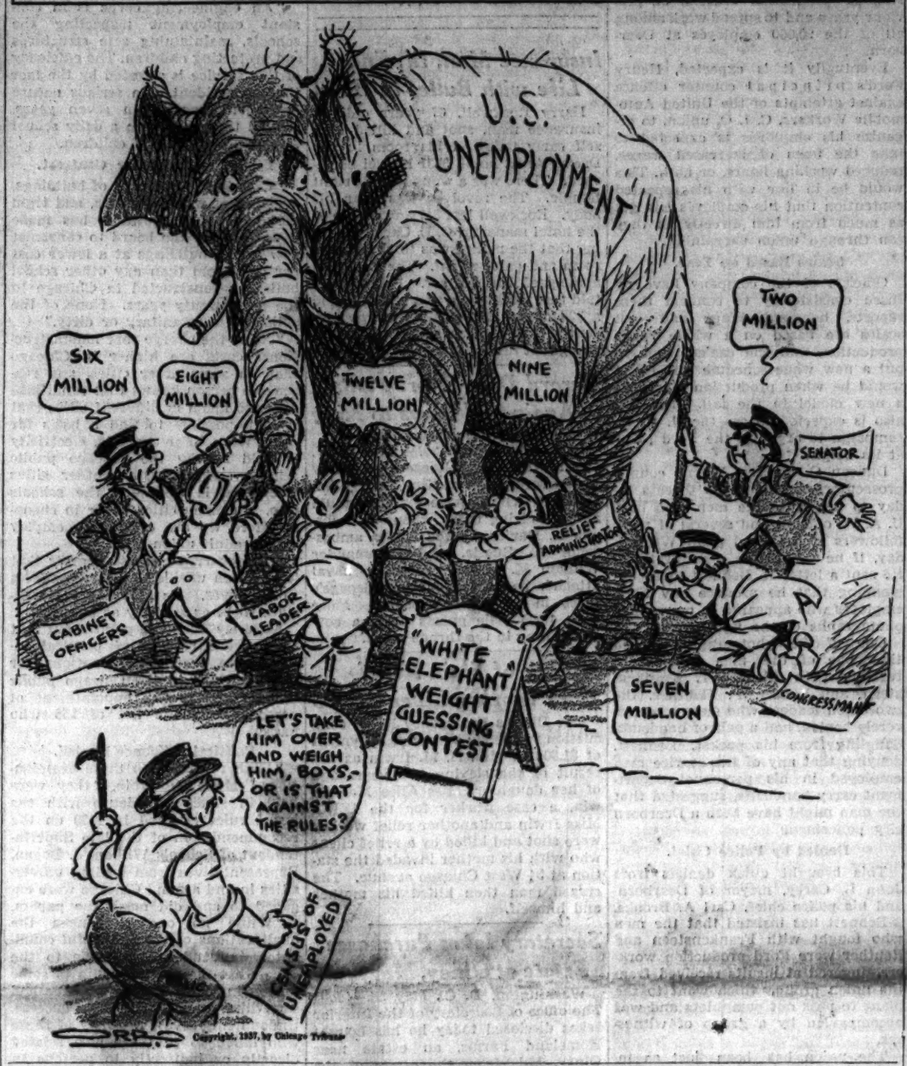
THE BLIND MEN AND THE ELEPHANT



Recalls Loves of Gay '90s in Estate Battle

When the nineties were gay and she was young, Mrs. Grace Henrietta Love of Los Angeles made marital history with six husbands and as many divorces. One man, her first love, she married three times because he was the handsomest in the world.

Now 71 years old, Mrs. Love recounted her loves and life, her luxurious habits, and her pampered ways as the daughter of a rich Chicago banker in a deposition read yesterday to Judge James F. Fardy.

She is the daughter of Amos J. Snell, whose mysterious murder, supposedly by a burglar, on Feb. 8, 1888, is still unsolved. She is seeking a larger share of the estate left by her mother who died in 1900. It was then estimated at $1,500,000.

Receives $400 a Month.

Mrs. Love receives about $400 a month, representing one-third of the present income of Widow Snell's estate. The rest is shared by other heirs who inherit the entire estate upon her death. If successful in her present petition Mrs. Love will receive between $100,000 and $500,000.

At the age of 15 Mrs. Love told of eloping with Frank Nixon Coffin, her idea of the handsomest man who walked the streets, whom she eventually divorced three times after as many marriages. The roster of her married names runs Coffin, Walker, Coffin, Layman, Coffin, Love.

"I have been a society woman," related Mrs. Love in the deposition obtained by trustees of the estate, who oppose her motion. "I traveled luxuriously in Europe and kept a fine stable of horses. My mother gloried in my social position."

Spoiled, She Says.

Mrs. Love told of inheriting, with other children, a large share of her father's estate. But upon the death of her mother Mrs. Love admitted she had spent this money.

"I probably would not have been divorced and had all these romances if I had not been spoiled," she continued. "I am a romantic woman, not hard-boiled. My parents got me into the habit of spending. Mother taught me to be extravagant. The trousseau for my second wedding cost $6,000."

A different picture of Mrs. Love was presented in a deposition taken from her daughter, Mrs. Mildred S. Engelke, 49 years old, who is also opposing her mother's effort to get more money. Mrs. Engelke, a child of the first marriage, charged that Mrs. Love offered her $10,000 not to reveal her past and to side with her.

"I had the cruelest mother in the world," stated the daughter. She drank to excess, clumped my father black and blue and kicked me.

"She would hire whole orchestras from Chicago to Newport, give champagne dinners, have private cars, horses, coachmen, and tutors."

Judge Fardy continued the hearing until Tuesday.

SEA ELEPHANT TICKLED WHEN HE IS MOVED INTO $35,000 GROTTO

Reggie, the Brookfield zoo's sea elephant, was tickled yesterday to be moved into his summer quarters, the $35,000 sea lion grotto. The tickling was no figure of speech. Robert Bean, assistant director of the zoo, found that the only way he could get Reggie to move his 2,900 pounds of weight into a portable cage to transport him to the grotto was by tickling him. Reggie refused to be lured by fish and such delicacies.

En route to the grotto Reggie was placed on the scales and found to have gained an even 1,000 pounds since he entered the zoo ten months ago. Director Bean said that Reggie's diet will be increased from 40 pounds of fish a day to 100 pounds, because the open air will give him an appetite.

MINE STAYDOWN IS ENDED AFTER 200 HOUR SIEGE

Gillespie, Ill., May 28.—(AP)—More than 350 coal miners who had occupied the Superior Coal company's No. 4 mine at nearby Wilsonville an even 200 hours came to the surface tonight to end an underground sitdown demonstration called in support of a share the work with idle miners plan. The stay down is over, but the strikers will struggle until their demands are met, according to John Fisher, their president.

Dr. Sargas, Duelist, Gets Prison Sentence; Appeals

BUDAPEST, Hungary, May 28.—(AP)—Dr. Franz Sargas, who frequently fights duels because he feels his wife's honor has been besmirched, was sentenced to prison today because of one of his encounters. He was ordered to serve two months for a duel in February with George de Vasony, a young civil servant. Dr. Sargas appealed the sentence.

Corruption in N. York Court Told in Report

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 28.—[Special.]—An accusation of the Supreme court of New York City for corruption and graft of appalling proportions was made today by a special committee of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York as the conclusion of a two year study of the situation. The Supreme court corresponds with Circuit or State courts elsewhere. The highest tribunal is the Appellate court.

The investigating committee uncovered evidence of thousands of litigants mulcted of huge sums annually in mortgage foreclosures, lawyers dipping into the ante with thieves and judges operating under a system which prostitutes the courts to build up and maintain political machines.

Point Way to Correction.

The only hope for ending this vitiation of the bench was a new method of selecting judges which could be adopted at next year's constitutional convention, the committee said. The report covered only New York and Bronx counties, but implied that similar conditions obtained in Kings, Queens, and Richmond counties, also a part of the city, as well as upstate counties.

The committee, headed by Howard Ayres, a vice president of the chamber, found that while "the cream of the business" went to a comparatively small number of favored individuals with high political affiliations, there were hundreds of other "run of the mill" organization workers whose fees, while individually small, were large in the aggregate.

No names were mentioned, but the report noted one group of eleven persons "related to or associated with" a single influential leader who received a total of 413 appointments, including 271 selections of one member as an insurance agent.

Hold Many Jobs.

And there was one county committeeman, who was an election district captain and candidate on the Democratic ticket, who received 26 appointments, with fees totaling $1,430. Another individual, identified as "county committeeman, election district captain, assistant district attorney, and assemblyman," received 23

2 Die, 5 Hurt in Accidents on Speedway

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., May 28.—[Special.]—Two men were killed and five others were injured seriously today in preliminaries to the annual 500 mile Speedway race, which attracts America's largest crowd each Memorial day, to be run here on Monday.

Albert Opalko.

Today's casualties, raising to thirty-three the twenty-five year death toll at the Speedway, came in two spectacular accidents.

Albert Opalko, 26 years old, of Gary, Ind., a riding mechanic, was killed when the car piloted by Frank McGurk of Los Angeles, plunged into the infield after a connecting rod broke at a speed of 120 miles an hour. McGurk suffered severe head lacerations and a broken arm.

Car Dives End Over End.

McGurk, who has a wide following on the dirt track circuits, was attempting to obtain one of the thirty-three starting positions, for which he was required to circle the two and a half mile oval ten times at an average of more than 105 miles an hour. He had completed four laps at 118 miles an hour when the racer left the track on the inside of the south turn, pitching end over end and throwing out its riders.

In an earlier accident, George Warford, 37 years old, of Indianapolis, a former driver and mechanic, was injured fatally when struck by a flaming racer, which hurled him over a three foot wall as it crashed into a parked speedster at the service pits on the track. Near death from this collision is Otto Rohde of Toledo, chief engineer of the Champion Spark Plug company, whose skull was fractured.

Fire Sweeps Over Driver.

Overton Phillips of Los Angeles, pilot of the flaming car, was traveling 110 miles an hour in a warmup spin when a crankshaft broke, disabling his brakes and caused a gasoline leak. The gasoline caught fire and flames swept the legs of the driver and his passenger, Walter King of Binghamton, N. Y., a mechanic out for a joy ride without authority from the American Automobile association, which rules the races.

Amid the blaze, Phillips lost control of his car and it headed for the pits, where a score of men were preparing other racers for qualifying runs. The fiery speedster crashed into another car.

Phillips was thrown thirty feet on to the brick track and suffered a broken ankle and internal injuries. King was burned, and his condition was reported serious.

Rohde, the spark plug engineer, who was working on the parked machine was hurled against the retaining wall. Tony Caccia of Bryn Mawr, Pa., a mechanic, also working at the pits, was pinched against the wall and both his legs were broken.

SOUTH CHICAGO MOB BATTLES POLICE; 24 HURT

A crowd of determined steel strikers marching on the South Chicago mill of the Republic Steel corporation was beaten back by police last evening after a sharp battle. Eighteen strikers were injured, three so seriously they required hospital treatment. Eighty-five policemen were on the scene before the end of the battle, but only about forty took part in the fight.

Six policemen were hurt, one of them struck on the head with the pole of an American flag carried at the head of the marchers. The police swung their riot clubs; the strikers used brickbats and their fists. Several shots were fired, but both sides denied using guns. No one was wounded by bullets.

22,000 Idle in Chicago.

The battle ended a desperate effort by the strikers to crush the one stronghold which has defied their efforts to shut all the Chicago district steel mills operated by the Republic, Inland, and Youngstown Sheet and Tube companies. Twenty-two thousand workers have been idle here since the strike was called Wednesday night, affecting plants of the three independent steel companies in five states.

In Youngstown, O., yesterday the Steel Workers' Organizing committee estimated that 77,240 workers were on strike of the 77,900 employed in all the mills. The Republic Steel corporation replied to these figures by pointing to six open hearth furnaces operating in its South Chicago plant and declared a thousand men were at work there.

Mob Inflamed at Meeting.

This South Chicago plant was the objective of the strikers who assembled yesterday afternoon in a hall at 9233 Houston avenue to hear denunciations of the Republic company and its loyal workmen, and also of the police, who have prevented massed picketing at the plant.

"We'll close that plant down," cried Joseph Germano, chairman of the meeting.

Inflamed by the oratory, the strikers formed a column and started marching toward the Republic plant at 118th street and Burley avenue. They carried banners demanding a Committee for Industrial Organization wage contract, the chief issue in the strike. There was a sprinkling of women in the crowd.

Outnumbered Police Retreat.

At 117th street and Green Bay avenue, a block and a half from the plant, the van of the marchers reached a police outpost, where ten policemen were on guard. These policemen formed a line across the street, then slowly retreated for about 50 yards as they saw they were outnumbered.

The first police reinforcements quickly arrived—twenty men from the force of guards on duty at the plant. The defenders then stood their ground at a point where the mob could get at them only on a narrow, street wide front.

The strikers' flag bearer struck one of the first blows, bringing the pole of his standard down on the head of Policeman Edward Opfer of the Gresham station. Fifty-five other policemen arrived and part of them were able to get into the fight on the narrow front. The strengthened police forces beat down the flag bearer with their clubs.

Throw Bricks at Police.

The strikers' column pushed doggedly at the police line. Those in the front ranks aimed blows and kicks at the plant's defenders. Marchers in the following ranks threw bricks and stones. Women screamed. Men shouted denunciations at the police.

But the police line held, and the battered front line of the attackers started to fall back. Soon the whole column was in retreat, carrying most of the injured back to strike headquarters. Later union officials announced that fifteen had been treated there.

The three men treated at hospitals were John Bauer, 26 years old, 9651 Avenue M, an employé of the South Chicago plant of the Youngstown company; Nato Morici, 52, of 11759 Burley avenue, a Republic company open hearth worker, and Ben Mitchess, 33, of 2111 Broadway, East Chicago, a machinist for the Youngstown company in that city.

Mitchess, who suffered a severe back injury, was taken to the Bridewell hospital. Bauer and Morici were the only other strikers arrested.

Mitchess was one of several hundred East Chicago strikers who participated in the riot. They had attended their own massmeeting early in the afternoon in Auditorium all, Michigan avenue and Grand boulevard, East Chicago. Speakers there exhorted them to join in a great demonstration against the Republic plant.

Besides Policeman Opfer, the injured defenders of the Republic plant were Policeman Elmer Kirk, 8059 Ellis avenue; Daniel Byrne, 9241 Clyde avenue; John Campbell, 7086 South Chicago avenue; Michael Neary, 7720 Langley avenue, and Bernard Harnisch, 9513 Avenue M.

Police Defenders Injured.

Kirk, who was kicked in the groin and also suffered a leg injury, and Byrne, whose left wrist was fractured, were the most seriously hurt. All the other policemen received cuts and bruises on the legs and hands. They were treated at the Republic plant's emergency hospital and at South Chicago hospital.

Capt. Thomas Kilroy of the East Chicago station stationed fifty more men at the entrance to the plant after the battle, but there was no more disorder during the evening. At union headquarters Germano announced the strikers would hold an indignation meeting at 2:30 p. m. Sunday.

"We protest against brutal police interference with a parade intended to be nothing more than peaceful picketing," he said.

Protest Follows New Clash.

His protest is the second made by the strikers as a result of clashes with the police at the Republic plant. The first occurred on Wednesday, when a score of strikers were arrested for mass picketing there. On Thursday Van A. Bittner, regional director of the steel workers organizing committee, sent a telegram to President Roosevelt protesting against the police action and demanding a federal investigation.

Bittner said union attorneys were at work yesterday preparing evidence in support of his charges. Today two of the principal attorneys for the C. I. O. will come to Chicago from Washington, D. C., to assist in pressing the case. They are Lee Pressman, counsel for the C. I. O., and Earl Houck, chief of the legal staf of the United Mine Workers of America.

Another call for a federal investigation was made yesterday in Youngstown by Philip Murray, S. W. O. C. chairman, who declared the Republic and Youngstown companies were both guilty of unfair labor practices.

Charges Plants Are Armed.

"The plants of Republic Steel corporation have stored within them all kinds of munitions of war, including guns, bombs, and shells," Murray said. "Orders obviously have gone out to shoot. The people will not long tolerate these vicious warlike tactics."

Murray's charges were contained in telegrams sent to Attorney General Homer Cummings, Chairman La Follette of the Senate civil liberties committee, and Gov. Martin L. Davey of Ohio, who said he hoped to bring company representatives and union leaders together next week.

Republic officials took news photographers through their South Chicago plant last night to show that it is still making steel. Frank J. Lauerman, director of public relations for the company, declared 1,000 men were at work, sleeping and eating in the plant.

East Chicago Hardest Hit.

The Chicago community most seriously affected by the strike is East Chicago, where both the Inland and Youngstown plants, employing 19,500 men, are closed. The city's total population of 55,000 is almost wholly supported by the steel mills' monthly pay roll of $2,550,000.

Mayor Andrew Rooney of East Chicago conferred with tavern keepers in his office during the day at the request of the strikers' executive committee. Union officials said many strangers had appeared in the city and they feared brawls might start and be blamed on the strikers if no restraint were placed on the sale of liquor.

The tavern keeprs promised to sell no liquor on credit and to make efforts to prevent intoxication.

Plan Demonstration Monday.

East Chicago union leaders announced they would hold a demonstration Monday morning in Washington park of that city. A feature of the program, they said, would be a ceremonious bonfire to burn letters received by Youngstown employés stating the company's position in the strike.

ILLINOIS REBEL MINERS' UNION JOINS A. F. OF L.

Progressives, Rivals of Lewis, Sign Up.

BULLETIN.

Cincinnati, O., May 28.—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor's executive council decided tonight to seek amendment of the administration wage and hour bill to fix minimum wages and maximum hours for men by collective bargaining standards.

Cincinnati, O., May 28.—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor accepted into membership today the Progressive Miners of America, rival to John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers in Illinois.

William Green, federation president, said the Progressives' charter covered their present membership and any other soft coal miners "who wish to become affiliated with them."

Joseph Ozanic, the Progressives' president, emphasized that the union was "not leaving Illinois for the time being."

Marks Struggle for Five Years.

The Progressives were admitted over the protest of officers of the Illinois Federation of Labor who said they wanted to shield both the A. F. of L. and the state federation from responsibility for the violence that has marked the struggle between the U. M. W. and the Progressives for the last five years.

Green, a member of the United Mine Workers since that union was organized in the early '90s, obviously was upset throughout the press conference at which he announced the council's action against Lewis.

"I'll answer these questions in my own way," he said when reporters professed not to understand just what jurisdiction the Progressives had been granted.

Calls Question Personal.

Asked whether he would leave the United Mine Workers local at his home town, Coshocton, O., and join the Progressives, he said:

"I refuse to answer that question because it's personal."

The United Mine Workers policy committee last February directed the U. M. W. executive board to take steps to oust Green from the union, but so far the board has taken no action on the order.

FOUR DAY WEEK TO SPREAD WORK AT FORD PLANT

Company Seeks to Avoid Seasonal Layoff.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., May 28.—[Special.]—The Ford Motor company went on a temporary four day week today at its great plant at Dearborn, Detroit suburb. The practice probably will be continued through June, Harry Bennett, personnel director of the company, said.

He explained the practice as designed to eliminate the layoffs which have been necessary during the slack summer production seasons of previour years and to spread work among all of the 90,000 employés at Dearborn.

Eventually it is expected, Henry Ford's principal counter offense against attempts of the United Automobile Workers, C. I. O. union, to organize his employés is expected to take the form of increased wages, reduced working hours, or both. This would be in line with his repeated contention that his employés can get as much from him directly as they can through union bargaining.

Scales Based on Year.

Officials of the company have refused consistently to confirm these reports, however. Wage and cost scales are based on a whole year's production, and the easiest time to put a new wage schedule into effect would be when production starts on a new model in the fall. The fall also is expected to see the U. A. W. campaign to organize the Ford plant at its height.

Duncan C. McCrea, Wayne county prosecutor, continued his threats today to prosecute the men who beat U. A. W. officials and several of their followers at the Ford plant Wednesday, if he can obtain identifications. He sent a letter to Bennett today demanding that he produce any Ford employés who appeared in newspaper photographs of the fighting.

One of the photographs showed that one of the men engaged in tussling with Richard T. Frankensteen and Walter P. Reuther, the two union leaders who were most severely beaten, had a pair of handcuffs dangling from his pocket. Bennett, denying that any of the service men employed in his personnel department carry handcuffs, suggested that the man might have been a Dearborn city policeman.

Denied by Police Chief.

This brought quick denials from John L. Carey, mayor of Dearborn, and his police chief, Carl A. Brooks.

Bennett has insisted that the men who fought with Frankensteen and Reuther were Ford production workers, angered at insults received from the union group, which went to the plant to pass out pamphlets and was accompanied by a group of witnesses.

The union has been just as insistent that the attack came from Bennett's service men. It is seeking the intervention of the national labor relations board and the La Follette senatorial committee, which had observers present at the fight.

Officials of the auto union met tonight to consider further attempts to spread their literature among Ford workers and denied the fight between Ford workers and union organizers was staged deliberately to cover failure of the union in its organizing campaign. A mass meeting for protest against Ford workers that had been scheduled for Tuesday was postponed.

ROBT. WIGGLESWORTH, WAR HERO, IS NAMED MELROSE PARK CHIEF

Robt. Wigglesworth.

Robert Wigglesworth, war veteran and lieutenant colonel of the 132d infantry, Illinois National Guard, was appointed chief of police of Melrose Park at a meeting of the village board last night. The appointment was made by Mayor Andy Frenzel. Col. Wigglesworth will take over his new duties on Tuesday, succeeding Chief Arthur S. Leeseberg. During the world war he won the American Distinguished Service Cross, the French Croix de Guerre with palm, and the Italian War Cross for Merit. He served as chief of the guides at A Century of Progress exposition. His home is at 7133 East End avenue.

Insurance Man, Ill, Ends Life with Bullet in Hotel

Harry Rockwell, 67 years old, an insurance man, shot and killed himself early today in his room in the Drexel Arms hotel, 3931 Drexel boulevard. There was a wound in his right temple. The revolver was near his body. Rockwell left $47 and a note to the hotel manager, C. E. Carlson, stating that the money was to pay for his room and garage rent. The note also apologized for his act. Police were told that Rockwell was a widower and a 32d degree Mason. He learned recently that he was suffering from a malignant illness.

Gerard Dons Short Pants Again and Bows to King

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 28.—James W. Gerard, President Roosevelt's envoy to the coronation of King George VI. of Great Britain, gave his knee pants another airing today when, with Joseph E. Davies, United States ambassador to Russia, and Commander William K. Harrill, assistant naval attaché, he attended King George's levee in St. James's palace. More than 1,000 male guests made a bow to the king in the throne room.

Mother of Slain Relief Case Worker Given $1,800

The Illinois Emergency Relief commission yesterday authorized payment of $1,800 to Mrs. H. M. Irwin as the result of the slaying two years ago of her daughter, Miss Alice Mae Irwin, a case worker for the IERC. Miss Irwin and another relief worker were shot and killed by a relief client who with his mother invaded the station at 54 West Chicago avenue. The crazed man then killed his mother and himself.

HEAD OF SCHOOLS STRIKES BACK AT POLITICS CHARGE

M'Cahey Points to Board's Achievements.

conditions, did pay up teachers' salaries and has kept them paid up ever since."

"The new buildings are being constructed in coöperation with the Public Works administration and all of the various branches of the work are let to individual contractors instead of letting all the work on a building to one general contractor, thus saving the usual 10 per cent profit of a general contractor.

"An engineering corps is in constant employment inspecting the schools, maintaining safe structures and protecting children. The efficiency of this service is attested by the fact that no accident of a serious nature has been reported in seven years, though there has been a daily school attendance of 500,000 children.

Finds No Basis for Contrast.

"Care in the planning of buildings, avoiding of waste of space, and rigid economy in expenditures has made it possible for the board to construct new school buildings at a lower cost per classroom than any other school buildings constructed in Chicago in the past twenty years. None of the buildings is insanitary or dirty."

"As to the charge that non-instructional costs are higher in Chicago than in some other cities, any reasonable person knows that conditions differ so much in different cities that it is impossible to find a basis for comparison. For example, electricity is paid for by the Chicago public schools and in certain other cities electricity is furnished the schools free. In many cities, labor in cheaper. Here we are obliged to employ skilled adult union labor.

"The board, of course, regrets that it has been unable to restore salaries to employés. Its ambition is to restore them as speedily as possible."

Attorney Bebb had pointed out that there were reports of political influence in recent examinations for principalships in the Chicago public schools and in the appointment of persons from the list of 155 who passed.

Political Influence Denied.

"With reference to these examinations," McCahey wrote, "they were held in strict accordance with the board rules adopted in 1929 on the recommendation of the late Superintendent of Schools William J. Bogan. Representatives from leading universities in and around Chicago were engaged to and did mark the papers.

"While no one challenges the qualifications of the successful candidates, innuendoes are made to the effect that their relationship to some person in public life might have had something to do with their success. Undoubtedly a vast majority of those who failed to pass are also related directly or indirectly to persons in public life.

"The board has adopted the policy of limiting examinations for promotions to advanced positions to those in the school system. The charge that this policy prevents new blood from coming into the system is farfetched and unfounded. Our critics forget that Chicago has a population larger than that of 38 of the 48 states in the union, and that new blood is constantly coming into the system by way of our own normal school. Moreover, persons residing outside the city are permitted to and do enter the normal school by way of examinations."

McCahey stated that every school board has been the object of attack for the past fifty years, and the present board is no exception.

Will Hold to Policy.

"But such attacks," he wrote, "will neither cause the board to deviate from its policy of operating the schools within its income and without curtailment of any educational advantage to any public school child, nor will it relinquish the responsibilities imposed upon it by law to those who without responsibility would substitute their judgment for that of the constituted authorities.

"Wittingly, or unwittingly, facts are garbled and distorted in both the magazine articles and the speech of Mrs. Simpson, and the circumstances surrounding the dissemination of the charges have convinced me that publicity rather than constructive criticism is the actuating motive."

William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools, has also been requested to attend the City club forum. Johnson is at Rochester, Minn., where his wife is ill. Attorney Bebb indicated yesterday that the club's invitations to the school board officials would be canceled.

JUSTICE SUTHERLAND TO QUIT U. S. SUPREME COURT, CAPITAL RUMOR

Washington, D. C., May 28.—[Special.]—Reports that Associate Justice George Sutherland may announce his retirement on June 2 when the Supreme court takes recess for the summer have created the hope among both proponents and opponents of the judicial reorganization bill that the present lull in the struggle will become permanent.

One report is that he will retire whenever the fight over enlargement of the court has been ended, by defeat, withdrawal, or passage of the bill. Another report, given greater credence, is that he has volunteered to announce his retirement whenever, in the judgment of Chief Justice Charles E. Hughes, it would best serve to block enlargement of the court.

AL SMITH LEFT WITHOUT WORDS BY CATACOMBS

ROME, May 28.—(AP)—Alfred E. Smith belied his own reputation as a maker of pungent phrases today and admitted that for the first time in his life he was at a loss for words.

The former governor of New York, commenting on his visit to the catacombs of Rome on his first trip to Europe, said:

"Words fail me—for the first time in my life. What can you say about them except that they are one of the most impressive sights in the world?"

appointments, with fees of $2,450. Still another "county committeeman, former assistant district attorney, now a Municipal court justice," received 19 appointments, with fees of $2,020.

Politicians dictate the selection of judges "primarily for their political service and value" and not for ability and fitness, and the judges in turn make lucrative political appointments, the committee asserted. The group would not put the onus on either the Democrats or the Republicans, although it was noted that, because of the fortunes of politics, most of the judges had been Democrats.

The committee summarized its findings as follows:

"1. During the year 1933 2,823 individuals received 15,858 appointments or earned commissions in mortgage foreclosures in the Supreme court, New York and Bronx counties. The great majority of these appointees were active workers for the major political organizations of the two counties.

"2. Fees totaling $1,713,472.73 were awarded by the judges of the court to the appointees, payable out of the foreclosure estate. At least $1,422,792 of this sum was sheer waste so far as any benefit or service to the plaintiff-mortgagee was concerned.

"3. In many cases fees were paid to appointees with the approval of the court which they had not earned and to which under clear principles of law they were not entitled."

"4. The majority of these appointees were known by the judge or other person appointing them to be actual political workers."

Only 10 Per Cent Left.

In its study the committee discovered that in 305 out of 896 cases in New York county, where the receiver acted [more than 34 per cent], the final payment to the mortgagee was less than 10 per cent of the gross income during the receivership. In the Bronx this happened in 193 out of 503 cases, substantially 39 per cent.

"Bad as these figures are," said the committee, "the breakdown makes them even worse, because in more than half these cases the plaintiff either got nothing or actually had to meet a deficit."

4,000 DOCK WORKERS SEIZE SAN PEDRO IN ANGER OVER SLAYING

San Pedro, Cal., May 28.—[Special.]—Enraged over the slaying of a longshoreman by a policeman, a mob of 4,000 irate marine workers held control of this harbor city for a time today, defying extra police to stop them.

Street car service was interrupted and nearly every business house in the waterfront area was closed while the angry demonstrators milled about. They finally moved over to Wilmington bowl for a mass meeting.

WIN ROOSEVELT CONCESSIONS TO END RELIEF JAM

Compromise Appears in Earmarking Fight.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 28.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt was forced to make substantial concessions to the coalition of easy money blocs in the house of representatives today in order to break the deadlock on the 1 billion 500 million dollar relief appropriation bill precipitated by the earmarking of 505 millions for miscellaneous pork.

No final agreement had been reached tonight, but the negotiations had proceeded far enough to assure a compromise satisfactory to the earmarking blocs, who revolted against writing a $1,500,000,000 blank check for WPA Administrator Harry L. Hopkins to spend and voted to cut his salary from $12,000 to $10,000 a year. The $505,000,000 which the house has voted to earmark includes $150,000,000 for public roads, $45,000,000 for flood control, $10,000,000 for ponds in drouth areas, and $300,000,000 for the Public Works administration.

Administration Concessions.

So far the administration has been forced to make the following concessions:

1. President Roosevelt will rescind his recent executive order whereby the government stopped making 45 per cent grants on PWA projects and agreed to pay only the actual cost of the relief labor that could be used, plus 15 per cent. This order virtually put an end to PWA's activities, because very little relief labor can be used on heavy construction projects.

2. The administration has agreed to finance, on the old 45 per cent grant basis, all PWA projects for which municipalities and other political subdivisions have held bond elections and levied taxes to pay for their share. There are 597 such projects and the government's share will be $52,264,000.

3. The administration has agreed to carry out on the old 45 per cent grant basis all PWA school building projects intended to replace fire hazards. The government's share in this category will be $79,884,000.

It was apparent also that the administration would be forced to make some concession on flood control beyond the items totaling $52,500,000 that are recommended in the budget and carried in the pending appropriation bill for nonmilitary activities of the war department.

President Roosevelt already has promised Representative William M. Whittington [D., Miss.] that he would approve additional flood control projects totaling $11,000,000 on the lower Mississippi, but the flood control bloc is insisting on $22,000,000 more.

To avoid making appropriations outside the budget, which might obligate them to support new tax legislation, the earmarking blocs in the house submitted to Majority Leader Sam Rayburn of Texas a proposition to accommodate their demands with an unexpended balance of $223,000,000 which Hopkins will have on hand at the close of this fiscal year. By his own admission, they declared, he does not need more than 1½ billion dollars to spend on his relief projects during the 1938 fiscal year.

Terms of Proposal.

The proposal submitted to Rayburn was that $223,000,000 be taken away from Hopkins and divided as follows: PWA, $134,000,000; flood control, $22,000,000, and highway, $67,000,000. Rayburn will discuss the proposition with the President tomorrow.

Leaders of the earmarking blocs, however, frankly stated that they didn't expect anything to be done about highways. Representative Wilburn Cartwright [D., Okla.], the highway advocate, left the city today and other bloc leaders—Representative Alfred F. Beiter [D., N. Y.], PWA, and Representative Joseph Starnes [D., Ala.], flood control—didn't go out of their way to take care of him. They found difficult to answer the administration's argument that $165,000,000 already has been appropriated this year for road construction and that authorizations of $214,000,000, on the basis of which state highway commissioners can begin making contracts July 1, have been made.

President Roosevelt declined to discuss the house rebellion at his press conference today. However, he did say that the earmarking of $505,000,000 for flood control, public works, and road building would provide jobs for only 100,000 persons, whereas, if spent on WPA projects, it would provide jobs for 635,000 persons.

The house earmarkers countered with statements that relief labor could be used on flood control and road building projects.

CATHOLICS WIDEN CHURCH "STAY IN" STRIKE IN MEXICO

NOGALES, Sonora, Mexico, May 28.—(AP)—A "stay in" strike by which Catholics hope to force the Mexican government to reopen their long closed churches spread today throughout the state of Sonora.

More than 100 worshipers continued to occupy pews of the Nogales cathedral, the doors of which they broke open last night.

From interior cities of Sonora state came reports that similar demonstrations were in progress at other churches, padlocked several years ago in a dispute between church and state.

The religious strikers here declared they would remain in the church until the government returned the property to church officials.

Bishop Juan Navarette of Sonora arrived today and appointed Father Ignacio de la Torre pastor of the Nogales cathedral.

Food and bedding were taken into the church for those who announced they would remain until the government relents.

Local authorities made no effort to dislodge the worshipers.

ROOSEVELT DONS SUMMER ATTIRE; HE'S FEELING FIT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 28.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt blossomed out in summer attire today. He put on a gray seersucker suit, a soft white shirt and a blue and white checked bow tie.

He reported himself feeling fit and fully recovered from the slight cold which kept him in his study for three days. Dr. Ross T. McIntire, White House physician, said there was no reason why the President should not make his planned visit to his mother at Hyde Park, N. Y., over the week-end.

PRESIDENT ASKS LAW TO THWART BIG TAX DODGERS

Congress Plans Inquiry on Evasions.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 28.—[Special.]—Congressional leaders tonight voiced approval of President Roosevelt's determination to press against "immoral and unethical avoidance" and evasion of federal taxes by the wealthy.

At his press conference Mr. Roosevelt said he will suggest a course of action soon, probably in a special message to congress, to plug loop holes in federal revenue laws through which millions of dollars is being diverted from the treasury to the pockets of wealthy tax dodgers.

Estimates 400 Millions Lost.

On Capitol hill the presidential lashing of tax evaders was taken as an indication he will demand a congressional investigation. Mr. Roosevelt will present his demand for action after he and Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau complete a study of individual cases being compiled by Undersecretary Roswell S. McGill.

Chairman Robert L. Doughton [Dem., N .C.] of the house ways and means committee asserted that "rich taxpayers" succeeded in forcing the reduction of more than 400 million dollars in the revenue estimates of last January by finding loopholes in the present law.

"There is no doubt that the difference between a balanced budget as proposed in January by the President and the present discrepancy of more than 400 millions is due to tax evasions by the rich," Doughton said.

Charges Loopholes Invented.

Doughton expressed himself as favoring a presidential approved inquiry into tax evasion.

The President said that most of the evasions reported to him thus far involve men of wealth. The study has not embraced corporations because most corporations have asked for time extensions on filing 1936 tax returns.

The individuals, the President said, have escaped taxes of millions of dollars by "inventing" loopholes. He defended his phrase by citing what he termed immoral and unethical evasion through such a loophole.

He cited an unnamed man who owns a yacht which costs $100,000 a year to operate. The yacht is run obviously for the man's personal enjoyment, and the committee of congress in formulating income tax laws naturally supposed such yachts were being paid for out of owner's income, Mr. Roosevelt said.

The unnamed man, it was discovered, incorporated his yacht turning over to the corporation some 3 million dollars in securities. The income went to paying the crew and absorbed depreciation of the yacht. The corporation leased the yacht back to the owner for $100 a year.

REACH PACT ON 3 YEARS MORE OF YOUTH CAMPS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 28.—[Special.]—Senate and house conferees handling the Civilian Conservation Corps extension bill agreed today on a compromise limiting the life of that organization to three years.

This was regarded as a victory for the house managers, as the house, in defiance of President Roosevelt's demand to make the CCC permanent, had voted to extend it only for two years. The senate had passed a permanent extension bill.

Nazis Unleash Vicious Attack on Roman Catholic Church

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 28.—The religious feud raging in Germany entered a new era of fanaticism tonight, the like of which Germany has not witnessed since the thirty years' war. New fuel was added to the flames by Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, German minister of propaganda, who sent an audience of 18,000 persons packed into Deutschland Halle into a frenzy of excitement with a vicious attack upon the Roman Catholic church. He reiterated Nazi charges of immorality against priests and monks imprisoned in Germany.

Paul Joseph Goebbels.

The Nazi leader's diatribe was an answer to a recent speech by Cardinal George Mundelein of Chicago, who referred to Reichsfuehrer Hitler as an "Austrian paper hanger, and a poor one at that," and to Goebbels as "crooked." Cardinal Mundelein also charged that the recent immorality trials of Catholics in Germany "made wartime atrocity stories look like bedtime tales."

Crowd Screams "Hang Them."

Goebbels, who was born a Catholic and once was a star pupil of the Jesuit order, hurled horrible charges of sexual perversion against Catholic clergymen. His audience greeted these accusations with screams of "Hang them!" "Out with them!" and "Starve the dogs!" The speech also was heard by millions of persons over a nation-wide radio hookup.

The propaganda minister demanded that Catholic attacks against the Nazi régime be stopped, both at home and abroad. Should they continue, he threatened drastic measures against the church.

"Should the truth about the trials of sexual criminals be doubted once more by a high Catholic office in Germany or abroad," he shouted, "then we know how to meet these doubts with most effective, drastic measures. We shall compel some of the very high persons of the clergy to reply under oath before a court—and refusal to testify will not be tolerated."

Hits Mundelein Charges.

Goebbels began his speech with a reference to the charges made by Cardinal Mundelein.

"A Catholic cardinal in America named Mundelein," he said, "made a speech in which he insulted Der Fuehrer in an indescribable manner and in which he called me the 'crooked propaganda minister' who staged the trials of sexual criminals to harm and persecute the Catholic church.

"This is a personal attack. Our régime is accused of the worst possible crime a government can commit —an open violation of laws for egotistical purposes. I therefore feel compelled to answer.

"The Catholic church for years has been attacking the state and party in pastoral letters bemoaning moral decline, criticizing methods of education which are healthy and not prudish, and deploring conditions in the Hitler Youth. It measures the length of bathing togs of boys and girls at play to show up by inches how low our morals have sunk. What hypocrisy, in view of the moral disintegration of Catholic monasteries and wide circles of the Catholic church!

Says Germans Inspired Attack.

"Mundelein's attack comes from a foreign country, but the persons who inspired it are in Germany, as can be proved. They belong to the circles hit directly by the trials in German courts."

Goebbels, who said he spoke not only in the name of the government but "in the name of thousands of decent priests," then charged the German Catholic clergy with misinforming the foreign public by seeking to create the impression that immorality cases in Germany were few in number and that the many priests arrested in Germany were held for political reasons.

"The situation in Germany," he cried, "is not a case of individual acts, but of a general decadence of morals more shocking than anything that can be observed in the entire history of humanity. What is printed in the newspapers is only infinitesimal as compared with the hair raising demoralization of morals that actually has occurred."

Cites Nazi Blood Purge.

Goebbels charged that the leaders of the church had done nothing to remedy the alleged conditions in Catholic monasteries, which made it necessary for the state to act. He then proceeded to list specific cases of what he called ecclesiastical immorality, going into much unsavory detail.

The propaganda minister referred to the Nazi blood purge of 1934, in which Hitler had some of his best friends killed. Sixty men were "summarily shot because they tried to introduce perversion into the Nazi party," he said. He cited this as evidence that the Nazis do their own housecleaning.

"If you ask why trials of similar offenders in other walks of life are not public," he said, "I reply—because no other calling or profession hitherto has presumed to condone such swinish conduct, and because in no other calling was immorality so rampant as among those under discussion.

Threatens to Drive Out Clergy.

"It can happen sometimes that a teacher or perhaps a soldier can be drawn into such an affair. But never would the teachers' association or the army then characterize the criminals as martyrs."

The audience shouted, "Abolish it!"

Goebbels continued with a threat of widespread expulsions of Catholic clergymen from Germany. He quoted Napoleon's threat to close the monasteries and drive the Jesuits and monks from France as a warning that similar measures might be taken in Nazi Germany.

Cardinal Mundelein Silent on Dr. Goebbels' Attack

Cardinal Mundelein, reached at St. Mary of the Lake seminary last night, was asked if he had any comment to make on Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels' attack on him yesterday in Berlin. The cardinal said he would not reply to Dr. Goebbels nor comment, at this time, at least, on the dispute between the Catholic church and Nazi Germany.

$35,000 VERDICT UPSET; NEW TRIAL IS WON BY CITY

Hot Charges Fly in Debate on Injury Suit.

Judge William J. Wimbiscus of Spring Valley, sitting in the Circuit court, late yesterday granted the city's motion for a new trial of a $35,000 personal injury verdict which had precipitated an exchange of serious charges between the city's legal staf and the plaintif's attorney.

Judge W. J. Wimbiscus.

Because of the nature of these charges Judge Wimbiscus declared it is better for a new jury and a new judge to pass on the merits of the case. In reviewing the evidence, however, he indicated his belief that the jury's award was not excessive or improper in view of the injuries suffered.

Visiting Judges Accused.

Country judges, aiding the crowded court dockets here, have been accused by Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes of permitting unwarranted personal injury verdicts against the city. Recently several visiting judges refused to sit further in the Superior court because of this dispute.

Corporation Counsel Hodes based his motion on alleged new evidence, including a motion picture film, purporting to show that the verdict winner misrepresented his injuries. The latter's lawyer countered with charges that a member of the corporation counsel's office was improperly involved in a proposed settlement of the judgment.

Faints in Courtroom.

Toward the close of the hearing yesterday Claude Wayland, 51 years old, 640 Wrightwood avenue, winner of the judgment, fainted as he started to rise from his courtroom seat.

Wayland's wife, Blanche, contended his condition was an outgrowth of injuries suffered when he stumbled over a defective sidewalk in front of 4157 Archer avenue on Nov. 8. Wayland charged that his eyesight and hearing were permanently impaired and that he cannot walk without the aid of his wife or a cane.

After the verdict was returned on March 25, Mr. Hodes put investigators on Wayland's trail, armed with a motion picture camera.

Picture Lasts 53 Seconds.

The courtroom was filled with an interested crowd yesterday for the première of the picture. But, according to spectators, the picture did not live up to its billing.

Attorney Irving G. Zazove, a personal injury lawyer, who represented Wayland, then began his arguments.

This store and our stores in Evanston, Oak Park and Lake Forest will be closed all day on Monday, May 31, in observance of Memorial Day.

BRIDE'S DELETION

By CALEB

AN out of town bride-to-be came to our Wedding Bureau recently with only three days to shop here. Her schedule, she said, provided that and three days in New York, following which trip East she would return home for her marriage the following week.

Her first day here she was escorted to the linen section where deliberately and with professional help and advice she selected linens of all kinds.

The second day she selected her entire trousseau. Carefully she considered suits and dresses and hats and lingerie, and one by one she bought some of all these things so important to the wardrobe of one about to embark on the marital venture. Next came her wedding gown and veil.

Thanks to rapid movement and swift accomplishment, two days covered so much ground that on the third day the bride-to-be returned for a permanent wave and a facial, after which she was dressed in her altered wedding gown and was photographed by our own portrait studio photographer in our Wedgwood Room.

By the end of the third day when she was due to have left for New York, the intention to take that trip had entirely left her mind. That evening she took the train for home, considering her shopping well and completely done. And thus was New York deleted.

And she knew what a great store can stand for in the way of helping prepare for important occasions. Without skilled assistance on the part of people who intimately know our stocks from section to section and who can answer all questions of etiquette and formality and procedure and tradition and convention, an individual shopper would require twice the time and be half as well assured of propriety in many things.

REBEL BOMBERS KILL 200 IN AIR RAID ON VALENCIA

Red Cross Hospital Hit; Buildings in Ruins.

VALENCIA, Spain, May 28.—(AP)—Gen. Francisco Franco's Fascist rebel war planes roared in from the sea in a surprise dawn attack today, killing an estimated 200 persons, bombing ships in the harbor and demolishing buildings.

Scene of rebel air raid indicated by arrow.

Seven members of the crew were killed and eight injured when bombs dropped by the air raiders struck the Cabin, a merchant ship flying the British flag.

The British freighter Pinzon, anchored in the harbor, was struck by another bomb which failed to explode, causing slight damage to the ship's bridge. There were no casualties.

The British embassy here said the Pinzon was "the only British ship" damaged during the air raid. The Cabin is not listed in Lloyds' register and its ownership and nationality remained a mystery.

Bomb Red Cross Hospital.

The Spanish government's air ministry announced that government planes had bombed and machine gunned the rebel airport at Soria, destroying nearly fifty planes.

At least fifty buildings were demolished in the rebel raid on this Mediterranean seaport, to which the Spanish cabinet fled last Nov. 7 to escape the siege of Madrid. Observers said the attacking planes were of Italian manufacture.

The Red Cross emergency hospital, identified by a huge red cross painted on its roof and with a Red Cross flag at the front of the building, was struck by a bomb.

The planes dropped ninety bombs on the sleeping city. The terrific explosions blew men, women, and children from their beds. Panic gripped the city for hours.

Americans Periled by Bombs.

Several Americans were endangered, but no American casualties were reported. Milton K. Wells, American consul, was caught in a rain of débris in his home, but escaped unhurt. Norman Thomas, United States Socialist leader, his wife, and a group of Americans were housed a few hundred feet from where three bombs fell. The American embassy was untouched by explosions, but the building in which it is housed was damaged.

A bomb demolished the building housing the Paraguayan consulate and killed seven of its occupants, but the consul and his family escaped injury.

Norman Thomas, describing the air raid as "diabolical," said he would take a first hand report to President Roosevelt. He added that he would urge the President to take a firmer stand against what he termed a German-Italian "war against Spanish women and children," and for greater American aid to the Spanish republic.

Several foreign diplomats in Valencia decided to move their residences from the city to the nearby countryside.

Franco Exiles Fascist Leader.

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Border, May 28.—(AP)—Gen. Francisco Franco was reported tonight to have tightened his grip on rebel held portions of Spain by ordering the exile of the one time leader of the powerful Fascist falange, Manuel Hedilla.

Dispatches reaching the border said Hedilla was seized and imprisoned on what amounted to a treason charge when Franco converted the rebel controled parts of the country into a single authoritarian state on April 19, with himself as sole leader.

Franco's action came as Basque sources reported that government troops defending Bilbao had killed 200 rebels and recaptured some positions near Orduna, 22 miles south of Bilbao. The rebels said the Basques had set fire to Orduna, preparatory to retreat.

Spare Lives of 3 Germans.

BILBAO, Spain, May 28.—(AP)—The Basque autonomous government, after negotiations with the rebels through Valencia, agreed today to exchange four foreign prisoners, including three German airmen condemned to death, for three government aviators and a fourth person now in a rebel war prison.

SPAIN APPEALS TO LEAGUE; HALT DUCE AND HITLER

Envoy Hits Invasion by Fascist Nations.

GENEVA, May 28.—(AP)—Julio Alvarez del Vayo, Spanish government delegate, charged before the league of nations council today that Italian armed forces in Spain were "a veritable army of occupation."

He accused both Germany and Italy of "criminal invasion" of Spain, in violation of the league covenant. He accused German air raiders of the destruction of Guernica, Basque holy city, which was razed on April 26, with a reported loss of 800 lives. Spanish government and rebel authorities have disputed responsibility for the devastation.

Hits "Humanizing of War."

Alvarez del Vayo made no specific request of the council. But he appealed indirectly for the league to act to end intervention by what he called "totalitarian" states.

"Those who nobly concern themselves with generous endeavors known as 'humanizing the war,'" the Spanish delegate insisted, "must learn that the best way to humanize war is to stop it.

"If the league of nations is to have a future, the struggle in Spain cannot end without the league adopting a clear, firm position. This is the league's last chance to do so."

Alvarez del Vayo charged that from 70,000 to 80,000 Italian fighters have invaded Spain.

Italy Protests Bombing.

LONDON, May 28.—(AP)—An Italian charge that a Spanish government airplane bombed an Italian warship off Spain, killing six seamen and wounding seven, was laid before the international nonintervention committee today. The Italian delegation said the vessel, the auxiliary ship Barletta, was serving in the international patrol designed to keep foreign volunteers and war materials out of Spain. The accusation again snarled the work of the 27 nation neutrality group.

Russia Sets Terms for Truce.

MOSCOW, May 28.—(AP)—Soviet Russia informed the British government tonight that it agrees in principle to a truce in Spain, but insists that the Spanish rebels must first cease all hostilities and withdraw all foreign troops, including Moors.

HELM OF BRITAIN QUIETLY TAKEN BY CHAMBERLAIN

He Makes Over Cabinet Left by Baldwin.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 28.—A reconstructed and much shaken up cabinet of twenty-one members presided over by lanky, dour Neville Chamberlain as prime minister, took over the reins of the government of the United Kingdom tonight at a privy council held by King George VI. of Great Britain in Buckingham palace, where the cabinet kissed his hand and was sworn in.

Chamberlain, who is 68 years old, will present his new cabinet to the house of commons on Monday. The commons adjourned early today in view of the governmental changes.

The first act of the new prime minister was to propose an earldom for Stanley Baldwin, who early this morning drove to Buckingham palace and handed in his resignation as prime minister. Baldwin, who is 69 years old, will become an earl in a new honors list. Today the king awarded him membership in the Most Noble Order of the Garter [generally recognized as first order in the world, established in 1348].

The Moving Gets Under Way.

Later this afternoon Kingbuster Baldwin and Mrs. Baldwin, who was made a dame grand cross of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire, set out for Chequers and the Neville Chamberlains began moving into their quarters at 10 Downing street, home of British prime ministers.

The position of prime minister does not exist officially. Chamberlain officially today was sworn in a first lord of the treasury, but tradition apart, he is top dog in the new cabinet.

Walter Runciman, retiring president of the board of trade, who left the cabinet with today's shifts, was named a viscount in the day's honors.

Today's governmental changes took place without any show or ostentation and the goings and comings of ministers between Whitehall and Buckingham palace passed off unnoticed by the crowds.

Considerable Reorganization.

In the newly revamped cabinet three main figures will be missing—Baldwin, Runciman, and J. Ramsay MacDonald, former prime minister and lately lord president of the council—but the rest of the list remains the same more or less in personnel, although the ministers have been shifted by Chamberlain from one place to another.

Unchanged is the position of Capt. Anthony Eden, who, still less than 40 years old, remains head of the foreign office.

A surprise was the shifting of Sir Samuel Hoare to the home office from his berth as first lord of the admiralty, and his replacement at the admiralty by Alfred Duff Cooper, secretary of state for war.

As expected Sir John Simon, formerly home secretary, became chancellor of the exchequer. Oliver Stanley, formerly president of the board of education, took Runciman's place as president of the board of trade, while former Transport Minister Leslie Hore-Belisha went to the war ministry to replace Cooper.

Fifteen Conservatives.

In the new cabinet there will be fifteen Conservatives, four National Liberals, and two National Laborites.

Chamberlain was called to the palace this morning after Baldwin had presented his resignation to the king after a forty-five minute audience. Chamberlain also talked for forty-five minutes with the king and agreed to take the office. At 4:30 o'clock this afternoon Chamberlain went back to the palace with the list of his new cabinet members and later all the ministers, new and old, gathered at the privy council meeting to be sworn in and receive their seals of office.

Prime Minister Joseph Savage of New Zealand, E. Lapointe, Canadian minister of justice, and the duke of Kent, brother of the king, also attended the privy council meeting.

HOLLYWOOD STUDIO MAKEUP EXPERT WINS DIVORCE IN CHICAGO

Mrs. Hazel Herron Lynch was granted an uncontested divorce yesterday on grounds of cruelty from Thomas Lynch, assistant cashier of the Borough Manhattan National bank in New York. Mrs. Lynch, who is 28 years old, has been living with her mother, Mrs. Jean Herron, at 536 Roscoe street. Both testified to acts of cruelty. The Lynches were married Feb. 10, 1934, and separated Aug. 22 the same year. After the hearing Mrs. Lynch left for Hollywood, where she is employed as a studio makeup expert.

Reveal Press Arrangements.

The announcement brought home to the couple the realization that England will never accept their marriage, and at best will only regard it as a sort of morganatic union.

It is presumed that Mrs. Warfield will automatically be known after her marriage as "her grace, the duchess of Windsor."

Meanwhile as preparations for Thursday's wedding ceremony went ahead, the propaganda duel back of the greatest romance of this age was illustrated in arrangements announced for press coverage of the marriage.

The arrangements are that five correspondents will witness the ceremony and that all other correspondents—about 200, according to most estimates—will be given an account of the proceedings by these five.

The five correspondents who actually will cover the wedding are writers for Reuters, Ltd., a British agency; the Havas agency of France, and the three big American agencies, the Associated Press, United Press, and International News Service.

This list is the outcome of nearly two weeks of negotiations and represents a compromise between the desire of the British government to muffle publicity on the wedding and the desire of the inmates of the Château de Cande to give wide but carefully directed publicity to the ceremony, emphasizing the agreeable qualities of the principals.

COMMONS VOTES TO MAKE DIVORCE EASIER IN BRITAIN

Lords Expected to Pass Bill Extending Grounds.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 28.—A quarter of a century's battle to humanize England's antiquated divorce law ended today when the house of commons passed a bill to permit the granting of a decree on grounds of desertion for three years, insanity for five years, or cruelty. The only legal ground now is adultery.

The house of lords is expected to pass the bill and it is to become operative on Jan. 1.

The commons' action today was a triumph particularly for Alan Patrick Herbert, humorist-politician, who said in his maiden speech in the house a year and a half ago that he would crusade until the indecent, hypocritical, cruel, and unjust marriage laws of this country were reformed.

Assailed as Destructive.

Sir Patrick Hannon, Conservative, declared that the reform measure struck at the very structure of family life, and thirty-seven diehards persisted in voting against it. The vote for it was 190.

The bill, known officially as the marriage bill, for fear the word "divorce" would alarm the Conservatives, is said to give a chance for freedom to more than 100,000 persons in this country who have been deserted by husband or wife or who have grievances other than adultery.

The new measure forbids any divorce during the first five years of marriage, but it is believed the house of lords may eliminate that clause.

To get the reform through, the sponsors of the bill had to compromise and drop three major points. Two of these were the omission of habitual drunkenness and life imprisonment as grounds for divorce.

Retain the King's Proctor.

The third was abolition of the present six months' probation period, when the king's proctor—the official guardian of divorce candidates' morals—may intervene at any time on any one's accusation to prevent final divorce. That is what was attempted once in the case of Mrs. Wallis Warfield [Simpson] though it failed for lack of basis.

One result of the new law, the sponsors have said, will be to cut down the number of illegitimate births. Under present law, with no divorce for desertion, many couples live together unmarried.

Of 26,000 illegitimate births registered here, about half were to women with previous legitimate children, according to Sir Arnold Wilson. He declared the law will bring a steady decline in illegitimate births.

It was officially sponsored for technical reasons by Rupert de la Bere, though really it is the brain child of Herbert, member of parliament for Oxford university and an editor of Punch. He headed the band that faced down what one member today called "clerical intimidation" and fought the bill through aided by De la Bere and Mrs. M. C. Tate.

Stops Against Fence

A driverless runaway taxicab, pursued in Roosevelt road and Michigan avenue by a host of pedestrians and other cab drivers, finally was captured when it crashed into a picket fence near the Illinois Central station yesterday after it had slightly injured a woman and upset a newspaper stand.

Louis Jenkins, 2123 North Clark street, driver of the cab, parked it at a stand just north of East 11th place, facing south on the west side of Michigan avenue. He left the ignition key on and the engine in gear, and when Earl Miller, 3546 Ellis avenue, driver of another cab, nudged the machine to make room to park the motor started.

Jenkins, Miller, and many pedestrians took up the chase. Mrs. Margaret O'Leary, 28 years old, 8050 Drexel boulevard, is the woman who was knocked down and injured. The cab went in a circle around the Michigan-Roosevelt intersection until it turned and struck the fence.

SEEKS TO HAVE A YEAR CUT OFF CAPONE'S TERM

A petition seeking to remove one year from the eleven year sentence imposed six years ago by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson on Al Capone, gang chief of the prohibition era, was filed with the United States District court yesterday by a new set of attorneys representing Capone's mother, Mrs. Theresa Capone. The 11th year is to be served in the Cook county jail after the termination of a ten year sentence Capone is now serving at Alcatraz prison for income tax evasion. In the petition filed yesterday the attorneys sought to void the Cook county jail sentence on the grounds that counts 13 and 18 of the indictment against Capone were improperly drawn.

HOLD 3D STATE WEED CONTROL DEMONSTRATION

Ottawa, Ill., May 28.—[Special.]—More than 100 farmers, highway officials, and township weed commissioners took part in Illinois' third weed control demonstration held on the S. A. Buckingham farm, four miles northwest of here, today.

The meeting was directed by L. A. Moore of the state department of agriculture, C. E. Gates, La Salle county farm adviser, and J. C. Hackleman of the University of Illinois in connection with the state-wide weed eradication campaign being conducted by J. H. Lloyd, director of agriculture at Springfield.

Gets 8 Days in Jail for Driving While Tipsy

Harold Donnagh, 41 years old, 5710 Broadway, was sentenced to serve eight days in the county jail by Judge George B. Weiss in the Safety court yesterday, on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

George Nubbie, 39 years old, 1421 West 14th street, whose automobile crashed against the rear of another machine waiting for the trafic light at Ashland avenue and Roosevelt road on Thursday, was sentenced to five days on a charge of reckless driving.

WINS PROBATION AFTER 4 TRIALS FOR AUTO DEATHS

Ernest Schneider, 39 years old, 1435 North Wells street, was granted a year's probation yesterday on his plea of guilty to manslaughter by Chief Justice Michael L. McKinley in the Criminal court, ending the oldest case on the Criminal court calendar.

Schneider had been tried four times on charges arising from a motor accident in which Samuel Cohen, 1321 South Spaulding avenue, and John Kochanick, 1942 Cleveland avenue, were killed on Dec. 23, 1933. Twice the Supreme court reversed a guilty verdict on grounds that the evidence was controversial, once there was a mistrial, and in the fourth trial the jury disagreed.

Schneider entered his plea of guilty last week. Judge McKinley held that Schneider had suffered sufficiently, but warned him that under the terms of his probation if he misbehaves or takes a drink he will face a prison sentence of one to fourteen years.

PAROLED CONVICT IN STOLEN TAXI KILLS MAN AFOOT

Captured When He Flees Scene on Foot.

A paroled convict from Michigan, joy riding in a stolen Yellow cab, struck and killed a pedestrian in front of 3901 Sheridan road last night and was then captured by police. He is Kenneth Hodgson, 29 years old, who was paroled, according to his story, from the state prison at Ionia, Mich., a year ago while serving a 10 year sentence for auto theft.

Hodgson topped a night of heavy drinking by driving away in the cab of William Stacey, 1649 Pratt boulevard, while Stacey was buying a paper at Grace street and Broadway. Then he started a drunken drive through north side streets, finally turning north in Sheridan road.

Meanwhile his victim, William Knack, 49 years old, 2520 Wood street, River Grove, a shipping clerk and married, was struck when he started across Sheridan road to escort Miss Diana Kramer, 839 Sheridan road, across the street. Hodgson then drove to Dakin street, where he got out and ran. He was seized by Park Policeman Robert Shaw after a short chase.

Week Old Injuries Fatal.

Peter C. Mergenthaler, 60 years old, 6912 South Michigan avenue, who was struck by an automobile a week ago while crossing Vincennes avenue at 69th street, died yesterday in St. Bernard's hospital. Louis Smith, 67 years old, 8529 Givins court, driver of the car, was notified by the Englewood police to attend the inquest today.

William Caverness, 36 years old, 1846 South Cicero avenue, one of five men injured when two automobiles in which they were riding collided at Kostner avenue and Cermak road last Saturday, died yesterday in St. Anthony's hospital.

Two Others Dead of Injuries.

Montague Norton, 28 years old, 4446 Indiana avenue, died yesterday in the County hospital from injuries suffered on May 24 when he was struck by a car driven by Henry Goins, 24, colored, 344 East 43d street, at 4357 Indiana avenue. Goins is held by the Wabash avenue police.

Evelyn Ruth Workman, 11 years old, 21 George street, Barrington, died yesterday in the Sherman hospital in Elgin from injuries suffered Tuesday when an automobile knocked down her bicycle in East Main street near the Barrington city limits. The car was driven by Paul Zidek, of Barrington.

Harold C. Joy, 50 years old, of Glen Ellyn, member of the real estate department of the First National bank, was injured late yesterday when his automobile collided with a Booth Fisheries truck in Roosevelt road, south of Lombard. Albert Gordon, 30, the truck driver, 4916 North Albany avenue, received only a scratch.

Up to 5 p. m. yesterday 430 persons had been killed in trafic accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1, according to the coroner's office. During the same period 335 were killed and 8,144 injured by automobiles in Chicago.

KILLED IN FALL FROM LADDER.

Charles Klemme, 58 years old, 1534 Cortland street, Chicago Heights, died yesterday in St. James hospital from injuries suffered when he fell from a ladder while working on a garage at the rear of his home.

INSURRECTION ON CAPITOL HILL.

Majority Leader Sam Rayburn in the national house of representatives was compelled to confess in the face of uncontrollable disorder that Democratic leadership over the majority had broken down.

"Our tempers are such," he said in addressing the house, "and the atmosphere is so violent that reasonable legislation is impossible. We are badly split."

He asked that discussion of the question which was causing the trouble be dropped and it was so ordered. The trouble was the administration's bill appropriating a billion and a half dollars to Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator, to spend as he pleases. The opposition Democrats were determined to earmark at least half a billion of this sum and specify the purposes for which it was to be used.

Congress is supposed to make specific appropriations and the duty of the controller general is to see that the vouchers are in accordance with the specifications of the appropriation. Mr. Roosevelt's first congress broke down this protective requirement by giving him unheard of sums in a lump, to use as he pleased. The revolt against this now in the house need not be examined for very high or unselfish motives. The members all come up for reëlection next year and many of the Democrats have lost the approval of the White House.

The relief money is the largest campaign fund available in manipulating elections. In giving Mr. Hopkins even a billion dollars some of the congressmen may find themselves opposed in the primaries by the federal funds they voted to appropriate. All the congressmen would like to have their constituents understand that some of the benefits received from federal spending are to be attributed to them and not solely to the administration. That was the idea which made the staves and the hoops of the old pork barrel when it was of the modest dimensions known to the politicians of some ten or fifteen years ago.

Fortunately a revolt does not have to be idealistically motivated to tend towards excellent objectives. When legislative virtues fail, legislative vices often are productive of good. Congress should not write blank checks for Mr. Roosevelt and if its members find personal reasons for declining to do so the tendency is in the right direction.

Traditionally a second term congress is not as submissive to a President as a first term congress. The second term President is supposed to be unavailable for renomination. The favors upon which politics thrives and succeeds will be given out by somebody else. Consequently the gentlemen on Capitol Hill find more advantage in looking after their own prospects than in consolidating the power of the President in a second term.

There is a greater split in the Democratic party in congress now than had been anticipated for this time. On several occasions Mr. Roosevelt has not played a master hand, apparently being too much impressed by his great vote in the electoral college. He may be a bit too overconfident.

He is a master of the arts called for in the preservation of administrative autocracy and it would be foolish to think that he may not be able, with the great power he still has, to bring the dissenting members into line again. But people who fear the consequences of a continuation of an overpowering chief executive will hope that the congressional revolt is not a flash in the pan, but means a continuance of a genuine effort to reëstablish the national legislature as a separate branch of government, with a mind of its own and an obstinacy equal to that in the White House.

We'd be on our way out of dictatorial dangers if this should prove to be true.

PECULIAR JUSTICE.

Two men charged, in form, with assault and battery have been fined $100 by Municipal Judge Cecil Smith. That seems a reasonable adjudication on the offense formally charged. It appears less satisfactory when the actual offense is revealed. The prosecuting witness charged the defendants with forcing her into a car, driving to an outer district of the northwest side and attempting to rape her. For this offense the fines imposed are seriously insufficient.

THE TRIBUNE has complained that magistrates and even juries too often show inadequate sense of their responsibility for the protection of women in this community. Various excuses are offered for these light sentences—provocation, defects of proof, technicalities of procedure. They are often flimsy. They do not justify flagrant failures of justice and inadequate protection of women. In this case the police explain that the charge was reduced because the victim was not certain the attack was committed inside the city limits. The explanation will not satisfy the public and should not. It expresses a slackness of prosecution that needs more explanation. Is it to be found in the appearance of an alderman, Frank Konkowski of the 26th ward, as attorney for the defendants? Is it to be found in the statement of the prosecuting witness that she has had many telephone calls from politicians asking her to drop the case?

These circumstances are suspicious. They smell rank and they are too familiar. Is this another operation of the alliance of crime and corrupt politics?

DOUBLE LIABILITY IN ILLINOIS.

The Illinois Bankers' association calls attention to two measures now pending in the legislature, both concerned with the liability of stockholders in state banks. Joint resolution 14 in the house would submit to the voters the question of repealing the double liability requirement found in the state constitution; house bill 362 would free a stockholder of double liability unless suit were brought against him to collect it within a certain time after he had sold his stock.

Both these measures deserve support.

Under our present federal banking laws stockholders in a national bank are not subject to assessment if the bank fails. This exemption provides an important incentive to banks to organize or reorganize under federal charters. Unless the same advantage is offered to the owners of state banks it is probable that state banks will tend to disappear in Illinois and that almost all deposit and commercial banking will be conducted under federal charter. There are those who believe such an end would be desirable, but if it is, the question should be decided squarely on its merits and not by indirection. The trend away from state charters has already set in. If it is to be arrested the constitution of the state must be amended promptly.

Double liability had its theoretical and practical uses when it was adopted in this state. The need for it meanwhile has been minimized by the federal government's compulsory deposit insurance scheme. As all deposits of less than $5,000 are now insured, the vast majority of depositors and, of course, all the smaller accounts are in no need of the added protection which the assessment of stockholders was intended to provide. Indeed, the premiums for deposit insurance paid by banks can properly be regarded as the collection in instalments from the stockholders of their second liability. This collection is enforced even though the bank remains solvent. The double liability provision could, in the light of that situation, be regarded as a triple liability.

Experience in recent years has cast much doubt on the value of the assessment as a protection to depositors. Many stockholders in closed banks did meet the obligation, but, by and large, the collections have been disappointing. Those who owned bank stock as a rule suffered like every one else from the general collapse of values, and many stockholders thus found themselves without the means to meet their obligations when the money was demanded.

Double liability of state bank stockholders presents a problem which is not peculiar to Illinois, but there is one aspect of the subject which so far as we know is unique. Our constitution, as interpreted by the state Supreme court, requires that any one, even though he sold his bank stock years before the bank failed, is responsible under the double liability clause for the losses suffered by depositors. Probably no such idea was in the minds of the framers of the constitution. They intended that each share of stock should bear its additional liability, but not that each person who ever owned the stock should continue to be liable for losses after he had transferred his holding to some one else. If some such remedy as is proposed in bill 362 is not instituted, the risk of ownership of bank stock will be so great as to discourage investment in banks. Obviously a remedy for this condition should be found.

Editorials of the Day

WHAT IMPENDS?

[Chicago Drovers Journal.]

A fine point is made with respect to the sponsorship of the new farm bill. The administration wants the country to understand that it is a "farm organization" measure, which in this instance means a Farm Bureau bill. But no one needs to be told that it would not be presented without the approval of the administration. The point is that the administration desires to dodge the responsibility because it has been embarrassed by repeated charges of writing the bulk of the legislation coming before congress. And, too, there may be some doubt regarding the way the country will receive this new bill. But the Farm Bureau is willing to take whatever risk may be involved in sponsoring the bill, because in operation it would mean added members. The functioning of the act would be through the local Farm Bureau units, headed by the county agents, who are employés of the department of agriculture. To participate the farmer would almost have to belong to the Farm Bureau—and every farmer would be required to participate.

As to the bill itself, it is a reasonable assumption that farmers will rue the day they go along with it. In effect, it means that if the farmer breeds an extra sow without the consent of the government's agent he will be subject to fine. As simple as that, and as vicious! The farmer will put himself completely under rule. He will be told what to do, and he will have to do it. Now, there are some farmers who approve of this idea. They argue that the farmers who refuse to coöperate voluntarily should be forced into line. Send 'em to jail if necessary! And the assumption of such power on the part of the federal government is constitutional, it is further argued, because food production is charged with a public interest.

But control breeds control, and the next step, as it has developed in certain European countries, is seizure of a share of what each farmer produces, "for the common good," and in time farmers themselves are thus impoverished, "for the common good."

Under complete control, the farmer has no chance. He is hopelessly in the minority. Under one administration or another he will find himself ground under heel, "for the common good," and because economic stress and political exigencies so dictate.

SOILED HANDS.

[Albuquerque Journal.]

That there is lack of adequate data on skilled labor is admitted by government agencies and union organizers. The latter, certainly, should have the information if it is available to any one.

And lack of the information vastly complicates the discussions concerning "the problem of the unemployed", and alleged labor shortages in certain trades.

The United States employment service, basing its estimate on the number of clearances reported by its 1,500 field agents in 1936 as compared to the number in 1935, has reached the conclusion that while there is no shortage at the present time there is likely to be one if employment continues to pick up steadily for the next five years and if apprenticeships do not keep pace.

One good result of the discussions is that young men are thinking more seriously about trades. White collar occupations hold less appeal. There is more willingness to soil hands.

Soiled hands built this nation. Perhaps it is not too much to say that some of the nation's more recent troubles have been the result of a general unwillingness to rub hands in dirt.

ENDURING ART AND ARTISTS.

A biography of any great artist, almost inevitably, will expose some period in which he was regarded as dreamily incompetent, if not indeed touched in the head, by the neighbors who knew him best. He alone knew he was really good; the neighbors regarded his impracticability—it usually takes the form of refusal to do routine jobs—as goofiness. The burden of proof was on him. Read Paderewski's own story; or, more recently, an article in Scribner's on Grant Wood. And one surmises the folk at Stratford snickered at Will Shakespeare, the word butcher who went up to London. . . . They had stuff and stubbornness enough to prove they were right and the critics wrong; and more power to all such. . . . Probably it is more necessary than cruel for the hard skulled American public to make its self-designated artists sieve themselves out; the armadillo armor of doubt is all that keeps us from being trampled to death by people who hanker to pursue the arts and don't realize they have lead in their shoes.

Uncle Ike of Hometown had the infallible system for supplying his large brood with an abundance of candy at long intervals. Twice a year, in April and October, Uncle Ike shipped a carload of hogs, and the local paper kept the item standing: "Uncle Ike B. rode up to Chicago this week with a nice lot of hogs." Of course, he rode in the caboose of the local freight and paid no fare and, since he carried his lunch along, he never spent a cent in the big city. Yet the youngsters always had their candy on his return home. Uncle Ike, with his hog check, always stopped in the general store and paid up his six months' bill and the proprietor, who sympathized with the kids, promptly ended the ceremony by handing over a sack of free sweets. THE NERVOUS SYSTEM (Part II)

Puzzling Difficulties.

NATURE has done an extraordinary job in protecting the entire nervous system, some of the functions of which were described in yesterday's article. But many diseases can attack its highly specialized tissue. Nerves have coverings—so has the brain—and in the latter they are called meninges. If bacteria set up inflammation within these envelopes the disorder called meningitis ensues. Some viruses can make their way along nerve twigs and reach the brain or the spinal cord. It is in this manner that we assume that poliomyelitis [infantile paralysis], encephalitis, and a few other infections are communicated.

The organism of syphilis, the spirochete, delights to disport itself in nerve tissue. When the malady is inadequately or improperly treated in the early stages it may later manifest itself in the brain and the aftermath, paresis, may so alter the nature and conduct of an individual as to classify him as insane. To explain this situation many of us adopt the expression "so-and-so has lost his mind." It winds up with complete paralysis as a rule.

Locomotor ataxia is another manifestation of syphilis, in which a segment of the spinal cord undergoes degeneration. This interferes with the sense of feeling and in the ensuing disease—locomotor ataxia or tabes dorsalis—the patient may not be able to feel his feet as they make contact with the floor. In addition he may be subject to pains in the lower legs and the abdomen. In one symptom—known as the "girdle"—the victim feels as though a rope were tied tightly around the waist.

In addition to diseases, tumors may involve the cerebrum, the cerebellum, or the spinal cord. Some of these probably arise from the same causes as cancer: others perhaps are the result of inflammation. Abscesses may form in almost any lobe. As a rule they come from bacteria which have gained entrance via some one of the sinuses, the mastoid or directly through the skull as a sequel to an injury. Here medical science has made great advances, as most of these affairs [tumors and abscesses] can be located accurately and removed surgically.

Physicians and neurologists have been studying the nervous organization for centuries. Each year ads a little to our knowledge, but the more we know the more we are impressed with the importance of good health as a means of maintaining intact our communication machinery.

When we state casually that the mind is warped, as evidenced by distorted thinking, we do not mean that the brain itself is lopsided. In other words, the brain and the mind are two different concepts. Except for minor differences the anatomist cannot distinguish between the nervous tissue of a criminal and that of any ordinary person. As we know so little about insanity and the cell changes which it is supposed to produce we are unable to say from an examination of the brain: "This is a normal and that an abnormal individual."

The mentally deranged man or woman may function perfectly as far as muscles are concerned. This means that the nerve pathways to these structures are intact. But he may desire to commit murder or perform countless bizarre acts because the mind is diseased.

Some day we hope that the refinements of laboratory and tissue diagnosis will permit us to locate the exact spot in which damage has occurred. Some authorities believe that this time will never come, contending that the changes caused by insanity are not organic.

When we think of the brain, therefore, we must understand that it is merely a home or a dwelling place of thoughts and that there is probably some other intangible, undiscovered factor which governs their comings and goings—all of which is translated into what we call behavior.

AVERSION TO WORDS.

R. M. writes: I am 17 years old and a high school senior. I want to be a minister, but I have a difficulty which haunts me. Unless I can overcome it I'll have to do what I often think of when I despair—become a hermit. This is an unhealthy mental attitude, I know, but I need help to shake it off. In ordinary conversation I do not stutter, but in reading before class I have a great deal of trouble, especially with explosive sounds. I can say "happy," but "glorious," "kind," and "fluent" knock me for a loop. There seems to be an element of being bound in reading from a book. When I am free to choose my own words I am not bothered. What can help me?

REPLY.

You have evidently developed a mild aversion to the sound of certain words or syllables. In speaking, fear is forgotten in the natural expression of your thought. But in reading you have time to remember [perhaps subconsciously] the disagreeable associations connected with the sounds. The origin of the trouble probably lies in some childhood experience which, if recalled and reinterpreted in the light of maturity, would probably remove the difficulty. Mental hygiene under the guidance of a good psychiatrist will help you. A clergyman with a psychological bent would be a good friend and confidant for you. Among good books for you to read are "The Neurotic Personality of Our Times," by Harvey, and a Commonwealth Fund publication by Plant called "Neurosis and the Environment." We have a list of other reading matter on mental hygiene which you can get by sending a stamped, addressed envelope.

INJURED KNUCKLES.

L. H. writes: As a result of having struck the edge of a hard object with my right hand, there has remained a deep depression on the two middle knuckles so that I do not have the full leverage of my hand. Is there any means of restoring these knuckles to their original shape?

REPLY.

Better have an X-ray to determine the extent of the injury. You may have suffered a dislocation of the fingers.

COCOA BUTTER.

V. M. writes: What are the uses of cocoa butter and how is it employed?

REPLY.

Cocoa butter, the pure fat extracted by pressure [hot or cold] from chocolate seeds, is used in the manufacture of suppositories, cold creams, and other toilet articles. It is employed also in the treatment of skin irritations—where a pure vegetable fat is necessary—and as a lubricant in massage.

THE EDUCATIONAL VALUE OF SLOT MACHINES.

Riverside, Ill., May 25.—The so-called "one-armed bandits" have been causing quite a furor lately, and the so-called "innovation in education" at the Riverside grammar school of having a slot machine actually in a classroom to prove to the youngsters that, no matter how many coins they might invest, they can get an average of only about half as many back, has added much to the ado.

There are a good many people who would like to see slot machines banned in all places for good, and because the contraptions continue to thrive in many places this "innovation in education" was conceived in the hope of putting them out of business and protecting the nation's morals.

I object to the use of the nickname "one-armed bandit." A bandit takes things by force or threat of force. The misnomer does not add a bit to the enlightenment of the situation.

In the second place it should not take an "innovation in education" to prove a fact that is universally known. It does not require much education to know that the machines would not be in operation if one could beat them over a period of time. Of the myriad thousands playing the machines it is hard to imagine that even 1 per cent of them expect to come out ahead, and certainly 90 per cent or more know reasonably well the odds against them.

The inventors of the slot machine must have known human nature a great deal better than some of our reformers, educators and parents. It seems to me there is not much that can be done about human nature. One person was recently quoted as remarking that the possibility of harm in the Riverside experiment was limited to a few possible weaklings among the students, and that the "innovation" would undoubtedly prove successful if undertaken on a large scale. If that is true, the younger generations, by some stroke of magic, must be quite different from their elders.

The great majority of people do not play the machines to make money. It must, therefore, come under the heading of entertainment. It offers the individual relaxation, diversion, suspense, excitement, and a great deal of fun. When the truth of the evil is known it must be likened more to going to a movie than to losing one's money. One does not ask for a refund at the box office.

Prohibition was not a success. It served only to advertise intoxicating liquors to the younger generations. Idealism may be a good thing, in moderation, but practical knowledge of one's subject should be of primary importance to educators.

Personally, I think slot machines are rather silly; but, then, so is human nature. John Owen Thomas.

INTERESTED IN BELGIUM.

Kenosha, Wis., May 25.—I wish to express my sincere appreciation for your publication of the picture of royal Belgian children viewing the religious procession. Belgium and its people have been of especial interest to me ever since the exciting days of 1914, when Albert the Good defied Germany; and so I am always quite pleased when newspapers print something about this country.

Leon Van Landuyt.

MENACES COMPARED.

Cedar Rapids, Ia., May 24.—Why all the ranting and raving about Fascism in this country and so little written and spoken against communism? Is it because the main spokesmen are for Comrades Stalin, Foster, Browder, and their ilk, and fear the "Fascists" will land first?

From this distance the signs all point to the defeat of the Fascists, but not the defeat and wiping out of communism.

H. A. Wiley.

ORIOLES IN THE CITY.

Millington, Ill., May 22.—Seeing orioles in Chicago is not to be wondered at. They build nests with horse hairs. The tractors have plowed under all horse hairs in the country. The poor birds are forced to the city in quest of those that might have been scattered by winds from the stockyards. Who has a better explanation? Roy W. Scoggin.

IS THERE A SECOND?

Chicago, May 26.—Tennessee's standup dungeon, child marriages, and monkey trial convince me that we should not admit her into our Union. R. H. T.

BY PLANE TO MUSKEGON.

Chicago, May 26.—There certainly is a need for seaplane service to Muskegon during the summer. I am one of those Chicagoans who spend many week-ends at a small lake north of Muskegon, and I have found that the only way of lengthening my week-end visits is to go to Milwaukee and either take Pennsylvania Central Air Lines' 7:40 a. m. plane or their 3:15 p. m. plane, which arrive in Muskegon forty minutes later. They also have a good service late in the afternoon on the return trip. This service is much faster and pleasanter than any other mode of travel out of Chicago, and I heartily indorse Mr. Price's suggestion that a similar service be established from Chicago. Earl Vais.

PICTURES OF FLOWERS.

Chicago, May 17.—My classmates and I wish to tell you how much we thank you for printing the lovely flowers on the front page of the picture section. We cannot find fine enough words to express our gratitude, but we will tell you why we like them so much. We just started a bird and flower club in our room and we were looking for pictures of flowers for our book, so you can understand how handy those flowers were. We are hoping you will some day print pictures of birds. Marilyn Peo,

From Across the Sea

BY NORMAN INGREY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile.—Alarmed by the effect of alcoholism on the national health, President Arturo Alessandri called his ministers and public leaders to a conference at the Moneda palace to prepare legislation for "social regeneration."

Presidential action was impelled by a Chilean crusade, in which the press played a prominent part, to save the workers from a "racial propensity"—excessive wine drinking. Beer so far has been exempt from denunciation.

It is contended that the spread of alcoholism has endangered national economic production in practically every phase, and police authorities have blamed the evil for increased juvenile vagrancy and delinquency. The church is identified with the national protest because there has been a record breaking up of home and family ties.

Reformers' main hopes rest in a bill drafted by Maximo Valdes Fontecilla, president of the agricultural export board, to secure government assistance, in the form of a subsidy, for the dumping of practically the whole national wine production in overseas markets.

Chile's annual wine production is approximately 85,000,000 gallons. The population is 4½ millions.

The intention is to restrict domestic supply to a few million gallons to make the price prohibitive for workers. Wine now costs only a fourth as much as milk. Further expansion of the industry would be retarded by a heavy tax on new vineyards.

The overseas markets with the best dumping prospects, according to La Nacion daily, are the United States and Europe.

Under the proposed program vineyard owners will be forced gradually to change over to table grape growing and concentrate on the exploitation of the juice as a food. Government experts are engaged in analyzing the grape to determine its value in terms of vitamins and calories. Legislative restrictions in the form of dry zones, restricted hours of sale, and severe punishment for drunkenness are planned, but the "racial idiosyncrasies" of the Chileans are said to forbid any extravagant hopes in this direction.

LEGAL INTEREST.

Chicago, May 8.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Will you please advise what the legal rate of interest is on an open account, past due, in the state of Illinois? By this I mean the maximum legal rate. For example: A person buys lumber from a local lumber company to build a house and the material is billed in the ordinary way without any agreement as to interest to be charged if account becomes past due. Also, invoices do not specify any interest.

2. Also, can the creditor compound this maximum interest semi-annually?

F. G.

1. Seven per cent is the highest rate upon which the parties can legally agree on an ordinary open account. Five per cent is the rate where special facts justify the collection of interest, but there has been no agreement as to the rate.

2. No, in the sense that the account would not draw a compound interest automatically. Yes, in the sense that the creditors can at any time demand payment and the debtor may sign a new note for the principal plus interest and such new principal would then draw interest.

$50,000 DEPOSIT PROVOKES TILTS IN MALONE TRIAL

Prosecution Traces Park Ridge Mystery.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

The mystery of a $50,000 certificate of deposit in the Citizens' State bank of Park Ridge Dec. 31, 1929, provoked lively tilts yesterday in the trial of William H. Malone before a jury on charges of evading payment of $59,574 income taxes in 1929 and 1930. The storm arose while George A. Palmquist, vice president and cashier of the bank, was on the stand in the federal court of Judge William H. Holly.

The certificate was in the name of William F. McCaughey, Park Ridge architect who built Malone's Pickwick theater in his home town. Michael L. Igoe, United States district attorney, held that the $50,000 was really owned by Malone and that the certificate was made out to a dummy possessor. The government cites this as evidence of efforts to conceal income.

Transaction Revealed.

Cashier Palmquist appeared rather vague on his first interrogation. In reply to a question from Igoe, he said: "I think the $50,000 was owned by Malone."

Later Palmquist said that after the deposit certificate was issued in McCaughey's name, he issued a series of deposit slips transferring all the $50,000 except $400 to Malone's account in the Jefferson Park National bank. Cross-examination by Charles Rathbun, Malone's attorney, precipitated a clash.

"Did you know the purpose of the $50,000 transaction?" he asked.

"I think I did," replied Palmquist. "It was the custom in those days at the end of the year to make a semi-annual showing. We were a new bank, with a cash reserve of only $63,000. Some of the bank's resources were public funds of Park Ridge. We needed the $50,000 to bolster up our deposits."

Igoe Jumps to Feet.

Q.—So Malone put that $50,000 in the bank through the McCaughey check to help the bank out? A.—Yes.

Igoe jumped to his feet and cried: "I thought you told me you didn't know why Malone deposited that money."

"Did I?" retorted Palmquist. "If I did, I withdraw my previous testimony."

Q. [by Mr. Igoe]—So the resources of the bank were pretty low, with only $63,000 of cash deposits on demand? Still when a citizen of Park Ridge walked in and asked you to issue a certificate of deposit for $50,000 you thought nothing about it?"

Over Attorney Rathbun's objections that Igoe was arguing with the witness, Palmquist answered: "Not in view of the circumstances."

Malone in Another Room.

Q.—Isn't it true Malone asked you to issue that certificate of deposit? A.—I can't say definitly. Malone was in the bank in a separate room at the time the certificate was issued.

Q.—As a matter of fact, didn't McCaughey turn the certificate right over to Malone as soon as he got it? A.—That I can't say.

Q.—Now, Malone told you about that certificate of deposit, didn't he? A.—I'll say he did.

Q.—Now don't say he did if that is not true. A.—He did.

Igoe then produced the ledger sheet of the bank to show the McCaughey balance as of Dec. 31, 1929, was less than $50.

At this point court adjourned until Monday morning, Judge Holly announcing that a session will be held then despite the fact it is Memorial day.

Explains to Press Table.

Malone, who became somewhat excited during Palmquist's testimony, went over to the press table to explain the $50,000 transaction.

"There was less than $64,000 of call money in the bank and I was very nervous about it," he said. "We had over $350,000 of public funds. I saw Frank McCaughey going by one day and said, 'Frank, how would you like to put $50,000 in the bank?' Frank replied, 'Where in the devil will I get $50,000?'

"I said, 'I'll get it for you,' and I went to the vault and gave him the money. I told him not to let it be known, not even to the bank clerks, as they would gossip about it. I told him to show the certificate of deposit around the town so that people would know he was putting money in."

The government's indictment covers the years 1929 and 1930, during which period, Assistant United States Attorney Austin Hall said, the prosecution will show that Malone used his power as chairman of the state tax commission to collect $330,000 from corporations. Hall added that the government would present evidence to show that in 1928, not covered by the indictment, the concealed income totaled $230,000, coming largely from the same sources and bringing to $560,000 the amount for 1928, 1929, and 1930.

Assets of Accused Cicero Broker Total $172,834

Morris Sider, attorney for George C. Hupka, bankrupt Cicero broker who is facing embezzlement charges in connection with the diversion of customers' accounts, yesterday filed a schedule with Federal Judge William H. Holly showing $172,834 of net assets which can be liquidated to meet the $390,000 due to 260 creditors. Attorney Sider said that Hupka has turned over all his personal property, including his automobile, to the receivers of his firm. Most of the assets include brokerage accounts with three Chicago firms.

SENTENCED FOR GRAIN THEFT.

Coldwater, Mich., May 28.—[Special.]—Harold Feich, 17, a farm youth, pleaded guilty in Circuit court here this morning to the theft of $20 worth of grain from a neighbor several months ago. Judge Theo T. Jacobs sentenced him to serve from 1 to 15 years in the Ionia reformatory.

Vivid Memoirs of Childhood in Michigan Town

Celebrities People Pages of This Volume.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Remember the Day," by Kenneth Horan. [Doubleday-Doran, $2.] Published yesterday.

AN AMUSING volume of reminiscences of the author's memorable childhood in a Michigan town, where her father owned the newspaper and entertained all visiting celebrities, is this. It is written with the naïveté of the child of that day. Their "pink parlors" were the scene of events amusing in themselves but taking their place as Americana by the importance of their guests.

William McKinley was a guest of the Republican party of "Eastmeadow" [veiled Jackson] and the center of a rally on their lawn, and the whole family was in Buffalo to see the fair and was to meet him the day he was assassinated. Teddy Roosevelt spent the night with them and disconcerted the assembled household by putting his shoes outside his door to be shined.

Uncle Joe Cannon was a surprise visitor to a dancing party for the two little girls, at which John Philip Sousa led the band. Grover Cleveland [not a guest, because he wasn't a Republican, but on a visit to his relatives, the Folsoms] greeted their father familiarly. William Jennings Bryan rolled his silver tongue to their delight.

Jane Addams unwittingly caused the whole household to wash in cold water so that she could have a hot bath. Julia Marlowe, Thomas Jefferson, Sarah Bernhardt, Richard Mansfield, Eleanora Duse live for a brief moment in the pages, as do Ty Cobb [who couldn't beat their iceman, Rollo, at baseball], Robert Ingersoll, Henry Ford, Lyman Abbott, Gen. and Mrs. Tom Thumb, Andrew Carnegie, O. Henry, Mark Twain, Maud Ballington Booth, and a young friend of their cousin Frankie, Gordon Selfridge, who had just gone to Chicago to work in a department store.

The book is unique for some of its material and delightful [except the life histories of many of the great, which are a little out of tone]. The father, who was the best orator in Michigan; the mother, who had the smallest waist in Michigan; Kathie, the family wisecracker; mademoiselle, called "French" by the whole town; Cot, a trusty from the state penitentiary who was thought supremely safe for children because he had killed a man for mistreating his dog, are all deliciously portrayed.

The book is written in the first person, but the author does not explain that her name, Kenneth, was given her because her parents wanted a boy.

New Material Used for Life of Maria Theresa.

"Maria Theresa," by Constance Lily Morris. [Knopf, $3.50.]

Constance Lily Morris has just given us a life of Maria Theresa, using for the first time hitherto unknown material which has rested in unopened archives.

The new source material makes a revaluation of Maria Theresa possible which strikes a mean between the adulation and practical deification of most of the Austrian biographers and the popular idea of the rest of Europe that she was a sort of fecund spider, with her children spun into a political web all over the map. She certainly produced offspring—sixteen sons and daughters, whom even her admirers, among them Mrs. Morris, admit she used like pawns on the political chessboard and with as little interest in their happiness.

Mrs. Morris uses her material with a slightly heavy hand. And yet she does present an interesting, unbiased report.

Book Views in Brief

Villiers' New Book on the Sea and His Best.

"Cruise of the Conrad," by Alan Villiers. [Scribners, $3.75.]

A round the world voyage in the last surviving frigate on the seven seas, a single tops'l full rigged ship of 212 tons, built more than half a century ago, is vividly and entertainingly logged in "Cruise of the Conrad," an outstanding book of the sea, and Alan Villiers' best.

The little 100 foot Joseph Conrad was sailed by the skipper-author and his youthful crew 57,800 miles in 555 days, with landfalls so varied that the end paper map of the voyage looks like a running bowline. The book is superbly illustrated and has several charts.

Villiers will be remembered as the author of several books on the sea, his best known, "Falmouth for Orders." A. C.

Sensitively Written Story of Childhood.

"A Lamp on the Plains," by Paul Horgan. [Harpers, $2.50.]

Paul Horgan offers a fine and sensitively written story of childhood in this his fourth novel, which continues the life of Danny Milford of "Main Line West." The setting is Vrain, N. M., squatting, in its tiny ugliness, in the ranching country. Although countless novelists have taken the small town to pieces before, Mr. Horgan seems to have a fresh manner of doing it and without losing sight of Danny.

Only one reservation can be made in expressing the hope that the author carries on with this biographical work—that is that he strive again for the pace he maintains so well for the first two-thirds of the current book. The temptation is strong to skip pages here and there in the latter part, and to yield might be to miss the final, and, for one, the finest incident in the novel—Danny's reunion with Newt Jimson. P. W.

A Notable Collection of Werfel's Stories.

"Twilight of a World," by Franz Werfel. [Viking, $3.]

Franz Werfel, who gave us "The Forty Days of Musa Dagh," that unforgettable epic struggle of a little band of Armenians against their Turkish oppressors, has published in this country "Twilight of a World," an event of literary importance.

It is a collection of four short novels and four stories, all combined into a unified work. It is a unity of setting, of scene—the evening of the Hapsburg empire as its golden age drew to a close with the last years of Franz Joseph's reign as emperor.

As might be expected in dealing with the death agonies of an empire's decline, Mr. Werfel is vastly concerned with dreams and death. His pen probes the mental twistings of his characters from a small boy of 12 to an army officer. Every reader will probably make a varied selection, but "Class Reunion," one of the three previously published in English; "Poor People," and "Not the Murderer" stand out among the lot. Incidentally the translation by H. T. Lowe-Porter seems to be superb. J. H. T.

Novel Analyzes the Odd Pattern of Three Lives

Mary Hastings Bradley's Latest Volume.

"Pattern of Three," by Mary Hastings Bradley. [Appleton-Century, $2.]

THE shadow of death is responsible for the unusual "pattern" of the lives of the three characters in Mary Hastings Bradley's latest novel. Those characters are a forty-odd year old Chicago lawyer, his contemporaneous wife, and his young secretary as the book opens.

Mary Hastings Bradley.

The wife has all of the charming surface polish that wealth and travel can give to a woman who is well and gently born. The husband is a gentleman. The secretary also is as gently born, the daughter of a Chicago banker whose crash hurled her from the classes to the masses. Nobody wishes anything but the kindliest well to any one else.

When, during the wife's absence in Europe, the husband falls in love with his secretary, it looks as though nobody would ever do anything about it. Especially when their son is drowned the wife feels secure in the grief she shares with her husband. But the pattern isn't snipped out so neatly as that and there follow divorce, marriage and children and then the final problem of the three lives, complicated by their very decencies.

Record of a Woman's Courage in Adversity.

"Though Time Be Fleet," by Louise Andrus. [Lothrop, Lee & Shepard, $2.50.]

Chicago is also the setting of most of this record of emotional upheaval and a woman's fine courage in facing it.

The heroine is a young actress on tour with a famous woman trouper in Vancouver in 1914 when the book opens. She meets there the man who is to be her joy and her sorrow for the rest of the book.

Back in New York she is given a chance at a really good part on Broadway when she is called home to a little town near Chicago to her mother's sickbed. She never gets back to Broadway. Her father's death, her mother's invalidism force her to make a new life for herself, which she does as a successful newspaper woman. In the meantime the man whom she loves has gone to war, been in battle, and suffered shell shock. Finally he returns from the war and marries her.

What happened in the financial crash of 1929, how Marcia built a new life for herself, her depression-shocked husband and her child, is a story to put courage in any woman. There are a few very slightly disguised characters which are deft caricatures recognizable by many Chicagoans. F. B.

MEMORIAL GIVES 3 DAY HOLIDAY TO CITY DWELLERS

Rites Tomorrow Honor Nation's War Dead.

With favorable weather promised, most Chicagoans will begin a three day vacation today made possible by Memorial day falling on a Sunday, which makes Monday a holiday. Movement of trafic in and out of the city began last night, while thousands planned to avoid the usual half-day of business and start out early today on automobile trips to the country. Others will join the caravan in the afternoon.

The weather forecast for today is fair and warmer. There were indications, however, that thundershowers would fall on vacationers in Chicagoland tomorrow, after which the temperature will drop.

Police Prepare for Crowds.

County highway police of the Homewood, Willow Springs, and Morton Grove stations were prepared last night to keep trafic moving briskly on the main highways. Chief Lester J. Laird announced that three new police cars, painted white and equipped with loudspeakers, will cruise the roads, instructing poky drivers to speed up and warning speeders and road hogs. Fifteen extra policemen, five for each station, will be put on duty at dangerous corners.

Railroads and airlines reported heavy reservations for the week-end. City dwellers will be moving to the country while residents of nearby towns head for Chicago.

Hold Services in Schools.

Since public schools will be closed on Monday, children held memorial services yesterday for the country's war dead. They also contributed money for flowers to decorate the graves of veterans. Among the speakers at school exercises were Maj. Frank L. Beals, assistant superintendent of schools, Capt. William J. Grace of the Veterans of Foreign wars, Lieut. Julius Reed, 94 years old, G. A. R. veteran who will be grand marshal of the Memorial parade on Monday, Judges Frank Bicek, and Gen. John V. Clinnin.

Taps will be sounded tomorrow and salutes fired in the cemeteries as more than 25,000 Union blue flags, one for each soldier's grave, are placed by members of the G. A. R. Memorial association. Tributes will be paid to the civil war dead by the Chicago Historical society tomorrow afternoon at a service in its museum at North avenue and Clark street.

G. A. R. Veterans Invited.

Invitations have been issued to all members of the G. A. R. to attend the Memorial program of the Sunday Evening club in Orchestra hall, an annual event since 1908.

Maj. Gen. Frank Parker will make the Memorial day address at Oak Woods cemetery, and members of the American Legion and other patriotic organizations in Hyde Park and Englewood will take part in the ceremonies. The Three Links post of the American Legion will conduct services at Oak Hill cemetery at the grave of Elmer Agnell, who served with the 55th infantry in the world war. Army and navy planes will drop flowers over Acacia Park cemetery during the services tomorrow morning at which Judge John C. Lewe will speak.

D. A. R. Services in Park.

The Aaron Miner chapter of the D. A. R. will hold services at the David Kennison monument at North Clark and Wisconsin streets in Lincoln park. Samuel E. Black, commander of the Cook county United Spanish American war veterans, will make the address.

Boy Scouts are to place poppies on the graves of war veterans in all cemeteries of the city and suburbs either tomorrow or Monday.

The Gen. Lloyd Wheaton post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will hold memorial services tomorrow at the grave of Gen. Wheaton in Greenwood cemetery in Rockford.

Complete Parade Plans.

Plans for Chicago's parade on Monday were completed yesterday. Fewer than 40 blue uniformed veterans of the civil war, most of them past their 90th year, will be present to lead the way, as they have for the last six years, in automobiles. Then they will take places of honor on the reviewing stand in the plaza east of Michigan avenue at Congress street while 65,000 soldiers and sailors, veterans of other wars and members of patriotic organizations file past.

Dr. Charles S. Terry Rites to Be Held Today

Funeral services for Dr. Charles Stone Terry, 77 years old, a dentist in the loop for 50 years, will be held at 2 p. m. today in the chapel of the Fourth Presbyterian church. Dr. Terry died Thursday in his home at 447 Oakdale avenue. He was born in Norwich, N. Y., and was graduated in 1877 from the old American College of Dentistry, now the Northwestern university dental school. Dr. Terry was an elder of the Fourth Presbyterian church and was active in the Chicago chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution. He is survived by his widow, Marion; two sons, Ira and Dr. C. Roy Terry, and a daughter, Mrs. Frances Geiger.

$7,000 Awarded Estate for Death in Auto Crash

A jury before Judge Walter T. Cummings yesterday awarded the estate of Albert Stanek, 5124 South Honore street, a $7,000 verdict against John Suchovsky, 2711 West 59th street, and George Ceithaml, 5915 South Fairfield avenue. Stanek was killed when he was struck by Ceithaml's automobile after it collided with Suchovsky's at Wood and 15th streets, Nov. 24, 1935.

County Treasurer's Clerk Dies Suddenly in His Home

Jerry Willig, 52 years old, a clerk in the county treasurer's office, died suddenly of heart disease yesterday in his home at 2503 South Ridgeland avenue, Berwyn.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: You Wanta Know?

WIDOWS OF 1861 WARRIORS SHUN DAY'S PARADES

They'll Stay in Home with Memories.

BY MARCIA WINN.

Memorial day?

Twenty-nine old ladies, their years ranging from 67 to 92, their hair shading from gray to shining white, smiled politely, knowingly, sadly, as they sat and rocked yesterday in a rambling brick home in Maywood.

Yes, of course, they agreed, many of them were looking forward to Memorial day. Some of them might even get into cars and be in the parade. But for the most part, they preferred to stay at home with their memories.

Home, to them, is the Maywood Home for Soldier Widows at 224 North 1st avenue, Maywood, and to twenty-one of the old ladies the memories are of husbands, dead these many years, who served in the civil war. To six the soldier was a father and to two, an uncle.

Spirit Glows Every Day.

But Memorial day? It is not a day for unusual excitement, for it is at the widows' home that the spirit of Memorial day, that of perpetual memory, glows fervently every day in the year.

"You see," observed one white haired octagenarian, her crippled hands caressing a worn cane, "we just keep our men here with us all the time. Now that picture there," pointing to a large painting on the assembly room wall, "that's Gen. John A. Logan—and you know who he was.

"And Lincoln, we've got Lincoln everywhere. But what I mean is that we have our own pictures of our own men in our rooms. You know," proudly, "we have private rooms here. We're not on charity. We pay our way out of our pensions."

Widow of a Private.

"Now I'm a soldier's widow and I'm 91, and I have all my faculties so far," spoke up Mrs. Belle Corbin, who was married to her boy in blue in 1866.

"He was just a private soldier, but he was in a good many battles—Chickamauga, Chattanooga, all of them. He was wounded and"—here she laughed gaily, relishing her joke—"he went all through the war with a glass eye!

"He was examined in Chicago three times," she continued, "and they didn't find out about his eye."

Matriarch of the Home.

The matriarch of the home, one who usually speaks first and to whom precedence is given in seating arrangements, is Mrs. Mary Robinson, a tiny little lady with a black lace shawl and high button black shoes. She has seniority because she is a captain's widow and because she is 91 years old.

Mrs. Robinson's husband died 50 years ago when he was 47, but his little widow still tells proudly how he served three years and three months, and marched with Sherman to the sea.

"And do you know," she inquired gently, switching deftly from the war to her own childhood, "I was graduated from the first Chicago high school? It was on the west side, on the corner of Monroe and Halsted. And when I was 19 I married him."

But there are many others, each eager to tell of her man. The soldier husband of Mrs. Carolyn Linder, who is 78, was at the battle of Shiloh, and was just a boy. But his father, Gen. Usher F. Linder, was attorney general of Illinois and traveled the circuit with Lincoln.

No Parades for Her.

But the Memorial day parade?

Mrs. Mary Schmidt Irrmann, who is 87 and dryly humorous, expressed the sentiment. The widow of Michael, who, she says, was a "high private in the rear end of the 15th Michigan," shook her white head firmly.

"Parades," she observed, "are all right in their place, but not for me."

Instead, she will stay home and admire her three new goldfish, which she has christened Edward, Wallis, and Haile Selassie.

Mrs. Hannah Bede, Widow of Clothier, Dead at 75

Mrs. Hannah Bede, 75 years old, widow of Herman Bede, who was a widely known women's clothier in Chicago before his death nearly 20 years ago, died yesterday in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Estelle Jaeger, 539 Brier street, Kenilworth. She had lived with her daughter for several years. Surviving Mrs. Bede are two children, Mrs. Jaeger, and Howard W. Bede, 1813 Rice street, Highland Park.

OBITUARY.

SUPERIOR JUDGE ROSCOE R. SMITH, 53 years old, died in Seattle, Wash., last night after recurrence of an asthmatic ailment which had weakened his heart. He came to Seattle in 1926 from Albion, Neb. He was graduated from the University of Nebraska law school.

JOSEPH P. GULLICK, 66 years old, an attorney of Champaign, Ill., died yesterday in an Indianapolis, Ind., hospital. He was admitted to the Champaign county bar in 1895.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The Dionne quintuplets' swing band, with Yvonne as leader, made its radio debut last evening in connection with the gala broadcast on their third birthday, aired over W-G-N-Mutual. Using triangles, drums and mouth organs, the five sisters gave a piano-playing nurse rhythmical support which might well have made Benny Goodman or Jimmy Dorsey envious.

The famous sisters also tossed off several French Canadian chansons with Marie as the leading soprano, and Annette also lifting a lusty voice. Neither is a Lily Pons at 3—but nevertheless full of promise—if one may trust the judgment of reporters who gathered around the office radio to hear them.

The youngsters did considerable shrieking, squealing, laughing—and a little noisy quarreling—but did little talking although sounding clear au revoirs to Dr. Dafoe.

Dr. Dafoe took the announcer on a tour of the hospital, pointing out the quints' individual dishes and silverware in their cafeteria style dining room, and their separate wash basins in the bathroom, which they identify by special insignia—a dog, a tulip, a maple leaf and so on.

Of the three Dionne birthday broadcasts this was by far the most interesting. It was really the Dionnes' party and the Canadian officials kept their speechifying at a minimum.

Next, the broadcast of the wedding of the 7ehr triplets—Dora, Doris, and Dorothy. This is scheduled at 8:30 a. m. next Tuesday via NBC from the Methodist church of Carthage, N. Y.

The week will see several of radio's personalities stealing away for the summer to be replaced for the hot spell by less expensive pinch hitters. Eddie Cantor winds up tomorrow and will be relieved for the summer by Eddie Stanley, Ella Logan, and Igor Gorin.

Monday night Richard Crooks leaves, but Margaret Speaks and Wallenstein's music continue; Tuesday Fred Astaire and Charlie Butterworth call it a season, and Trudy Wood, Jimmy Blair, and Johnny Green's orchestra carry on; Jack Oakie starts his vacation June 29 with Benny Goodman taking his place, playing from various cities across the nation. Jane Froman and Donn Ross take over for Jack Benny on July 4 and Walter O'Keefe, the Broadway hill billy, relieves Fred Allen July 7. Fred and Portland will start for Hollywood that week by way of the Panama canal.

ALFRED ADLER DEAD; VIENNESE PSYCHOLOGIST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 28.—Prof. Alfred Adler, world famous Viennese psychologist, who first used the term, "inferiority complex," dropped dead in a street in Aberdeen, Scotland, today while taking an after breakfast stroll. He was 67 years old.

Prof. Adler had been following a strenuous schedule, giving fifty-six lectures in the last thirty-one days in four different countries. Tonight he was to have concluded a week of lectures at Aberdeen university. His secretary reported he had been in good health. He collapsed while walking and died before he could be removed to a hospital. The death was ascribed to heart failure.

His widow is in Paris. A daughter, Dr. Alexandra Adler, is a research fellow at Harvard university, Cambridge, Mass. She is scheduled to sail for England from New York next Wednesday. Two other daughters are in Vienna and a son is a medical student in America. Part of Prof. Adler's present tour has been devoted to lecturing before executives in large industrial concerns on practical psychology in managing personnel.

Prof. Adler attracted a wide following in the United States. For the last five years he had taught in the Long Island Medical college and had lectured at many important American universities, including the University of Chicago.

In Chicago Dr. Adler established the International Journal of Individual Psychology, and under his supervision it has been published and edited. The Chicago Association for the Study and Advancement of Individual Psychology is being organized by a group of adherents to his doctrins to carry on work and research according to the principles he formulated.

Train Wins in 200 Mile Race with Homing Pigeons

Victory in a race between six homing pigeons and the Chippewa, the Milwaukee railroad's new streamlined train, from Chicago to Green Bay, Wis., went to the train last night. The race began at 2:15 p. m. yesterday, with Miss Lorraine Ingalls, Chicago Jubilee queen, as the official starter. She wore a costume of the early '80s. Pigeon fanciers predicted that the pigeons would win, but the Chippewa pulled into Green Bay, 200 miles from Chicago, at 6:04, with none of the pigeons in sight. Finally, at 7:30, the first pigeon arrived.

CIVILIAN FLYERS TO STAGE AERIAL PARADE TODAY

Civilian flyers of the Chicago area will stage an aerial parade at 4 o'clock this afternoon along the city's lake front in observance of National Aviation day. More than 450 transport and private pilots have been asked to take part in the parade.

According to plans made by the Illinois Air Pilots' association, those who will take part in the parade are to assemble in the vicinity of 79th street and Western avenue at a height of 2,000 feet. From there the parade will head east to the lake and thence north to Howard street. The air squadron then is to return and make a dip to 500 feet over Adler Planetarium, where city officials, army and navy air service representatives, and air commerce bureau officials will review the armada.

Albert Murdock Russell Funeral to Be Held Today

Funeral services for Albert Murdock Russell, 53 years old, vice president of the General Temperature Control corporation of Kenosha, will be held at 9 a. m. today in St. Edmund's Catholic church in Oak Park. Burial will be at Oconto, Wis. Until a year ago Mr. Russell was general sales manager for the Pierce-Arrow Motor Car company in Chicago. He left that position to organize the temperature control firm and planned to move its offices to Chicago this summer. Mr. Russell was a member of the Union League club and the South Shore Country club.

Leaps and Drowns; Boat Goes Over Dam Safely

A man tentatively identified as William J. Buchholz, 5143 North Menard avenue, drowned yesterday after leaping from a boat from which he was fishing as the craft was about to go over the dam in the Fox river at Algonquin. Witnesses said that the man had tried frantically to keep the boat from the swift current. The boat went over the dam without upsetting. Searchers failed to recover the body.

Eugene Moss Funeral Held at Tennessee Home

Funeral services for Eugene Moss, 29 years old, 1032 North Dearborn street, were held recently in his home in Bruceton, Tenn. Moss died May 21 in his hotel room, apparently of heart disease. The body was removed to the chapel at 1158 North Clark street, then returned to Tennessee by Moss' parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Moss, and the widow. It was erroneously stated in the issue of May 22 that Moss was colored.

E. J. Lenhardt, Member of Police Force, Is Dead

Policeman Edward J. Lenhardt, 42 years old, died yesterday in his home, 2225 School street. He had been attached to the Rogers Park station since joining the force in 1928. He is survived by his widow, Agnes, and three daughters, Lenore, Mary and Genevieve.

M. ROSENBACH, 72, WILSON & CO. OFFICIAL, DEAD

Morris Rosenbach, 72 years old, general manager of the foreign department for Wilson & Co., packers, and supervisor of six other departments for the company, died early yesterday in his home at 4940 East End avenue. Mr. Rosenbach had been in failing health for nearly two years, but had appeared at his office as usual on Thursday.

Mr. Rosenbach joined Wilson & Co. in 1901 after a successful career as a civil engineer in which he did survey work for the United States army in the Panama canal zone and in the Missouri river valley.

Surviving Mr. Rosenbach are his widow, Myrtle; a son, Philip H., and three brothers, Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach of New York and Philadelphia, who is famous as a collector of manuscripts; Philip Rosenbach of New York, and Moses Rosenbach of Philadelphia.

HERMAN J. VIERKE, 63, KANE COUNTY CORONER, IS DEAD

Herman J. Vierke, 63 years old, coroner of Kane county since 1926 and a Republican political leader in the county for a quarter of a century, died early yesterday in his home at 314 Perry street, Elgin, after a long illness. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday in the chapel at 51 Center street, Elgin. Burial will be in Bluff City cemetery.

After serving as city health officer of Elgin for a number of years he was elected sherif of Kane county in 1923 to complete the unexpired term of the late Wilmer E. Orr. As sherif and coroner he was greatly interested in trafic safety and conducted numerous campaigns in the interests of safe driving.

Mr. Vierke was born in Elgin and lived there all his life. Surviving Mr. Vierke are his widow, Nettie, and a daughter, Mrs. Evelyn Smith, of Elgin.

Will Leaves $1,451,870; Creditors Claim $1,535,790

Although his will left $1,451,870 in trust for his nine children, an order was entered in the Lake County Probate court yesterday showing no inheritance tax due on the estate of Clayton Mark, veteran steel executive. Mr. Mark died last July 7 in his home at 999 Lake road, Lake Forest, at the age of 78.

Two Betrothals in Prominent Families Told

Joan Smith, Nancy Ryerson Will Be Brides.

BY JUDITH CASS.

TWO engagement announcements involving four well known Chicago families are this morning's interesting news. Mrs. Harold C. Smith is making known the betrothal of her youngest daughter, Joan, to Corwith Hamill, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred E. Hamill, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson Jr. are announcing the engagement of their only daughter, Nancy, to George A. Ranney Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Ranney.

Except for the fact that the young men finished at Yale with different classes and the young ladies prepared for college at different schools, the same facts about their schooling and the debuts of the girls apply to both couples. Miss Smith went to Miss Masters' at Dobbs Ferry before going to Vassar and Miss Ryerson went to the Milton academy before entering Vassar. Both girls transferred from the eastern college to the University of Chicago, where they are studying now.

Both made their debuts at balls at the Blackstone hotel during the Christmas holiday season two years ago. Mr. Hamill and Mr. Ranney prepared for Yale at Hotchkiss. The former was graduated from college in 1936 and now is engaged in business in Chicago. Mr. Ranney finished at Yale in 1934 and now is going to the law school of Northwestern university.

Smiths and Hamills Live in Lake Forest.

The Smiths and Hamills live in Lake Forest and young Mr. Hamill has been one of Miss Joan's most devoted beaux ever since she first went to Vassar and he was at Yale. Miss Ryerson, christened Nora after her mother but always called Nancy, and young Mr. Ranney have been friends since childhood, for they are neighbors on the near north side; the Ryersons live at 1431 Astor street and the Ranneys reside at 1260 Astor street.

Miss Smith has one brother, Harold Byron Smith, who married Pauline Hart and lives in Barrington, and two sisters, Mrs. Morrison Waud [Anne Smith] and Miss Elizabeth Byron Smith. Mr. Hamill has one sister, Miss Clarice, who made her debut during the same season as Miss Smith, and one brother, Ernest A. Hamill II., whose wife was Miss Suzette Morton.

Miss Ryerson has two brothers, Edward Larned III. and Morton, and Mr. Ranney has two sisters, Mrs. Gaylord Donnelley [Dorothy Ranney], and Mrs. Wyndham Hasler, who as Miss Cornelia Ranney was presented to society the same winter that Miss Ryerson and Miss Smith were. The Hamill-Smith wedding is planned for the late autumn and the Ranney-Ryerson one will take place some time next year. Mrs. Smith is giving a small tea at her home in Lake Forest this afternoon for her daughter and Mr. Hamill.

Gives Tea Today for Mrs. Charles C. Dawes.

Mrs. Donald McGibeny is entertaining at tea in Lake Forest this afternoon for her sister-in-law, Mrs. Charles C. Dawes, the former Mignon McGibeny Burr of Indianapolis. The guests will be limited to feminine members of social circles. Although Mrs. McGibeny is giving the party on the birthday of her daughter, Florence Owen, who is 16 today, Miss Owen will not be at home to meet her mother's friends, for she is studying at Wykeham Rise in Washington, Conn.

Around July 1 the McGibeny family, with the exception of young David Owen, who will attend summer camp at the Culver Military academy, will go to their Desbarats home for the remainder of the season.

Lake Forest's week-end festivities will be further enlivened by the housewarming Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Starosselsky are giving tomorrow afternoon in their new home in College road.

Added cause for gayety in Lake Forest over the week-end is the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Stockton Rush of Philadelphia. Mr. and Mrs. Rush are the guests of the Robert S. Piries. The Rushes lived in Lake Forest for two or three years, but moved back to Philadelphia a year ago.

Junior Horse Show Today at South Shore.

After several months of preparation the most thrilling day of the late spring has arrived for the children who are sons and daughters of members of the South Shore Country club, for today they will present the first junior horse show to be held in the middle west. Five committees have arranged 24 classes to be shown in the morning and afternoon sessions in the new ring that has been built on the lake front.

The classes of exhibition have been so diversified that any amateur under 18 years of age has been made to feel free to enter the show. There will be 63 riders. Exhibitors will take luncheon at the club, and there will be a horse show ball in the evening. Among the young people who have been active on the committees are Betty McGuire, Patsy Lawler, Nancy Miller, Bobby and Betsy Goes, Ruth McCarthy, Helen Herendeen, Paul Dougherty, and Francis Farwell.

Sir Josiah Stamp to Speak in City.

The Chicago Council on Foreign Relations has cards out for a luncheon next Friday at which Sir Josiah Stamp will speak on "Foreign Affairs from a British Standpoint." The luncheon will be held at 12:30 o'clock

MME. OLGA SAMAROFF-STOKOWSKI, celebrated concert pianist and music authority, has been lecturing nightly at Fullerton hall this week, "taking the terrors out of technicalities" for the music layman. Yesterday at the luncheon given for her at the Arts club by Ruth Page, who is just back from a European dance tour, she proved an enchanting conversationalist as well. One tale she told concerned a night during the series of eight recitals she was giving in New York of thirty-two Beethoven sonatas. She was playing the Hammerklavier sonata, when suddenly her memory failed. Although she knew the piece perfectly and had played it the week before in Philadelphia, she could go no further with it. With what seems extraordinary presence of mind she faced her great audience, said she would leave the stage for a moment and get her music, slipped out, and was back in a moment with the score. Not a single New York critic mentioned her lapse of memory, she added appreciatively. But later Harold Bauer, Gabrilowitch, and other musical friends teased her about it. Then one of them came forward with the information that the great Von Buelow, pianist and conductor, associate of Wagner and Liszt, had similarly forgotten while he was playing a Beethoven sonata. He had not been so honest as Mme. Samaroff, however. He pretended something was wrong with the piano.

MME. SAMAROFF-STOKOWSKI, who is stopping with Mrs. Harold Pynchon, will have concluded her 169th lecture within a year when she gives her last lecture at Fullerton hall tonight. As well as being a pianist and lecturer, she is a member of the faculty of the Juilliard School of Music and of the Philadelphia School of Music, has a layman's music class in New York attended regularly by Paul Cravath, Marshall Field, and other eminent patrons of the arts, and has written two books. Her new book, "The Magic of Music—For the Young of All Ages," is illustrated by Emil Preetorius, famous European stage set designer and head of the Munich Art school.

FIVE o'clock tea. One friend serves Jamaica rum with tea and a delicious German cake of many tiny layers with filling. She puts the rum bottle on the tea tray with her lovely old silver tea service and serves tea in blue glass cups that match the antique blue glass in her cabinets and on her consoles. . . . Another friend uses an exquisite modern Swedish tea service, and her cook makes wee doughnuts the size of a quarter. . . . A third serves southern ham on little beaten biscuits with the sherry and buttered fresh bread cut English fashion—so thin that it curls up at the edges—with tea in antique English china cups. . . . Another friend's specialty is brioches from a French bakery, sliced and toasted, supplemented by the rich little squares of cake called brownies. . . . Two women famous for the quality of the tea they serve import the same blend, and they are the only two women in Chicago who have it. . . . A third serves Darjeeling tea with ginger in it out of Rockingham china cups that belonged to her great-grandmother, accompanied by little rolls of fresh bread filled with water-cress.

SATURDAY Cuff Notes. Dr. Maurice Dimand of the Metropolitan museum calls the University of Chicago University City. . . . The latest edition of Edward J. O'Brien's "The Best Short Stories" is dedicated to I. V. Morris, son of Ira Nelson Morris, and his wife, Edita, who live in France. . . . And he calls Morris' story, "Marching Orders," the "most noteworthy short story of the year and one of the five or six most important stories of our generation." . . . The 1700 block on Kedzie avenue is missing as well as the 2000 block, but still no explanation. . . . Mention of hatpins in this space the other day brought in news that a Chicago woman once paid $2,200 in Italy for a pair. . . . The man whose luggage is monogrammed WPA is Wilbur Price Armstrong, bachelor doctor of Springfield, Ill. . . . You now can buy a gardening apron with a straw matting inset to kneel on. The matching smock has straw matting pockets for gardening tools. . . . Sorry not to have been first with the story about the mother moth who said to the baby moth, "Now eat up all the flannel or I won't let you have any ermine." . . . When Ruth Page stepped into an airplane in Copenhagen to fly to Berlin on her recent dance tour in Europe, she found Harold Kreutzberg, her partner on many programs and tours, and his accompanist, Fritz Wilkins, in the plane.

Good Morning!

A parade indeed! Of, it seems, but of course isn't, ALL the folks whose names and voices have become familiar to you over the air. No need for me to do any enumerating here. Look at the cast.

"The Hit Parade" is a fast and entertaining show consisting of three main episodes, each sporting a number of scenes.

THE FIRST: Monica Barrett, "Park Avenue" according to the script but Tenth Avenue to judge by her actions, high hats Pete Garland, radio expert, who had steered her to fame as an airways singer and who believes himself in love with the ungrateful lady. She breaks her contract. . . . He starts out to find some wonderful unknown to take her place and discovers Ruth Allison, singing in a cheap café. . . . She loses her heart to Pete, and makes good. . . .

THE SECOND: Monica, no longer popular, learns that Ruth is an ex-convict, violating parole, and exposes the unfortunate damsel to the press.

THE THIRD: Pete Garland and a bevy of radio celebrities rally to Ruth's standard. In a huge broadcast, which the girl who has disappeared hears, they unite in praising her, beseeching her public to give her a break and begging her return. She does, in time to sing with Pete—versatile fellow, Garland!—a ditty about a sweet ache in the heart. And all is hunky dory, hotsy totsy, et equivalents.

This broadcast, of course, furnishes opportunity for such specialty acts as haven't been aired before.

Frances Langford and Phil Regan—he looks so much like Tony Martin!—are an attractive pair of singing romantics. All of the featured players offer smart contributions and you'll enjoy the classy and varied orchestral din.

The piece is sumptuously staged, effectively costumed, and was directed with taste.

See you tomorrow.

Donald C. McKinlay, Son of Judge, Given Honor at Dartmouth

Donald C. McKinlay, son of Judge Donald S. McKinlay of the Superior court, was awarded Dartmouth's highest student honor yesterday at Hanover, N. H. He was presented with the Barret cup, awarded annually to the senior who has done most for Dartmouth and who shows the greatest promise of succeeding in the outside world.

D. C. McKinlay.

Young McKinlay is a letter man in basketball, president of the Interfraternity council and of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity, and a member of Casque and Gauntlet, Green Key, the Fire Squad, and Palæotius, the student governing body.

He will be graduated in about two weeks and then go on a bicycling tour in Europe with Gordon Bennett and Lotta McCray, Dartmouth football stars. Judge and Mrs. McKinlay will attend the commencement. Young McKinlay, who will be 21 years old on June 3, probably will enter the University of Chicago Law school in the fall.

Wins Honor at Barat College

Miss Rosemary Sauer, a student at Barat college, Lake Forest, will receive a medal for the excellence of her French at the honor day awards Monday afternoon at the college, following the traditional daisy chain ceremony. Miss Sauer, a debutante of the last season, is the daughter of Mrs. William A. Sauer of Evanston. The college recently was given the right to confer the teachers' certificate.

Jeanette MacDonald and Gene Raymond File Marriage Notice

Hollywood, Cal., May 28.—[Special.]—Gene Raymond and Jeanette MacDonald of the movies filed their formal notice of intent to marry at the Los Angeles courthouse after the regular filing time last night. Miss Rosamond Rice, who runs the license bureau, said today she had "kept open late" so the couple would not be "mobbed" when they appeared.

Raymond gave his age as 28 and Miss MacDonald said she was 29. They said the ceremony would take place June 16. The Rev. Willsie Martin of the Methodist Willshire church will marry them at that church. Nelson Eddy will sing. Robert Marlow, Raymond's brother, will be best man and Mrs. Warren Rock, Jeanette's sister, will be matron of honor.

ENGAGEMENTS

John B. Carroll of 5801 Winthrop avenue announces the engagement of his daughter, Mary Louise, to Michael Joseph Thoman, son of Mrs. Francis E. Thoman of Chicago. Miss Carroll is a graduate of the Sacred Heart convent. Mr. Thoman is a graduate of Loyola university. The wedding will take place in the fall.

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Calek of 9136 South Winchester avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Marie Joanne, to George A. Jakes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Jakes of Cleveland, O.

Women's Pageant of Progress Will Open at Coliseum Today

The annual Women's Pageant of Progress will open today at the Coliseum, to continue through June 6. Displays featuring the home, industry, commerce, arts, trades, professions, science and clubs, especially in their relation to women, will be shown, and there will be a special program each day.

The Chicago board of health, the Camp Fire Girls of America, the Chicago park district and numerous clubs are among those exhibiting.

Proceeds will go to the Chicago Milk Fund association for the benefit of undernourished babies.

Stylish Hats Can Be Had at Modest Price

Stitched Linen Models in Every Color.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The stores are ready for the hordes of knowing shoppers who are out for summer headgear with modest price marks.

Some of the best stitched linen affairs ever unpacked are priced around $3 and come in every shade known to a color mixer. They are of the hat variety, not the skimpy headache bands or yet the cartwheels, but an in-between size, off-the-face, with a small part of the crown exposed.

They have a couple of short streamers down the back, are exceptionally well made and flattering. Such crisp hats go with dotted swiss street and office clothes, with navy and black sheers, with white spectator sports clothes and are perfect for all the gay linen outfits.

You'll find black and plenty of brown tones, navy, a stunning yellow, some of the best pinks and blues yet unpacked and with just ordinary care they'll see you through the summer in nice form.

In the same shop are the street or daytime leghorn hats, very simple, good looking models to wear with summer wardrobes. They're grand tops for prints whether of silk or cotton. All of them have decided down slanting, medium wide brims, rather highish crowns [with no slits or apertures] and come with dark grosgrain ribbon bands and bows or bands and short streamers.

You're going to see all kinds of leghorn hats this summer, for these obliging straws go with everything, one piece dress, summer suit, silk prints, nets, and even dark laces.

Watch for the panamas, also available in this low priced collection. You'll find the very model you've been yerning to own, and these, too, are swanky and simple, without being too childish. Any one can find a style to suit her needs in summer clothes.

On other days at the same hour subjects will be: Wednesday, Egyptian exhibits; Thursday, a general tour; and Friday, the hall of plant life.

Young Catholic Pupils Exhibit Their Paintings

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The annual art exhibit of Chicago Catholic schools is current in an attractive little gallery on the eighth floor of The Fair store. The work is by youthful students and is picturesque and colorful with an unmistakable juvenile technique that should endear it to the hearts of parents.

Your Dick or John, Mary or Ann might easily have been one of these young artists whose illustrations for "Evangeline," or "Easter Rabbit," or "Sir Galahad," or even a zoo, make gay these walls.

The exhibit represents the work of 10,000 children in the elementary schools and was done under the supervision of Miss Eunice F. Foster, art supervisor. It will continue to June 7.

An excellent exhibition of mature student work is found in the annual exhibit now current on the walls of the American Academy of Art, 25 East Jackson boulevard.

In the Marshall Field gallery, continuing through June 5, is an exhibit of paintings of Mexico by Jenaro Blacio, a native of Mexico. He has none of the fire or force of Mexico's best publicized painter, Rivera, nor does he seem to paint in what we have come to consider the characteristic Mexican manner, that is with flat colors and showing his people as square, dumpy figures, something like a mathematician's dream of geometric designs endowed with life.

On the contrary, Blacio paints in a tight and meticulous manner that betrays the trained technician.

Several of the canvases stand out, either because of an unexpected excellence of design, a rush of color, a flood of sunshine and contrast of shadow, or choice of subject. Among these are "Godmothers," "Ramonet Street," "Ex-Convent Street," "The Plaza of St. John," "Serenade," and "Ridge of Mountains of the Huisteco."

Even if one were not told one would know that Blacio has been a painter on pottery and glass. His feeling for texture and color is everywhere shown, and the fineness of stroke that only the artisan-artist can acquire.

THE TRAP

SYNOPSIS.

Brave Alida French opens up Avalon, the ancestral home she has inherited on the Massachusetts coast, for paying guests—though the house, according to local gossip, is haunted. Four men have vanished from it. Her guests are Vance, a young man with a fatal heart ailment; Dr. Eugene Benedict, struggling young physician, and his wife, Lucy, a nurse. Bing Haven, her family lawyer's nephew, assists Alida. Alida hires Comfort Folger, who used to work at Avalon, also her nephew Nat, and Abram Parsons, whom Comfort refuses to marry because of his drinking. Vance and the Benedicts, driving to Avalon, collide with the car of the rich, neurotic Mrs. Kirkpatrick, and her daughter Spring. They take them with them to Avalon. Bing Haven and Spring fall in love. A dancing skeleton and two strange men in antique clothes are seen on the grounds of Avalon. Alida sees one of the strange men enter and disappear in the house. Alida queries Comfort, who tells her of a secret cellar for storing liquor. Dr. Benedict tells Alida he has learned that Mrs. Kirkpatrick is the mistress of a wealthy man in the west. Spring, unknown to her, is a child of the liaison.

INSTALMENT XXX.

A DIFFICULT CONFESSION.

Dinner in the closely curtained dining room—Alida had made sure that it was closely curtained—was a cheerful meal. Bing sat between Spring and her mother, giving each his attention almost impartially. Geraldine Kirkpatrick was almost as unknown to her daughter as she had been to her associates at Avalon. Nevertheless, Spring had faith in her lover, and her young heart was singing. Bing's sang with it.

Mrs. Kirkpatrick had come downstairs to meet the young man with whom Spring had spent most of her waking hours for the past six weeks, and who she now wanted to marry. With apparent serenity, her tolerant smile on her firm lips, Mrs. Kirkpatrick chatted with this young man and studied him. Watching her, Alida realized that already the exuberant youth had few secrets from this sophisticated worldling.

When her guests left the dining room and filed along the hall to the living room Alida smiled to herself. Before the last of them had crossed its threshold, Bing firmly led Mrs. Kirkpatrick into the study. She went with her wise and sophisticated smile, but above it her eyes were tragic. So much lay hidden in the next half hour! Alida sent Comfort into the study close on their heels, with their coffee, their liquor glasses, and a small carafe of apricot brandy.

She thought, "They will both need a glass of that before their talk is over."

In the study young Bing was going through his social paces. He led Mrs. Kirkpatrick to Alida's most comfortable chair. He poured her coffee and her liquor. He offered her a cigaret, and held his lighter to it. All the time he was conscious of a lump in his throat. So much depended on this woman! When Mrs. Kirkpatrick's cigaret was drawing perfectly he drew a chair in front of her, sat down, and spoke huskily but firmly.

"I brought you in here to tell you that I love Spring," he began. "I suppose you've guessed that. Spring says she loves me. We want to be married."

"One handicap is that Spring is illegitimate."

He sat back in his chair and looked at her anxiously.

Mrs. Kirkpatrick continued to smile. He saw with amazement that the hand which held her cigaret was shaking, and that under her makeup her face was gray. The discovery both stunned and steadied him. She was nervous, too! But she spoke almost casually.

"Suppose you tell me something about your credentials," she suggested. "I know that you are an Amherst graduate, and that you belong to a good family. I know you are in your uncle's law office. But can you support a wife?"

Bing had been ready for this. He rushed eagerly into assurances.

"I talked that over with my uncle," he told her, "as soon as Spring and I knew we cared. My uncle is an old bachelor in his early 60s. There isn't much chance that he'll marry. He says he never will. He likes Spring awfully. He told me to tell you I'd have all he's got some day, but not for a long time. He said the day after I was married he'd make me a partner in our firm. That doesn't mean a great deal financially; but with what my father left me I'll have three thousand a year. That goes pretty far in a town like Quinnet, especially as Uncle Caleb wants us to live with him. He's got a nice old house with enough room in it for a battalion. It would cut him up badly if we insisted on living anywhere else. He really is devoted to Spring."

"And to you." Mrs. Kirkpatrick still smiled, but her lips were stiff. "It all sounds satisfactory, especially as Spring's father made a good settlement on her when she was born. But——" the fixed smile disappeared, and she brought out her next words almost harshly. "But——" she repeated, "there are some handicaps on Spring's side to be considered."

"Handicaps?" The boy looked at her in bewilderment. It was her manner, not her words, that disturbed him.

"Yes." Geraldine Kirkpatrick, like her would-be son-in-law, knew how to take a hurdle. She went on deliberately.

"One handicap is that Spring is illegitimate. The other is that I myself am not—well, let us say not quite the pillar of society I hope I have seemed. I am what I think is called in this community 'a kept woman.' I have been 'kept' by Spring's father for twenty years. He couldn't marry me because he was already married when we met. His wife is a hopeless invalid, but he is very fond of her. If she dies he will marry me—at least he says so. He will never leave her while she lives. I have no doubt that she will live on for years."

The lump in young Haven's throat was troubling him again. It had grown larger. For a moment he could not speak.

"I'm sorry Spring is illegitimate," he brought out at last, "if she minds it. It doesn't matter to me. I mean—it hasn't anything to do with us."

"It doesn't matter to Spring, either," Spring's mother said calmly. "She doesn't know about it. She needn't know it, ever."

"That's fine—for her sake."

Mrs. Kirkpatrick's color was still gray. Against it her rouge stood out cruelly. But her voice was steady. Something in it, a forced note perhaps, underlined the boy's first realization that for her, too, this was a hard interview. Heretofore he had thought only of Spring and himself.

"Spring thinks I'm a widow, in comfortable circumstances and of good social position. She thinks her father died when she was a baby."

"She needn't know anything else," Bing said almost under his breath. "At least—I mean—she'll never hear about it from me."

"It's something for you to think of," his companion gravely pointed out. "It is more important than you seem to realize."

"I don't need to think about it," Bing said dully.

"Don't you mind it?" The question came almost sharply.

"I'm not saying I don't." The boy facing her had suddenly become a man. "Of course I'd rather she had a clean slate, for her own sake. But I'm marrying Spring Kirkpatrick. I'm not marrying her father or her mother or her history. If she doesn't know the truth about them, she'll never learn it if I can keep it from her."

His companion drew a quick breath. He had received an impression that she had hardly breathed at all while he was speaking. She smiled again, shakily but with at least a suggestion of her normal manner.

"That simplifies matters a lot," she admitted. "Now I can tell you some things that are easier to listen to."

She stopped for a moment as if to consider her words. "I've devoted a good deal of thought to safeguarding Spring," she went on, after a moment. "I've succeeded so far, and naturally I've made plans for her marriage. The most important one is that from the time she is married I no longer exist for her. I should like you to marry her right away. Is that possible?"

"Yes. It's what I want to do. We hoped you'd let us do that."

"Good. I should like to attend the wedding, if you don't mind. There will be only ourselves, of course, with Miss French and your uncle—and I suppose the Benedicts and Mr. Vance," she added indifferently. "Perhaps you will take Spring away for a little honeymoon. I shall leave here right after the wedding—the same day. As soon as Spring is home from her honeymoon, and settled, there will be a regrettable accident in California. I shall be killed."

Bing sprang from his chair.

"Good God," he cried, "you don't mean—I won't hear of it——"

"I don't mean suicide," she explained. "I'm not as unselfish as that; and I'm not in the least melodramatic."

GASOLINE ALLEY—FANCY WORK

Movie Novices Given Break in Hospital Film

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., May 28.—[Special.] "General Hospital," now in production at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, finds two young players in their first rôles of consequence—Grace Ford, cast as a nurse in love with an incompetent physician, and Edward Norris as an intern.

Miss Ford is the Tulsa, Okla., dancing teacher who came to Hollywood with one of her girl pupils in 1934 and was signed, much to her surprise, instead of the pupil. She stayed on the Warner contract list a year, being assigned to attend drama coaching classes. A year ago Metro signed her and she played the sinister witch woman in the Tod Browning mystery thriller "Devil Doll."

Daughter of a small town engineer, Miss Ford was born in Hollis, Okla. Her family moved to Tulsa and after high school she studied dancing in New York.

She returned to open her own dancing school in Tulsa after refusing a job as a show girl in the 1930 Follies. She is in her twenties and her features bear much resemblance to Joan Crawford, but she is a golden blonde with hazel eyes.

Norris is a young man whose dissatisfaction with routine things flunked him out of Penn Charter school and prompted him to run away from Culver academy when he was 15 years old in order to ship as a deckhand on a sailing vessel which went around Cape Horn. Returning to Philadelphia, his home town, he worked as a newspaper reporter for a while and then turned to acting, joining the Philadelphia professionals and coming to the west to try Hollywood.

Hollywood didn't react favorably to Norris at first, but finally he caught on in a succession of small parts.

His career as a movie intern no doubt will be followed with parental interest by his father, who is Dr. Richard C. Norris, former executive of the American Medical association and former chief of staf of various Philadelphia hospitals.

Metro studio recruited five nurses from the Los Angeles County hospital to play nurse rôles in the film and Virginia Bruce was surprised when she entered the set to recognize one of them, Edna Eidsaa, as a classmate of hers in school at Fargo, N. D. Miss Eidsaa and her sister nurses look more like beautiful movie actresses than some of the actresses do. In fact the studio may put some of the girls under contract.

The studio also keeps a physician—Dr. Harry M. Nardini—on the set for a double reason. One is that expert advice is always needed by the director on a story of such professional nature. The other is that Dr. Nardini collaborated with Erich von Stroheim on the preparation of the story. Dr. Nardini is a practicing physician who was born in New York City but educated at University of Southern California.

They were shooting a scene today in which Miss Ford, as a new nurse, lifts the sheet from a wounded man, Leonard Penn, Gladys George's husband. The new nurse is supposed to show great agitation. Penn's body has been painted with mercurochrome, and when Miss Ford lifted the sheet she keeled over. Director Adolph Zimmerman found cold water necessary to revive her. Miss Ford explained that she hadn't really fainted, but bumped her head on the operating table in her simulated swoon. Mr. Zimmerman and the others on the set looked unbelievingly at her explanation.

xercises Are Cure for What Ails Waistline

Miss Donnelly Suggests Some Good Ones.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.
[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Waistline creeping up on you so you feel it's an effort to do things? Get after it. That condition not only makes you feel years older but you are bound to look years older than you really are. There's nothing like excess poundage about the mid-riff to give a heavy, settled look. It's a sure sign you are leading an inactive life. You're not getting the exercise which keeps your figure trim and slim and keeps you feeling and looking young. You need exercises that twist, stretch and bend the waistline if you wish to keep a slender figure.

This is the season for gardening. There's nothing better for you. It keeps you outdoors where you may enjoy the benefits of good fresh air. The bending and stretching you do help to keep the waistline down. Some morning, when you're feeling particularly energetic, give yourself a workout with the lawn mower. When you're shoving it around you'll notice the pull on the muscles of the waistline and abdomen, also on the muscles of the upper arm, so if your arms are flabby it will give those muscles tone.

In case you haven't a garden, or prefer to do your exercises in the privacy of your own room, I'll give you a few that will keep your waist slim and make you look the part of one who is up on her toes and always the active person.

Lie flat on your back on the floor. Raise the right leg, cross it over the left and stretch it. Roll over on your hips and repeat with the left leg. Try to keep the shoulders stationary. It won't be easy at first, but with a little practice they'll lie perfectly flat and still.

Next. Stand erect, left arm forward, shoulder level, right arm back. Kick fingers of left hand with right toe. Reverse, kicking fingers of left hand with right toe. Repeat twenty to thirty times. When your waistline is supple enough, swing arms around until they are straight out from shoulders, and then try to kick the left hand with right toe, and the right hand with the left toe. Twist only at the waist. You're good when you can do this.

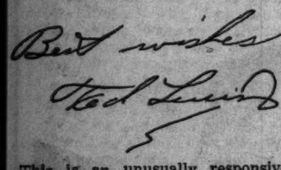
Sees Intuition in Handwriting of Ted Lewis

BY MURIEL STAFFORD.
[Copyright: 1937: By Muriel Stafford.]

You'd expect Band Leader Ted Lewis to write in a sophisticated, rather indifferent manner, wouldn't you? Handwriting grows more fascinating as you discover how often your guess on personality differs from what is revealed in the handwriting. Ted Lewis wears a high hat when he's doing his stuff, but he's actually not a bit "high hat."



This is an unusually responsive, affectionate, and sensitive handwriting. It is written with a light pressure, an extreme forward slant, and all idealistic upper loops in the letters "h" and "t."

Although the rhythm of the handwriting is somewhat disturbed in the first line by a high-strung, slightly nervous temperament, it is very noticeable in the signature, especially in the word "Lewis." That unusual word ending and the lightning stroke underscore are intriguing. They show both originality and creative talent.

This brief sample of writing does not show all of the intuition revealed in the note Ted Lewis wrote for me to analyze. Between the responsiveness of the writing and the intuition reflected I could not help saying to Mr. Lewis, "You can almost read people's minds!" He said eagerly, 'Do you know that's true! I CAN read people's minds."

This writing is an excellent sample of high sensitivity being put to good use. Only one thing puzzles me. The writing is so sympathetic that I can't understand how Mr. Lewis can bear to dismiss anybody. He must suffer between his high standards and his almost sentimental sympathies. Of course his ability to "sense" how good a performer is before he takes him on probably makes it unnecessary for much dismissing to be done.

Your Handwriting Analyzed

Any Tribune reader can obtain a personal graphology chart showing his or her assets, handicaps, talents, and emotions by following these rules:

1. Send sample of handwriting to Muriel Stafford, Chicago Tribune, post-office box 1720.
2. Inclose 10 cents (carefully wrapped) for each sample of handwriting you wish analyzed.
3. Inclose a self-addressed, STAMPED envelope, folded once.

Report Property Recovery After Presbyterian Split

Columbus, O., May 28.—(AP)—A special committee reported to the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America today that it had recovered approximately $1,600,000 worth of property from the Presbyterian Church of America. The property was taken by former members, officials said, when they withdrew and formed the Presbyterian Church of America a year ago. The committee said further that it ... ed to recover an additiona ...,000 worth of property.

For Tea Dance or Kitchen

WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

To be sure, this model is simple, but its plain styling is deceiving, believe you us! If you pick a glamorous fabric this little number can go to dances. In practical cottons it may grace the kitchen! This pattern really earns the title of "versatile." There absolutely is a place in your wardrobe for this dress, and you can't tell us differently!

The neckline may be either square or V. The sleeves may be pert caps or fluffy puffed ones. The waist is nicely molded to the figure. A fulsome sash graces the back, and the skirt is a pleasant variation of the dirndl, with plenty of fulness. Pockets, if you wish them. Lace or organdy ruching may enhance the neckline and the sleeves, or rickrack may be called into service. Both may be purchased ready made and are as easy as A B C to apply. They are, of course, detachable for pressing.

Sheers in either silk or cotton make up well for afternoon and evening wear. The many sturdy cottons are ideal for daytime hours.

Style No. 2540 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20 years, and 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 3½ yards of 39 inch material, with 2¼ yards of braid.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Beauty news for brides:

Did you know that for a flat fee, which is not at all large, the beauty salon of one of the Chicago stores will send out a makeup expert the day of your wedding to see that you, your attendants, and even your mamma and the bridegroom's are perfectly made up?

It's a perfectly grand idea, we think. The expert even totes a curling iron to see that no bridesmaid or nervous, perspiring bride is harassed by loose hair ends. The expert sees to it that every woman in the wedding party has nail enamel in the same soft tint and that each is exquisitely made up.

Nothing in the world gives a woman such self-assurance as the knowledge that she's perfectly turned out. And brides and brides' attendants need poise so that they will present a beautiful pageantish picture as they march up the aisle. The shop will have the expert at your home at any hour you specify and she will take each in turn, seeing that the makeup harmonizes with the costume colors and that every woman in the bridal party is as beautiful as makeup and skill can insure.

We happen to know rather a lot about the makeups in which this shop specializes and we approve of them thoroughly. The powder, rouge, lipstick and eye shadow shades used are all beautiful, and each girl who works with the makeup accessories is trained to do her work with skill and artistry.

Brides who're made up in this fashion will look lovely—and there will be no shiny nose to mar the facial perfection at the reception. A professional makeup such as this one is going to be natural looking and lasting.

Don't you agree that it's a grand idea? ELEANOR NANGLE.

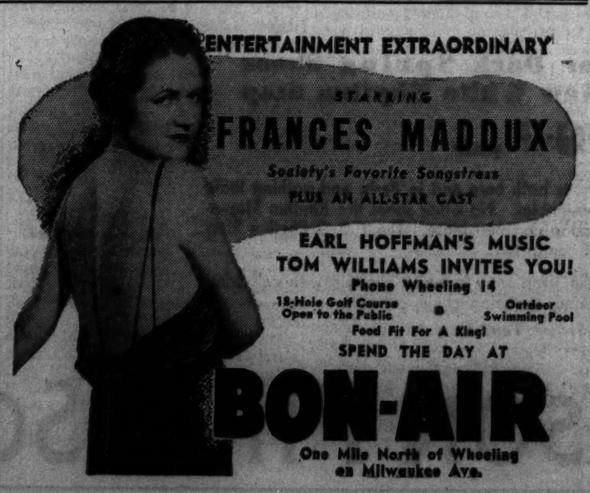
Roosevelts Give Party for Washington Reporters

Washington, D. C., May 28.—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Roosevelt gave a party tonight for the men and women reporters assigned to Washington. Each man was permitted to take a lady and each woman was permitted to take a man. Members of the cabinet and their wives assisted in receiving the company. As soon as all guests were received kegs of cold beer were tapped.



Parent Should Guard Child's Individuality

Youngster Is Human Being, Not Potter's Clay.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS
[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

"I have a 2½ year old child who 'doesn't hear' any requests unless they are agreeable to her"—Actual quotation from a mother's letter!

Clever baby, say I. There is an example of wise mother training! There is a child who has the right idea [meaning nature's idea, of course]. Fine for mother's self-control [maybe!]. Good for fixing a home atmosphere congenial to the baby. A masterly 2½ year old, in my opinion.

But really aren't they just too clever, these little, delectable looking treasures who, according to all laws, should be completely in our power?

"The irony of it," one mother writes, "that that little thing can make a nervous wreck of me by 6 o'clock."

"The irony of it" is right. The entirely unconscious way in which they can become master of the home situation wouldn't seem possible to you if you hadn't seen it happen, if you never had had a child or dealings with one.

The truth is that, unless you get a line on this whole business, unless you are rather clever yourself, those small ones are going to get the better of you. I don't mean that they are out to do you, consciously. They simply are in the grip of forces stronger than they—stronger than we. Life is pulsing in them, urging them on to get what they want by hook or crook, inspiring them to be themselves unfettered and untrammeled, spurring them on to learn everything they can by adventure and experiment. These forces are powerful in them, but, when they are blocked or misdirected, the child suffers and the family too. These forces of growth, of natural development, need to be given useful channels for their outlet if the child is to be happy and at peace.

It all is not so very difficult. What we need is to know why they act as they do. We should be wise enough to be glad that they aren't like soft lumps of clay, too easy to mold. How dreadful and how uninteresting that would be! This must be our attitude, and then we must learn how to handle this wonderful human material called "our baby."

Budget Should Have Funds for Entertainment

BY DORIS BLAKE.
[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

A young couple planning to be married soon has asked for advice about their budget. One of them feels it would be a wise plan to save every cent possible against the proverbial rainy day. The other thinks this a mistake, feeling they owe it to themselves to have some pleasures and that the money they spend on amusements that come within their means is money well spent.

I'm more than inclined to agree with the one who suggests they have some pleasures. Life soon would become drab and dull for two young persons were they to start saving every cent possible and depriving themselves of all amusements and pleasures. That type of saving amounts to miserliness. You never have heard of miserly people finding happiness. They get to the point where they are afraid to spend money for the necessities, and their attitude toward life generally is warped. Their dispositions suffer.

While a firm believer in people saving money, in being thrifty, I feel every person who earns money should set aside a certain amount out of each pay check. But, at the same time, let them arrange their budgets to include some forms of amusement. Pleasures may be had without the expenditure of too much money. Without them you lead a humdrum existence. You're out of touch with what is going on. You become uninteresting to others, as well as to yourselves. A woman who stays at home, and has a tasty meal ready for her husband every night, is thrilled when he suggests eating out. It's something different for her, and she derives a great deal of pleasure from getting away from her own cooking.

The movies aren't too expensive for the average income. You see the good pictures at the neighborhood theaters, perhaps a little later, but the picture is just as enjoyable. And if you like to dance, you should go to a dance occasionally. It helps to keep you young, and makes you feel that life is worth living. No matter how pleasant a place the woman makes her home, it does her good to get away, and it gives her things to think about the next day when she starts in all over again to perform her household tasks.

Culbertson's "Gold Book of Bidding and Play"

Herewith is presented another portion of Mr. Culbertson's latest work on contract, the "Gold Book of Bidding and Play," which is being reproduced in this column in daily instalments.

THE THREE NO TRUMP OVERCALL.

[Copyright: 1937: By Ely Culbertson.]

The overcall of an opponent's preemptive three bid with three no trump does not indicate the same type of hand as does the four no trump overcall. If a defender bids three no trump over his opponents' opening three spade bid, he is not making a forcing bid, although many good players interpret it that way and are not open to criticism for so doing.

Usually the three no trump overcall is dependent upon a long, solid minor suit with a sure stopper in the opponents' suit and sure or probable stoppers in the other suits. The following hand is an example:

♠A 6 ♥K 9 ♦A K Q J 7 2 ♣10 6.

This hand will win at least seven tricks against an opponent's three spade bid and, with the ace of hearts and nothing else in partner's hand, will produce a game.

TODAY'S HAND.

West, dealer.

♥None
♦A J 9 7 4
♣K Q J 8 7 5

WEST	EAST
♠A J 10 8	♠K 9 4 2
♥A J 4	♥8 7 3 2
♦K Q 10 8 2	♦None

SOUTH
♠Q 7 5
♥K Q 10 9 6 5
♦6 5 3

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 diamond	Double	Pass	1 heart
Pass	3 clubs	Pass	2 hearts
Pass	3 clubs	Pass	?

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: The question we want to ask is, What should be South's next bid? Should he or should he not bid three hearts? I may say that he actually did, was doubled, and 'took the rap' for 1,400 points.

"North insisted that his three club bid was a sign-off.

"Cordially,

"E. I., West Palm Beach."

Taking up the bids in the order in which they occurred, I must say that North's take-out double of one diamond was awful! With support for neither major suit and, in fact, every reason to be "frightened to death" of the likely heart response, North should have confined himself to either of two courses. First, he might have passed in the hope of trapping diamonds; second, if he felt that there was little chance of the opponents reaching the heights in diamonds, he could, of course, put in a two club overcall.

East's pass to the take-out double had a lucky outcome. I am much afraid that I would have spoiled everything by a one spade rescue bid. South should have bid two hearts in response to the double. His hand was too strong for the forced response of one heart. West, I should say, deserves credit for his self-control in passing on this and the next round of bidding. It is apparent that he "knew his opponents" and gave them more than enough rope with which to hang themselves.

There is no question that, as the bidding actually went, South should have bid three hearts over three clubs. His suit was strong enough to stand on its own feet and, if North had a sound and conventional take-out double, there still was chance of a game despite the fact that North had not supported either one or two hearts.

The drastic punishment was, in my opinion, the result of the atrocious take-out double.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: Partner opened the bidding with two diamonds. Next player passed. What is my response with: ♠Q J 8 6 ♥8 7 5 4 3 ♦9 ♣A 7 5?

Answer: Two spades.

Sir Josiah is chairman of the London, Midland and Scottish railroad, and a member of the board of directors of the Bank of England, and is the author of numerous works on economics.

Sir Josiah and Lady Stamp are arriving Thursday and will spend a few days in Evanston with Mrs. Charles H. Bosworth, whose younger daughter, Frances, is married to the Stamps' son, Dr. Trevor Stamp. The young Stamps are remaining in England, but Mrs. Bosworth's other daughter, Mrs. Gordon Padley, is expected to come for a visit later this summer.

Andrew Harpers Have Daughter

From Grosse Pointe, Mich., comes news of the birth of a daughter, Jane Sinclair, to Mr. and Mrs. Andrew B. Harper Jr. [Margaret Sinclair], on May 26. Mrs. William J. Sinclair, the infant's maternal grandmother, of 2350 Lincoln Park West, is in Grosse Pointe with her son-in-law and daughter.

The Gaylord Donnelleys and the C. Daggett Harveys are spending the long week-end at the Coleman Lake club, where they will spend most of their time with rod and reel.

The Telfer MacArthurs are among those who have houses at the Wausaukee club who are up there for the long week-end. The Kenneth Templetons are their guests.

The Edwin E. Sheridans are cruising aboard their new schooner, the Sea-Saga, off the Massachusetts shore. Mr. Sheridan is planning to keep the boat in Marblehead harbor this summer so he and his wife will spend most of the summer in the east. They will go up to Wausaukee for an occasional short stay.

The John C. Slades and their daughter, Shirley, went to Wausaukee last Tuesday to spend a week in their charming house.

The Stephen Y. Hords left after dinner last night, accompanied by Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Bissell and the junior William R. Odells, to spend the long week-end at Maxinkuckee Lake, Ind. All will be guests of Mr. Hord's mother, Mrs. Francis Hord, who has a summer home on the lake.

At the annual meeting of the junior board of the Chicago Home for Convalescent Women and Children Mrs. Allan T. Lockhard was reëlected president for her fourth term, and the date for the annual fall benefit dance was set for Oct. 16, at the Palmer house. Also at the meeting announcement was made of the formation of a group of young women to be known as the Junior Associates of the Home, who will assist the junior board.

At the annual meeting of the Chicago Lighthouse for the Blind yesterday Mrs. John Glen Sample, president, and her slate of officers for the last year were reëlected for another one year term.

"Pies He'll Rave About," a booklet of delicious recipes for pie fillings and a variety of pie crusts, is on sale at the Tribune Pulic Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, for 3 cents; by mail, 5 cents in stamps. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.
[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Pie crusts aren't to be described as merely flaky and tender or hard and tough. They come in flavors, too. Many's the time we've given a recipe for a graham cracker, cookie crum, or cornflake crust, but it's been a long time since we've even thought about chocolate pastry, cheese pie dough or a spicy shell for a fruit filling. And these flavored pastries are much too good to be overlooked.

Much of a pie's goodness depends upon the crust. Any of these three varieties is a wonder worker.

Chocolate Pie Crust.
[One Large Crust.]
1¼ cups pastry flour
2½ tablespoons cocoa
2 teaspoons sugar
½ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup cold, hard fat
6 tablespoons [approximately] cold water.

Have all ingredients cold. Sift flour,, cocoa, sugar, and salt together. Cut in the shortening coarsely. Add just enough water to hold the ingredients together. Chill the dough for a short time. Roll it out and bake inside or on the bottom of a pie pan for about 12 minutes. The oven should be hot, 425 degrees. If the crust is baked on the inside of the pie tin prick it well to prevent bumping. If baked on the bottom of the inverted pan this is not necessary.

Cheese Pie Crust.
[One Large Crust.]
1½ cups pastry flour
½ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup hard fat
½ cup grated cheese
6 tablespoons [approximately] cold water.

Cut grated cheese and fat into flour and salt until the mixture is in coarse lumps. Add just enough water to hold the pastry together. Chill, roll, and fit into pie pan or over the bottom of pan. Bake at 425 degrees for about 12 minutes or until brown.

Spicy Pie Crust.
[Double Crust.]
2 cups pastry flour
½ teaspoon salt
⅔ cup hard fat
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup [or less] cold water

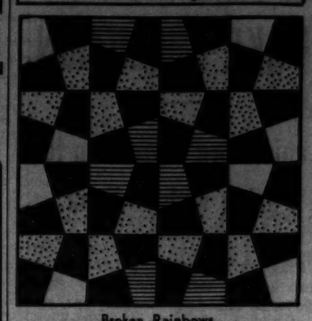
Sift dry ingredients together and cut fat into them to make coarse lumps. Add just enough water to make the mixture hold together. Chill and roll out.

And here is a pie filling which will be as good in one of these crusts as in either of the others. Pineapple flavor is flattered by chocolate, cheese, or spice. Take your choice.

Pineapple Cream Pie.
¼ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons cornstarch
1 cup drained crushed pineapple
3 egg yolks
3 tablespoons butter
1¼ cups undiluted evaporated milk
Juice of 1 lemon

Mix sugar, salt, and cornstarch and add pineapple, beaten egg yolks, butter and milk. Cook in the top of a double boiler, stirring until well thickened. Add lemon juice, cool, and pour into a baked pie shell. Cover with a meringue made from the three egg whites and six tablespoons of sugar. Brown in a 350 degree oven.

Pieced Block Is Reminiscent of Old Crazy Quilt



Broken Rainbows.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Broken Rainbows" is one of the few pieced quilts which are reminiscent of the old crazy quilt. The block may be made in any color, but the solid colors, light and dark, and the printed materials, light and dark, should be set together according to the illustration. This quilt affords an excellent opportunity for quilt makers to utilize materials from the overflowing scrap bag. This four patch block is set together to form an all-over design, yet it is equally attractive when set together with alternate blocks of white.

PROGRESS TOLD IN CAMPAIGN ON LAKE POLLUTION

Legislators Hear Plan for Parley with Indiana.

Progress in protecting Lake Michigan against contamination by sewage and industrial wastes was reported yesterday to a committee of the lower house of the Illinois legislature by health officials and representatives of industrial concerns. The hearing was held in the board room of the Cook county commissioners.

Attorney General Otto Kerner after the meeting expressed satisfaction over the progress made in cleaning up the lake. He will meet Indiana health officials in Indianapolis on July 2 for a joint conference on sewage disposal. The attorney general and Dr. Frank J. Jirka, director of the Illinois department of health, reported that 14 investigators from Indianapolis have been studying Indiana's part in the problem in the Calumet area.

Warns Lake Forest Officials.

Kerner warned Lake Forest officials that the state may be forced to start suit against that municipality unless steps are taken to prevent the flow of sewage from the west side of the city into the lake. William O Paape, building and health commissioner of Lake Forest, said the city did not have money to build sewers in its sparcely settled western edge.

George M. Kellogg Jr., attorney for the Wisconsin Steel company, and F. B. Thatcher, representing the Interlake Iron company, which dump untreated domestic and industrial sewage into the Calumet river, said that their share of the problem would be settled early next year. The two companies have joined together, they said, to build a 21 inch sewer at a cost of $40,000.

Mill to Divert Sewage.

George W. Gale, attorney representing the General Mills, owners of the Washburn-Crosby mills on the Calumet river, said his company expected to have sewage connections into the city system for its domestic waste by July 1.

Sidney de Lesseps Story, regional director of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater association, led the discussion for proponents of the proposed St. Lawrence seaway who appeared before a second house subcommittee sitting in the city council chambers. Story asserted that the seaway would mean lowered freight rates to shippers of the central west, who provide 60 per cent of the cargoes sent overseas.

WIFE OF ANDY OF RADIO TEAM WINS DIVORCE

Charles J. Correll, the lugubrious deep voiced Andy of the blackface Amos 'n' Andy radio team, was divorced yesterday by Mrs. Marie Janes Correll of the Drake hotel. It was reported that Mrs. Correll has received more than $100,000 in cash in an out of court settlement.

The decree was granted after a default hearing by Judge Donald S. McKinlay. Andy, who is in Los Angeles with his radio partner, Freeman F. Gosden, was represented in court by Attorney Otto Baer.

Under the direction of her attorney, Ald. B. A. Cronson, Mrs. Correll told of two acts of cruelty, one last Christmas eve when Andy slapped her and the other on May 1 in their Palm Springs, Cal., home when he grabbed her arm and struck her.

"Out of curiosity and for my information in collecting data on divorce cases," remarked Judge McKinlay, "will you tell me, Mrs. Correll, whether your troubles started after your husband became famous?"

Mrs. Correll brushed nervously at her graying hair, smoothed her navy blue dress, and replied: "They began after Andy became well known."

The Corrells were married Jan. 27, 1927.

SECOND CRASH VICTIM DIES.

Rockford, Ill., May 28.—[Special.]—Injured in the automobile crash Wednesday night in which his sister, Janina, 18 years old, was killed, Julian Dyboski, 20, died today at Rockford hospital. Double funeral services will be held for the two Monday.

Slayer Sentenced

Harold Rambert and his mother, Mrs. Hattie Rambert.

Judge Robert Jerome Dunne, in the Criminal court, yesterday sentenced Harold Rambert, 26 years old, to one to fourteen years in the penitentiary for the slaying of Francis Parker, a piano player in the Monte Carlo café, 2370 Clybourn avenue, last Jan. 10. Expressing extreme regret, Judge Dunne denied a motion for probation, but said he would appear in Rambert's behalf when the defendant is eligible for parole. Rambert denied intentionally shooting Parker, but admitted he was intoxicated at the time.

ROOSEVELT'S AID IS PROMISED FOR SEAWAY PROJECT

New York, May 28.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt pledged himself to "do everything within my power" to win early approval for the program of St. Lawrence seaway and hydroelectric development in a telegram to the National Seaway council, made public today.

The President's new enunciation of his position was looked upon as part of the drive which has his backing to win approval by the United States senate of the proposed treaty with Canada for development of the St. Lawrence resources.

The telegram was addressed to Fred J. Freestone, chairman of the National Seaway council, in response to a resolution adopted by that body.

Freestone announced that the executive committee of the council would meet in Washington within a short time "to tender united support of the project under treaty agreements between the United States and Canada."

RARE CURRENCY WORTH MILLION BURNED BY U. S.

Money from Collection of Late Hetty Green.

Washington, D. C., May 28.—(AP)—A suitcase full of rare currency was hacked to pieces and burned today at the treasury. Authorities said it would have been worth $1,000,000 in the collectors' market.

They disclosed that the currency was from a collection started by the late Hetty Green, once rated the world's wealthiest woman.

It was turned over to the treasury for its face value of $198,176.

The collection is one of the most valuable in the world, officials said, containing two sets of all notes ever issued by the federal government.

Act on Banker's Advice.

Explaining why the Green estate handed over currency worth $1,000,000 for less than a fifth of that figure, officials said James Wade of the Chase National bank at New York had advised this be done. They said Wade suggested that where the collection contained more than two of any type of note the extras should be redeemed.

The usual treasury policy is to destroy redeemed currency when it is of a kind no longer being issued.

Become More Valuable.

This had the effect of making the remaining Green collection more valuable, it was said, by reducing the number of rare notes outstanding.

Among the currency were rare old silver and gold certificates and national bank notes. Only one piece was not destroyed by the treasury—a $500 note issued under the 1864 banking act. It was better preserved than a similar one in the treasury's own currency exhibit and will be placed in that display.

FIND 2D DEGREE MANSLAUGHTER IN BANQUET ROW

New York, May 28.—(AP)—A second degree manslaughter verdict was returned today against Joseph Berger, 29, and Gabriel Klar, 31, charged with slaying Frank Cicero, 33, of Stamford, Conn., in a brawl which broke up a banquet at the Manhattan Opera house Jan. 17. Judge John J. Freschi remanded them to the tombs to await sentence June 10. The conviction carries penalties ranging from seven and a half to fifteen years in prison.

SMASH WINDOW; TAKE 2 WATCHES.

Carl O. Jette, owner of the Garden Apartment Jewelers, 1406 Sedgwick street, reported to the Hudson police yesterday that the window in his store had been smashed and two watches, valued at $69.75, stolen.

CHICAGO TIES EUROPEAN FIGHTERS, 4 TO 4

CUBS DEFEAT REDS, 12 TO 3; SOX WIN IN 10TH, 3 TO 2

MORNING DRILL HELPS PRODUCE 14 HIT ATTACK

Root Pitches His Fourth Victory.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Manager Charley Grimm's 10 o'clock prescription for tired Cubs yesterday worked such wonders that the lads stepped out after their double dose of practice and administered a 12 to 3 licking to their most persistent jinx, the Cincinnati Reds.

Pappy Root, one of the few Cubs who did not need Grimm's matinal tonic, took care of defensive matters to win his fourth victory of the year, thus putting his record one victory over his 1936 total.

The hitting gents were the ones who needed the extra practice, which Skipper Grimm called "in order to shake some of the lead out of their bloomers."

Outfield Supplies Hits.

The Cubs made 14 hits, half of them by the erstwhile hitless outfield. Augie Galan made two hits and was passed three times, Frank Demaree knocked a double and two singles, and Joe Marty made two singles and walked twice.

It was the fifth straight loss for the Roughhouse Reds, who have won 10 and lost 21 games. Three of their earlier victories were won at the expense of the Cubs and three were against the Phillies.

If the Reds lose a doubleheader this afternoon, it is held probable they will have new stationery printed, leaving off the self-bestowed Roughhouse Reds monicker.

Demaree Scores Galan.

The Cubs made a run in the first inning. Galan walked, went to second on Herman's infield tap, paused while Collins whiffed and scored on Demaree's single to left center. Demaree easily was sunk, Walker to Myers, when he tried to reach second.

The Reds grabbed the lead in the second inning. With one down V. Davis singled off the left field wall and Myers fanned. Kampouris then knocked a homer over the left field wall, scoring behind V. Davis.

In the Cubs' half of the second Moore hit Hack with a pitched ball. O'Dea's single to center put Hack on third, whence he scored the tying run as Marty hit into a double play.

Strikes Out Three Cubs.

Moore struck out the side in the third. Root and Galan whiffed, Herman walked, and Collins struck out for the second time.

Moore had his inevitable fit of wildness in the fourth, but a single and three walks weren't enough to put a Cub across the plate. With one out Hack singled to center but was out trying to steal second. Moore then walked O'Dea, Marty, and Jurges to fill the bases and pitched three wide ones to Root. Then he was replaced by Brennan. Brennan pitched two strikes before Root popped to Jordan.

Push Brennan Around.

Brennan's control wasn't so good when placed on his own in the fifth. He walked Galan on four pitches. He calmed down to fan Herman, but Collins singled to right, Galan reaching third. Demaree beat out a slow

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., May 28.—Mr. Henry Bonura, the gentleman from New Orleans, stole the Indians' patented thunder today, and the results were highly satisfactory. In the tenth inning with a mate on base and two out, Big Zeke used the Tribe's favorite right field wall as a target for a two base drive. The wallop, incidentally Zeke's second double of the afternoon, propelled the waiting runner across the plate and the White Sox triumphed in a brilliant battle, 3 to 2.

Practically the entire affair, even with allowances for sensational fielding in which the Sox didn't take second honors, was a duel between Dennis Galehouse and Vernon Kennedy, the latter the same fellow who held the Indians hitless two years ago. The Sox star, now the possessor of four victories, was wabbly in the front half of the battle and Galehouse was the reverse. But toward the finish Kennedy began to bowl 'em over in a big way and the Tribe's star began to walk 'em, indicating the tired feeling was getting him. The last two Sox runs were started on passes.

Trosky Hits Homer.

Until the eighth the Sox were just about whipped, the Indians owning a 2 to 1 edge because of Hal Trosky's homer in the second and a combination of happenings in the fourth. But after two were gone in the eighth Rip Radcliff drew a free pass and hits by Mike Kreevich and Dixie Walker did the rest. Then Radcliff walked again in the tenth with none out, Kreevich bunted him to second and Walker flied out. This was where Bonura stepped in with his double to right, a real drive and not a fly, to chase Rip over the plate with the deciding run.

Bonura's life saving double raised his season's run batted in total to 39. He also was involved in the first Sox run, scored in the fourth. He didn't drive it home, however. He scored it after doubling, Jack Hayes providing the pinch hit. In addition to this Zeke pounded a couple of robust flies to deep center, but both were flagged. Next in line with Bonura was Kreevich, who annoyed Galehouse with three singles, one of which staved off defeat in the eighth.

Hayes Hits Two Singles.

Hayes was the only other Chicagoan to come up with more than a lone smash. He was good for a pair of singles.

Kennedy slipped through the first inning without faltering, but his usual lack of control appeared in the second and helped to precipitate the

SHUTE REACHES SEMI-FINALS OF P. G. A. TOURNEY

Tony Manero Defeats Cooper, 1 Up.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 28.—His name is Hermon Densmore Shute. Offhand, looking at his immobile features, you wouldn't say the man is a killer until you peer into his eyes as he steps up to whack a golf ball. A strange fire lights them at that moment and he becomes one of the most ruthless match players in American golf.

Today Hermon Densmore was still the killer that he has been all week in this twentieth national professional golf tournament, which he is defending a bare six months after his victory at Pinehurst last November. The man on the spot was Jimmy Hines of Garden City, and Shute cut him down by a 4 and 3 score in one of the thirty-six hole quarter-final matches at the Pittsburgh Field club.

Meets Manero in Semi-final.

Away from the course and scoreboard Shute is not Hermon Densmore, the killer of man-to-man competition; he is Denny Shute, a young man with a slow and infrequent smile. Tomorrow, however, he must forget his deep attachment for his comely wife and young daughter and once more become Killer Shute. In the first semi-final of the day he faces mustachioed Tony Manero of Salem, Mass., in one of those rare matches which bring reigning champions together.

Manero's battle with Harry Cooper of Chicago provided the galleries with the drama of the day. The two had run neck and neck up to the wire in the national open at Baltusrol last June, trading shot for shot until Tony snatched the big race from Harry by two strokes. Four down after the ninth hole this afternoon, it appeared that Manero finally would yield to the man whom he beat out last summer. Then began a collapse on the part of Cooper which saw him finally lose, 1 up, after he had seemingly clinched a place in the semi-finals.

Laffoon Beats Nelson.

But if Cooper didn't quite bring it off one more Chicagoan remains to argue with three Bostonians. He is Ky Laffoon of Northmoor, who today fought through 36 holes to eliminate the tournament medalist, Byron Nelson of Reading, Pa., 2 up. This is a new and more settled Laffoon than the flamboyant youth who came up to win the low scoring championship of 1934, in which year he plundered the pars of a hundred courses. Gone are the canary and heliotrope sweaters of a few years back, and with them the reckless shots that often were as harmful to Ky as they were to his opponents. In their place remains a responsible young man who has become a keen student of every intricacy of the game.

Laffoon will require all of his new philosophy in the other semi-final tomorrow, for he is meeting a party of his own age who has done everything but stand in front of mirrors telling himself that he is the greatest match player who ever lived. He is Harold [Jug] McSpaden of Winchester, Mass., who today defeated Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., 1 up, after three extra holes. There is no conceit in McSpaden. He simply is convinced that none can beat him at hole for hole play, a conviction which is rapidly being shared by his brethren in the business.

Putting Saves Manero.

One of the largest galleries of the day, mindful of the Cooper-Manero feud, followed the battle between the 1936 open champion and runnerup. Superlative putting not only rescued Manero from trouble, but also earned him a one up lead at the turn. After Cooper drove the rough at the first, Manero three putted the green. Harry then missed a six footer at the second while Tony was dropping a

Trials to End Today for 500 Mile Auto Race

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., May 28.—The final qualification speed tests for the annual 500 mile auto race will be held tomorrow at the Indianapolis speedway just as if there had not been two killed and five injured in the preliminaries this afternoon. The deaths of Albert Opalko, a riding mechanic of Gary, Ind., and of George Warford of Indianapolis are regretted by the management, but the show must go on.

There still is one position vacant for the lineup of thirty-three cars for Monday's 500 mile grind for $90,000 in prizes. Thirty-two cars have been checked at better than the required 105 mile an hour average for twenty-five miles around the two and a half mile oval speedway.

After 33 positions are filled, any one who averages better than the low in the present lineup will displace the slower drivers.

Thorne May Lose Out.

Joel Thorne, 22 year old heir of New York wealth, is in immediate danger of losing his first opportunity for a big time race. His 115.602 miles an hour is the slowest of the 32 successful qualification runs.

A skinny youth, about six feet four inches tall, and with curly hair he has seven automobiles here for the race. The low slung speedsters cost approximately $18,000 each. He has signed up veteran drivers to

Cosmopolitan Crowd Sees Gloves Show

People in all walks of life were attracted to a Golden Gloves spectacle at Chicago Stadium last night. State street merchants and political and industrial leaders sat side by side with bankers and stars of the radio, sports, and theatrical world as the eight international champions were crowned.

College athletics were represented by Football Coach Robert Zuppke and Athletic Director Wendell Wilson of Illinois, Director Kenneth L. The Purdue coach was accompanied by Mrs. Kizer.

Avery Brundage, head of the American Olympic committee, had a prominent seat.

President William Harridge of the American league hurried home from a meeting at Washington, D. C., in order to be present.

The National league's color bearer was Umpire Babe Pinelli, former Cincinnati third baseman.

The European champions will leave tonight for Kansas City, Mo., where they meet a team of Golden Gloves boxers from Kansas City, Omaha, and Oklahoma City next Tuesday. They will be accompanied by Ernest Mehl, promotion manager of the Kansas City Star.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Chicago fought Europe to a four to four deadlock in the International Golden Gloves matches last night at the Stadium.

For two uproarious hours, the shock of combat and the clamor of 21,405 spectators thundered through the arena. Then two great teams—battered and breathless—emerged on even terms for the second time in the history of International Golden Gloves.

France, Germany, Ireland, Poland, and Italy have sent teams into Golden Gloves competition here in the past and all were beaten save Germany, which earned a tie. The team that invaded Chicago last night, under the direction of The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., represented the boxing forces of a united Europe, sixteen nations having contributed to its greatness. And there were times last night when the strength of that union seemed too mighty for Chicago's fighters to match, even though the American boys were the pick of the 21,000 boxers who had entered the Golden Gloves eliminations in seventeen states.

Profits to Charity.

Receipts were $41,560.50. Profits will be turned over to Chicago charities.

The drama was fast moving in tempo and brilliantly sustained. Time and again in the course of the evening the burden of responsibility to get back into the battle shifted from the shoulders of European boys to those of the Americans, and then back again.

That responsibility shifted for the last time as the final bout of the evening came up. And how fortunate were the Americans that it rested on the great bronze shoulders of Lem Franklin, the mighty colored fighter from Cleveland. At this stage Europe was leading, 4 to 3. Upon the outcome of this heavyweight bout hinged victory for Europe or a deadlocked battle. And 59 seconds after the opening gong that issue was decided.

Down Goes Runge.

About 48 of those seconds had passed when Franklin swung his tremendous right. It landed squarely upon the jaw of his opponent, Herbert Runge of Germany. Runge lurched crazily off balance, then went down head first. He groped blindly for the ropes in an attempt to pull himself to his feet. For he was game to the end. At the count of nine he was up, turning helplessly as Franklin moved in like a panther to finish him. Then Robert Ciocca, trainer of the European team, leaped into the ring with his arms upraised to concede a technical knockout to the American.

Evening of Brilliant Pageantry.

From the start the evening was brilliant with the pageantry that is a part of great international events. There came a moment, after the last of six preliminary bouts, when the huge arena was darkened save for one blue pencil of light that wandered over the heads of the spectators and picked out the boxing champions of Europe as they came marching down the aile from the west end of the house.

Gavino Matta, Italy's debonair flyweight, leaped first through the ropes, and his seven teammates followed him. Their heels clicked to attention while the arena reverberated with cheers.

Spotlight Greets Chicago Team.

The pencil of blue light wandered to the eastern end of the building and into its glare marched Chicago's team. These boys also came to attention in the ring.

Again the blue light wandered to pick out the flags of Poland, Italy, and Germany as they were unfurled one by one. There was a pause, then rose new thunders of applause as the American flag was hoisted through the spotlight to the rafters. The words of "The Star-Spangled Banner" burst spontaneously from the throng as the organ pealed forth the stirring chords.

Then Arthur De Kankovszky of Hungary, manager of Europe's team, was introduced. He gave his appreciation for the warmth of Chicago's greeting. Arch Ward, sports editor of THE TRIBUNE, then spoke. He expressed his gratification that the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., was able to present so splendid an array of fighters and voiced his confidence that the visitors would go home to Europe convinced that the people of Chicago were sportsmen not only in the ring but also in the stands.

Chicago First to Win.

The white lights blazed full upon the ring. Italy's Gavino Matta and Jimmy Urso of the Chicago team climbed through the ropes and the international matches were on.

After three brilliant rounds, Urso scored a decision over his opponent. Then Italy's great bantamweight, Ulderico Sergo, came back to tie the count at one match each.

Again Chicago forged ahead as Bill Joyce, its featherweight, beat Alexander Polus of Poland.

Europe came right up again to square accounts when Herbert Nurnberg of Germany whipped Ed Kozole of Chicago in a 135 pound battle and forged to the front as Michael Murach of Germany whipped Verne Patterson, Chicago's welterweight.

Wardlow Evens Score.

Al Wardlow tied it up at 3 to 3 by outpointing Henry Chmielewski, middleweight from Poland. Again Europe took the lead as Luigi Musina of Italy beat Herman West, Chicago, light heavyweight. Then came the thriller — Franklin's knockout of Runge that ended the evening with honors even.

Results of the preliminaries:

Billy Smith, Minneapolis, Minn., beat Eddie Lander, Chicago [3].

Hayes O'Neal, Oklahoma City, Okla., beat Eddie Shapiro, Chicago [3].

Gene Spencer, Chicago, beat Percy Davis, Chattanooga, Tenn. [3].

Nathan Logan, St. Louis, beat Chester Kozan, Chicago [3].

Homer Williams, Chicago, beat Tommy Pallatin, South Bend [3].

Nate Bolden, Chicago, beat Sherman Edwards, Chicago [3].

handle all but the one he hopes to push himself.

Steps Into Fast Company.

"These other drivers have worked hard and are just as anxious to be there for the starting bomb as I am," Thorne said. "No, I wouldn't think of asking one of them to give me his faster mount. I'll have to take my chances of my machine being eliminated, just as if I weren't an owner."

It's fast company Thorne is going into. Jimmy Snyder, former Chicago milkman with a south side route, turned a lap at 130.492 miles an hour during his qualification run, and Wild Bill Cummings, another Chicagoan, did 125.135 miles an hour. Prior to this year, the track record was 124.018, made by Leon Duray in a supercharged single seater in 1928.

Maximum potential speed on the old oval has been stepped up five or ten miles an hour this year by resurfacing the brick with a coarse black top on the four turns. The track record of 109.069 miles an hour for the 500 mile run, established by Louis Meyer of California last year, may be bettered on Monday if weather is favorable and the average is not held down by accidents. Meyer is in the lineup seeking his third victory.

Eliminate Gas Limit.

Another factor, enhancing the possibilities of accidents as well as of speed, is the elimination of gasoline consumption limitation. Last year drivers refrained from unnecessary sprints because they were allowed no more than 37.5 gallons of fuel. This year they can jam the accelerator as much and as often as they desire.

Another new requirement this year is that the cars use commercial gasoline rather than the doped fuel of former years. The main objective of this regulation is to get petroleum manufacturers to donate prizes. Two companies posted awards for the best speeds in the qualification rounds, explaining in part the record preliminary spins.

The management is anticipating a crowd that will approach 200,000, the largest ever to attend a sporting event in America. This superlative has applied to the automobile race for many years. Last year the official estimate was 163,000. The management has declined to make public its ticket sales, as is done at prize fights and baseball games.

The following is the lineup for the race with the figures after the name of each driver indicating his average miles per hour in the twenty-five mile qualification runs:

HERE'S DETAIL OF INTERNATIONAL BOUTS

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Details of the International Golden Gloves bouts at the Chicago Stadium last night follow:

112 POUNDS

Jimmy Urso, Chicago, beat Gavino Matta, Italy [3].

In the first minute of the bout each boxer had proved his punching powers. It was Urso's right countering Matta's left which produced immediate results. Neither would retreat and as a result, the action was furious. Matta had defeated Jimmy's brother Patsy in this ring two years ago. But in the first round Jimmy opened a cut over Matta's left eye and delivered two other terrific rights to the head. Matta connected only once in the first round with full power.

Jimmy Urso.

Urso forced Matta across the ring in the second round. Then midway in the round he caught a hard right to the head as he came in close. The boys stood in center ring and hammered punches to the head. Matta had the better of the round except for one stinging right to the jaw which Urso dispatched almost from the floor.

The fast pace told on both boys in the third round, but they still believed in punches instead of defense. Urso landed another right on Matta's injured eye but twice he was forced to give ground before the Italian's rushes. Urso seemed stronger in the final minute and bore in close to send home body blows which Matta could not stop. The decision was 2 to 1 for Urso, which caused a storm of protest from the throng.

Ulderico Sergo, Italy, beat Frank Kainrath, Chicago [3].

Sergo opened his attack against Kainrath without a second's wait. Apparently the defeat of his countryman, Matta, had infuriated Sergo, who is the Olympic boxing champion. The Italian rushed Kainrath across the ring time and again, landing solid rights and lefts. Sergo was easily the winner of this slashing first round.

Ulderico Sergo.

Kainrath came back rushing in the second round and for two minutes he carried Sergo before him, shooting in sharp lefts and following with rights to the head. Then Sergo stepped in with two driving rallies, hooking to the head and body to stop the Kainrath rally. Toward the end of the second round Kainrath slipped and fell, but got up before a count started.

The weaving, ducking Sergo was an elusive target in the final round. Kainrath's best punch, his left, missed its target, and the European champion shot home lefts and rights which never seemed to miss. Toward the conclusion each was rushing aimlessly, intensely seeking victory. The crowd whooped joyously when Sergo was awarded the decision. Again, however, the vote was 2 to 1.

126 POUNDS

William Joyce, Chicago, beat Alexander Polus, Poland [3].

Polus started cautiously, jabbing long lefts which flicked Joyce's chin. Then Joyce cut loose with a vicious left hook and the fun started. For the remainder of the round the rivals swung hooks from every position and seldom clinched. There seemed no great difference in their ability to punch hard and effectively, and the second round started where the first had ended.

William Joyce.

Joyce was applauded when he stepped back after Polus had slipped. The exchange of punches continued almost without stop, until Joyce jarred Polus with a stiff left and followed with a right to the chin. Polus smothered the next rally, and the round ended with each missing furious left hooks to the head.

Both were sharpshooting in the final round. Joyce apparently carried the heavier guns, but he was hit as many times. Joyce jolted the Pole three times in succession with his hooking left, but never did Polus step back from the attack. Toward the end of the round they were punching simultaneously and falling into clinches. The decision was awarded to Joyce and it was unanimous.

135 POUNDS

Herbert Nurnberg, Germany, beat Edward Kozole, Chicago [3].

Nurnberg opened up with a charging attack, throwing lefts to the body and rights to the head. Although the round was fast and both threw punches willingly, neither suffered any appreciable damage. Nurnberg, however, threw many right hands to offset Kozole's southpaw stance.

Herbert Nurnberg.

The second round opened up with a corking good exchange of punches. Nurnberg slipped while in one of these exchanges, but jumped up immediately. They got out in the center of the ring and punched with both hands to the head until they had the crowd in an uproar of approval. Kozole's gun seemed to have the most authority in this round, although Nurnberg did all of the leading and forcing.

The curly haired German boy made a grand stand in the third round and swung his right to the head many times with all his power. They came head on early in the round and shook each other with stiff lefts to the head. At one point the referee warned Kozole for hitting low. Nurnberg had the best of almost all exchanges and made Kozole miss frequently. Toward the close of the round Nurnberg put on a great two fisted spurt to win the unanimous decision.

Michael Murach, Germany, beat Verne Patterson, Chicago [3].

Murach, a smiling southpaw, rushed out and opened the fight with a two fisted bombardment to Patterson's head. Patterson was patient, however, and let the European do the leading for a while until he found an opening for a hard right to the jaw. The punch jolted Murach, but the European kept on grinning and swinging. Toward the end of the round Murach pinned Patterson in a corner and blasted away with both hands to the body until the bell ended the round.

Michael Murach.

Murach surprised every one in the second round by nailing Patterson with a hard left to the head and Patterson appeared helpless, but Murach was over anxious and Patterson got away. Murach continued his attack, grinning all the while.

The fight for the first two rounds had been a great one but it was nothing compared to the third. The house was in an uproar as Patterson rushed out of his corner and sent Murach spinning backwards with right hand punches to the chin. He continued to score with rights that would have knocked any ordinary fighter down but Murach came back to exchange punches. They stood off at short distance from each other and measured themselves with terrific punches. At one point Murach dropped to his knees, apparently from exhaustion. He bounded back on his feet after a two count and continued to bombard Patterson. Patterson fought back with chopping rights. Murach ended the round with a great display of punching power and was awarded the decision.

Al Wardlow, Chicago, beat Henry Chmielewski, Poland [3].

Wardlow did most of the scoring that counted in the first round. Twice he staggered Chmielewski with lefts to the head. Wardlow worked his way in close and punched hard to the chin, but Chmielewski, except for momentary waverings, finished the round in good shape.

Al Wardlow.

To open the second round Chmielewski gave Wardlow the shock of his life. He reached in with a beautiful long, overhand right that caught Wardlow flush on the chin. Wardlow fell flat on his back and took a nine count. He got up shakily, however, and the round wound up in a blaze of punching. Wardlow tried desperately to overcome the knockdown. He pushed his way in close and slugged freely to the head. The Polish boy, however, showed he was game all the way and it developed into a beautiful fight.

In the third Wardlow landed a hard left to Chmielewski's jaw and the European wavered for a moment. He came back, throwing rights, but he was a bit wild. Wardlow sent him staggering back on his heels with a left to the head. The Pole charged right back and scored with rights to the head. In close, they exchanged furious body punches until Chmielewski brought up a beauty to the head that staggered Wardlow. They were in a wild exchange at the bell, and the decision was awarded to Wardlow. It was not unanimous.

Luigi Musina, Italy, beat Herman West, Chicago [3].

Musina, like the rest of his teammates, proved a good boxer and a fine puncher. Handsome and with a long reach, he pulled West in with his left and scored with frequent rights to the head. Boxing, at times, became a secondary object as they worked in close, punching hard to the body. Musina had a good, short right that he displayed on West's chin with annoying frequency and authority. He appeared to have an edge in the round as his right landed over West's shorter left. West refused to back away from the attack and fought back gamely.

Luigi Musina.

The third was a great punching round. They were particularly vicious in their infighting, whipping in short but hard punches to the head. Musina, at one point, planted his feet far apart and started to swing both hands from around his knees to West's head and face with stunning force. However, West did plenty of damage himself with his short, jolting body punches which failed, in the final count, to offset Musina's long punches. Musina won the decision.

HEAVYWEIGHT

Lemuel Franklin, Chicago, stopped Herbert Runge, Germany [1].

Runge, a half head taller than Franklin, rushed out of his corner, stabbing with a left. They boxed cautiously until Franklin shot in an overhand right to the chin that sent the European champion down for a nine count. He arose, obviously in a dazed condition and Franklin swarmed all over him with rights to the head and appeared on the verge of knocking out the German. The European trainer jumped into the ring and stopped the contest.

Lem Franklin.

Garden Pleads Again for Ban on Title Fight

Philadelphia, Pa., May 28.—(AP)—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals today took under advisement the appeal of the Madison Square Garden corporation for an injunction to prevent James J. Braddock, world heavyweight boxing champion, from fighting Joe Louis in Chicago June 22.

The corporation argued that it holds a contract with Braddock for him to meet Max Schmeling under its auspices before he engages in any other major contest. The Schmeling fight is scheduled for June 3.

Argues for Braddock.

Merritt Lane of Newark, N. J., counsel for Braddock, told the court that the contract supplanted one signed in April, 1935, and that it contained no provision that Braddock should fight Schmeling before meeting any one else.

He argued that the original contract for Braddock and Schmeling to meet last Sept. 30 was terminated after the New York boxing commission canceled the fight because of the recurrence of an old injury to Braddock's hands.

"A Mediocre Boxer."

George W. Whiteside of New York, counsel for the corporation, asserted that the restrictive clause in the old contract was carried over to the present one. He described Braddock as a "mediocre boxer" whom the corporation took "off the bread line" and elevated to the championship, and said Braddock was under moral obligation to fulfill the terms of the contract.

The corporation asked the United States District court of Newark for an injunction against Braddock, which was denied by Judge Guy L. Fake. Judge Fake allowed an appeal to the Circuit court.

Pitt Leads in Qualifying for I. C.-4A Title

New York, May 28.—(AP)—Led by Johnny Woodruff, sophomore star who last summer won the Olympic 800 meters title at Berlin, Pittsburgh's well balanced squad today made a good start toward giving the Panthers their first intercollegiate A. A. A. A. outdoor track championship.

At the conclusion of the qualifying events, conducted before 300 spectators in Randall's Island stadium, Pitt was in a favorable spot to take the team title. The Panthers captured six places in tomorrow's finals and four more in the semi-finals of the 220 yard dash and 220 yard low hurdles.

Columbia, winner of the I. C. 4-A indoor crown, had its representation concentrated in four events. The Lions placed two men each in the 100, shot put, and broad jump finals and one in the 220 semi-finals.

Woodruff Runs :48.1 Quarter.

Ranged alongside Columbia as strongest threats to Pitt were Cornell, Dartmouth, and Yale. Each had advanced eight contenders into tomorrow's competition.

Woodruff, favorite in both the quarter mile and 880, performed up to expectations in each event. He ran the fastest heat in the 440, 48.1 seconds, and loafed to second place behind Pat Gorman of Dartmouth in his half mile trial.

Besides Woodruff's places, Pitt scored in the 100 and the 220 semi-finals with Edgar Mason, defending champion, and Arthur Thomas; in the 120 hurdles with Kenneth Ryden; in the 220 hurdle semi-finals with Ryden and Andrew Lasky, and in the javelin throw, with Eugene Taano.

STANFORD, U. S. C. LEAD.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 28.—(AP)—Living up to advance promise of team strength, Stanford and Southern California set the pace today in preliminary heats of the Pacific Coast conference track and field championships.

The Trojans placed eight men and Stanford seven in preliminaries in the 100 and 220 yard dashes, low hurdles, discus, and broad jump.

INDIANA MEET TODAY

Notre Dame, Ind., May 28.—[Special.]—With Indiana and Notre Dame the favorites, the annual Indiana State track meet will be run here tomorrow.

One hundred and fifty-five entries from ten schools will compete. Indiana and Notre Dame stand out head and shoulders above the rest of the field with the Hoosiers, headed by Capt. Don Lash, favored to dominate the running events. Notre Dame is a heavy favorite in the field events, although it expects more trouble from other schools than Indiana anticipates on the track.

YACHTS START TONIGHT FOR MILWAUKEE RACE

Yacht owners of the Chicago Yacht club and Great Lakes Cruising club under the latter's sponsorship, will form a squadron tonight off Belmont harbor for a cruising race to Milwaukee, where an open regatta will be held tomorrow. The boats will start at 7 p. m.

Bagheera, Warrior, Vagabond, Bee, Bow, Naughty Lady, Tecumseh, and Norwester are among the yachts expected to participate.

Two flagships are among the starters. Naughty Lady, a 39 foot ketch, will be sailed by Dick Dalman, commodore of the Yacht Club of Lake Shore.

Will Sanders, for 27 years foreman of Glenmore's fermenting room, says:

"Those bubbles are sure mighty important in makin' fine Kentucky Bourbon Whiskey"

"For 27 years, I've been looking after these tubs. Always we run 'em the same. It's a slow process and the bubbles show how things are developing. We watch these tubs every minute. You can't take chances when you're making a whiskey as fine as Mint Springs."

Because Mint Springs is made of the same fine American grains and distilled by the same processes that produce the most expensive Bourbon whiskies—no part of the work is entrusted to inexperienced men.

DETROIT TAKES DOUBLE-HEADER FROM BROWNS

Greenberg Leads Attack; Tigers Move to Second.

Detroit, Mich., May 28.—(AP)—Hank Greenberg, who played despite a strained leg muscle, helped Detroit's Tigers to a double victory over St. Louis today and put them in second place in the American league.

Greenberg's eighth home run of the season, a drive over the center field scoreboard with the bases empty in the fourth inning of the opener, provided the margin for a 6 to 5 victory, Elden Auker's first since he pitched the season opener.

Roxie Lawson pitched the Tigers to a 7 to 2 victory, his eighth of the season, in the second game. Greenberg collected a single and a double, batting in two runs and scoring twice himself.

Sox Defeat Indians, 3-2, in 10 Innings

Trosky homer. Kennedy's first three pitches to the big farmer were wide. He got the next two across, but when he tossed up another cripple Trosky hoisted it over the right field wall which, according to the club's figures, is 290 feet from the plate. After getting Solters for the first out Kennedy walked Hale, but Pytlak and Hughes were soft picking.

Sox Tie Score.

Bonura led off the fourth with a double to the left field corner. He moved to third on Appling's spicy grounder to Trosky. The infield drew in for a possible play at the plate and Hayes smacked a wicked grounder toward short that was too hot for Lary to handle at close quarters. It rolled away for a single, Bonura scoring the tying run. Then Piet grounded to Hale and a double play was put over on the Sox.

Kennedy had no reason to complain about the surrender of one run in the home fourth. It was all the Indians could grab out of a single, a pass, a wild pitch, and a double. Averill started the inning with a single to center and a pass to Trosky came next. The Sox infield was shifted around in anticipation of a bunt and Solters figured he could push a ball through second, which was unprotected. Instead, he grounded to Appling, who touched second and threw to Hayes at first for a double play. Then Kennedy let go with the wild pitch on which Averill scored. Hale doubled off the nearby fence and Pytlak tapped to Kennedy.

Score Tying Run.

Sewell bounced to Lary and Kennedy fanned in the eighth before the Sox got together in the matter of scoring the tying run. Radcliff brought it on by coaxing Galehouse for a pass. Kreevich's third hit was a single to center. Walker singled to right on the first pitch, Radcliff going home and Kreevich to third. Bonura then flied to Averill.

Kennedy came within inches of batting a run across in the ninth. Appling led off and walked. Hayes flied to Averill and Galehouse tossed out Piet. Sewell was purposely passed. Kennedy bounced a single over Galehouse's head, but Lary dived behind second and knocked down the ball. Appling, thinking it was worth the chance, sprinted for the plate, but Lary recovered and Appling was run down between the bases, Hughes getting the putout.

Indians Threaten in Ninth.

The Indians also kicked up a fuss in the ninth. Trosky walked and was bunted to second by Solters. Kennedy started to give an intentional pass to Hale but on the third pitch the batter reached out and slapped a fly to Kreevich. Pytlak beat out a hit to Appling, Trosky taking third. Then Kennedy fanned Hughes.

After being presented with the winning run Kennedy went through the home tenth on a yield of one hit. Sullivan was sent up to bat for Galehouse and lifted a short fly to Walker. Appling threw out Lary. Campbell batted for Heath and singled over short, Weatherly doing the running. A moment later Sewell stood a few feet back of the plate and consumed Averill's foul to end the struggle.

Tex Carleton and Parmelee to Pitch in Double-Header

Pitchers in the Cubs' first 1937 double-header, with Cincinnati at Wrigley field this afternoon, will be John Vander Meer and Paul Derringer for the Reds, and Roy Parmelee and Tex Carleton for the Cubs.

Parmelee and Carleton each lost a game to the Reds in Cincinnati and are reported to be in a ferocious revengeful mood.

Bill Weintraub's double in the first inning was his first hit in 23 times at bat.

roller along the third base line and Galan scored. Hack bounced a double play ball at Myers, who threw past second, Collins scoring, Demaree reaching third and Hack first. Demaree and Hack tried a double steal, but Demaree was out at the plate, V. Davis to Myers to V. Davis. O'Dea walked and Marty singled to center, Hack scoring and O'Dea reaching third. Jurges flied to Walker.

Pick Up More Runs.

The sixth saw the Cubs add their sixth run. Galan singled with one out, went to second on Herman's infield out, and scored on Collins' single to center.

Hallahan went to the mound in the seventh and demonstrated why they've been calling him Wild Bill all these years. Hack walked and advanced on O'Dea's sacrifice, after which Marty walked and Jurges was hit by a pitched ball, filling the bases. Root forced Jurges, Hack scoring, and Galan singled, scoring Marty. After Herman singled to center, scoring Root, Hollingsworth replaced Hallahan. Collins popped to Myers.

Reds Get a Run.

Hollingsworth led off the eighth with the sixth Cincinnati hit. Walker struck out for the second time. Weintraub singled to center and Goodman was hit by a pitched ball, filling the bases. Jordan grounded out to Herman, Hollingsworth scoring. Riggs also grounded to Herman.

Demaree led off the home eighth with a double and held second while Hack was bunting out. O'Dea singled to left, scoring Demaree, and reached second on the throw to the plate, Marty singled off Hollingsworth's glove. Then Jurges doubled to right, scoring O'Dea and Marty. Root fanned, Galan walked, and Herman bounced to Riggs, who tagged Jurges for the third out.

OAK BROOK GETS TWO NATIONAL POLO TOURNEYS

Announcement was made yesterday that by award of the United States Polo association two national tournaments, the intercircuit and twelve goal championship, will be played this summer at the Oak Brook Polo club stadium, York road and 22d street.

James A. Hannah, president of Oak Brook, stated that the intercircuit title games are set for the last week of August and the twelve goal tourney the first week in September.

The Central Polo association, headed by Paul Butler of Oak Brook, has been named to take charge of the tournaments.

Both tournaments will be limited to teams of twelve goal strength, the difference being that the intercircuit matches are to be played on a handicap basis and the twelve goal championship tournament from scratch.

five footer for a winning birdie. Another birdie, this time from six feet, left the open title holder two up leaving the third. Each missed a 12 foot chance for a birdie at the long fifth.

Manero then earned two halves at the sixth and seventh, holing 20 footers after driving bunkers. He trapped his second at the eighth also, but lost to Cooper's par. Both were in trouble at the 11th, settling for a half in bogeys. Manero was trapped off the 12th, but even there just missed a birdie when he was stymied.

Cooper Sinks 20 Footer.

Cooper's 20 foot putt won him the 13th, and he went one up for the first time at the 14th, where Tony was trapped. Manero was two down leaving the 15th, at which he took three from the fringe. Cooper blew a putt of less than a yard to lose the 17th, and regained it with a great 12 foot down hill shot on the home green.

Cooper went three up at the afternoon second with a 20 foot birdie. After being short in two, Harry gained a birdie half at the next with a ten footer, whereupon Manero came back with a neat 25 footer to win the fourth. Tony canceled this by blowing a five foot setup at the sixth. Cooper then sank one from five feet to win the ninth, going four up.

Then Cooper Falters.

Then began the disastrous collapse of the Chicago star. On the 10th and 11th he was in the rough and was trapped on the 12th, where Tony, also in the rough off the tee, holed an eight footer to win. Both were trapped at the 225 yard 14th, but Manero escaped to within one foot for a par that squared the match. Both struggled for halves at the 561 yard 15th, where they had experienced grief aplenty in reaching the green. Manero then took the lead at the 17th when he ran down a ten footer for a birdie. The last hole was shared in regulation fours.

PASTOR EASILY WHIPS NESTELL BEFORE 30,000

Los Angeles, Cal., May 28.—(AP)—Bob Pastor, 183¼, of New York punched young Bob Nestell, 191, of Los Angeles out of the front ranks of the nation's heavyweight hopefuls tonight, winning by a wide margin a 10 round decision before more than 30,000 fans at Wrigley field.

After a wild first round in which both fighters hit the floor in a vicious exchange, the squat New Yorker went on to deal out a near-brutal beating to the Californian.

Pastor's victory ended Nestell's record of 11 straight knockouts since he turned professional a year or more ago. Pastor earned $13,500, Nestell $10,000.

In another 10 round headliner Glenn Lee, 150, Nebraska, decisively whipped Izzy Jannazzo, 149¼, New York.

Sox Will Play 2 Games with Indians Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., May 28.—The White Sox will have to take on their first double-header of the season tomorrow. Manager Dykes hopes Johnny Whitehead and Sugar Cain or Bill Dietrich will be able to take care of the pitching. Steve O'Neill, the boss of the Indians, has similar hopes for Mel Harder and Johnny Allen, both of them tough fellows for the Sox.

Ted Lyons will work for the Sox and Earl Whitehill, the veteran southpaw, for the Indians in the Sunday game, which will be played in the commodious stadium instead of in the regular park, where several acres of space are missing from right field.

The Sox will reopen at Comiskey park next Monday afternoon with a double-header against Rogers Hornsby's Brownies.

Pirates Defeat Cards with Big Eighth Inning

St. Louis, Mo., May 28.—(AP)—Three St. Louis pitchers were unable to stop an avalanche of singles by Pittsburgh today and the Pirates easily captured the first of a four game series, 10 to 3. It was Pittsburgh's first victory since last Saturday.

Ray Harrell, Jesse Haines, and Jim Winford paraded to the mound in a vain attempt to stop the Pirates' attack. Meanwhile, Red Lucas and Waite Hoyt were doing a fine job of keeping the Cards from scoring, although yielding eleven hits.

The Pirates tucked victory safely away with six runs in the eighth. In that inning Forrest Jensen, Paul Waner, Arky Vaughan, and Gus Suhr hit successive singles, and Haines went to the showers. Lee Handley kept up the procession of singles with one off Winford and then Pep Young was purposely passed. Hoyt responded to the Cards' strategy with a double, bringing in two more runs. Lloyd Waner singled, scoring Hoyt, and Jensen was thrown out by Frisch to end the scoring.

Sweeny, Munn Meet Today in British Final

SANDWICH, England, May 28.—(AP)—Tall, black haired Bob Sweeny, American by birth but British by accent, qualified today for the final round of the British amateur golf championship along with Lionel Munn, jovial 50 year old Irishman.

Should Sweeny succeed in taking Munn's measure in tomorrow's 36 hole final, America will be able to lay technical claim to Great Britain's most coveted golf crown once again—but only technically.

Sweeny has spent the last ten of his 25 years on this side of the Atlantic, and though his nationality still is American, his golf is all French and British.

Sweeny Is Favorite.

On the strength of his two brilliant victories over Wilford Wehrle of Racine, Wis., in the quarter finals and over Charles Stowe, British colliery engineer, in the semi-finals, Sweeny will start the final a slight favorite over Munn. Although the Irishman's triumphs today over J. J. F. Pennink, English amateur champion, and Count Alaric De Bendern were impressive, he looked tired toward evening and another 36 holes under the hot sun promised to tax his strength.

Sweeny supplied all the golfing fireworks. With as keen a putting touch as this ancient tournament ever has seen, he eliminated Wehrle, 3 and 2, and then went on to swamp Stowe, 6 and 5. Stowe had engineered one of the biggest upsets of the tournament in the morning round when he handed Gordon Peters, young Scottish Walker cup star, a 3 and 2 beating.

Doesn't Use Fairways.

The day's play was marked by the disastrous end of Dick Chapman's third bid for the title. Though he dropped the decision to De Bendern at the 19th hole, the Greenwich, Conn., player left the spectators with an unforgettable memory of him. Very possibly he was the first player in the history of the championship to reach the last eight without using the fairways.

Against De Bendern he was on the fairways with his drives only four times in 19 holes, yet led by three holes at the 13th. Then his game collapsed and De Bendern took four holes in a row. Chapman squared it up at the 18, but lost out on the first extra hole when his drive sliced to deep rough and his second found a greenside bunker.

FILLY CAN START BUILDING UP HER FORTUNE TODAY

If She Wins Washington Prairie State Stakes.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The best stroke of luck that could befall a horseowner today would be to uncover a 2 year old filly in the Prairie State stakes at Washington Park this afternoon that could not only dash to victory in that 2 year old racing fixture but go along about her business and win the Princess Pat stakes, Washington Park Futurity, Lassie Stakes and Arlington Park Futurity.

Such a filly would earn in the short period of some seven weeks more than $150,000.

There Have Been Such Horses.

There have been 2 year old fillies that could have turned this kind of a trick.

Back in 1927 Mrs. John Hertz's Anita Peabody could have done it with very little effort.

In 1931 Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney's Top Flight would never have batted an eye over such an assignment.

Maybe there's a new Anita Peabody or a Top Flight in the field of ten named for the Prairie State this afternoon. If so it will have to be Charles Trentanelli's Jane Vito or former Ald. William O'Toole's Lillian Roth, winner of the only race of her career at Churchill Downs a short time ago.

Can Run in All Five.

Only a filly can earn all this money because the eight colts that are in today's Prairie State field are out of it in the Princess Pat and the Lassie stakes. Fillies can run in all five events.

The Prairie State, which carries $2,000 in added money and is at 5½ furlongs, will share honors on this afternoon's half holiday program at Washington Park with the Chicago handicap at 6 furlongs, a $3,000 added event at 6 furlongs fashioned for older horses.

Hal Price Headley's Preeminent, fresh from a triumph in the Tobogan handicap at Belmont Park in New York, will rule as the favorite in the Chicago handicap at odds of about 5 to 2. It is likely that Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' fast colt Tiger, a son of Bull Dog, will be the outstanding choice in the Prairie State, with the odds against him at 6 to 5 or less.

The fields for the first two stake races of the year at Washington Park arranged in the order of post positions are as follows:

8 Year Old Ep Likes Track at Homewood

Ep, daughter of Epinard-Hey Presto, which always has shown a liking for Washington Park track, still fancies the going there. She's 8 years old now, but stepped six furlongs yesterday in 1:12 2-5 to win the second race quite handily from Inscription and Lady Federal. She was in front most of the way.

Count Morse, Warren Wright's nandicap star, has established himself as favorite for the Blue and Gray Memorial handicap, the holiday feature at Washington Park on Monday. The son of Reigh Count-Nellie Morse worked a mile in 1:41, breezing over the good track and pulled up a mile and an eighth in 1:54 4-5. He must carry 120 pounds in the Blue and Gray, which is at a mile and a furlong. Finance and Grand Manitou also are highly fancied in the race.

Two of the speediest Milky Way youngsters were out for sparkling trials yesterday. Tiger, winner of his only start, went a half in :49 breezing, while Warbridge, which has yet to start, was caught in 1:02 breezing for five-eighths.

The first race at one mile and a half of the Chicago season is to be run this afternoon. The track record for this distance was set in 1927 by Hydromel at 2:29. It has been run infrequently in recent meetings.

PURDUE SPLITS DOUBLE-HEADER WITH MINNESOTA

Minneapolis, Minn., May 28.—(AP)—The University of Minnesota and Purdue fought through twenty-one inning of baseball in a double-header today with the final results a draw.

The Boilermakers counted two runs in the first half of the twelfth inning in the opening contest to win, 3 to 1. The Gophers blasted out an 8 to 7 victory in the second game.

EP clearly outbroke her company and quickly opened up a good lead, and raced around the turn under stout restraint and continued well under energetic riding in the stretch. The race was inclined to bear out. INSCRIPTION, a strong factor from the start and in fairly close quarters for a half mile, came to outside for the drive which she stood with good courage though unable to get to the leader. LADY FEDERAL, away well but taken back when in tight quarters on the far turn.

MAMAS BOY forced to overcome early interference, taken to outside quickly when clear, stood severe pressure gamely when racing on the outside in the drive and wearing down the leaders won drawing clear. EBONY BOY away fast and saving ground, after the first sixteenths, worked his way to the front when placed to punishment in stretch, and held on well but was not good enough. EVENING TIME probably best and fractious at the post where she was placed outside the stalls, began poorly, had to race wide the entire trip and coming with fine delayed speed was rapidly overtaking the leaders.

HERMOSILLO, away fast but unable to keep up, began to better his position after reaching the stretch turn, took command with a rush when straightened in the final quarter and continuing with good speed, held away thereafter. WAR MINSTREL, fractious at the post, but away well, was taken completely out of it after being blocked approaching the far turn, came around most of the field when closing with good speed, but did not menace the winner. PARMENARCH improved his position gradually until reaching the final stages where he weakened.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

TALKED ABOUT, taken to the inside in the first quarter and saving ground thereafter, sprinted into a long lead on the turn, sustained fine speed to the final eighth, then weakened but managed to last. SOLAR HAWK, never far back and rated under snug restraint for a half mile, came with good speed and determination in the drive and would have headed the winner in a few more strides. QUINCY, forced to lose much ground, worked his way up steadily and finished fastest of all.

RICCIARDO, racing improved and overcoming a big loss of ground, came with determination when placed to light pressure in the last five-sixteenths and won drawing clear. STRAIT JACKET, under restraint for about five-eighths, stayed slightly impeded by GOLDEN QUEST on the turn, closed resolutely and upon reaching the front continued gamely but could not hold the winner. GOLDEN QUEST, close up after a quarter, forced STRAIT JACKET wide when forcing his way out to come to outside of leaders on the turn, stayed fairly well through the drive, though unable to withstand the leaders.

NESSUS, taken back early and allowed to improve his position slowly and holding on with determination after reaching the lead in the final eighth, withstood BLACK PETER'S rush. Latter dropped out of it and remained far back for three-quarters then came with fine late speed and getting through on the inside was wearing down the winner. ERECH forced to race wide, worked his way up steadily and hung briefly in the drive but came again in the late stages. PAT W. took command approaching the stretch and held on fairly well but was not good enough.

NATALIE ALICE raced wide and reserved off the pace under stout restraint, responded willingly when called upon and taking command entering the eighth came away thereafter. POPS BETTY, rated in the pacemaking, came out slightly when slowly giving way to the winner but held on to the end. DUCHESS REIGH, impeded by RISIBILITY at the start but lucky in saving ground almost throughout, was under strong pressure the final quarter and closing resolutely outfinished WILLIAM V.

A.O.SMITH CORP. EARNINGS SHOW SHARP DECLINE

Auto Strikes Main Cause of Drop.

A. O. Smith corporation, maker of automobile parts and other supplies, yesterday reported net income for 12 months ended April 30 fell to $49,719, or 10 cents a share before surtax from $829,331, or $1.64 a share in the preceding 12 months. A number of other companies also issued earnings reports.

L. R. Smith.

The sharp drop in profits of the Smith corporation was attributed to the loss of orders for automobile frames during strikes in the motor manufacturers' plants, unusually heavy retooling expenses in connection with frames for 1937 models also contributed to the decline. L. R. Smith is chairman of the company.

Yellow Cab Has Loss.

The Chicago Yellow Cab Company, Inc., reported a net loss of $95,802 for the quarter ended March 31 after nonrecurring losses and expenses of $215,948. Excluding these special losses, earnings were $120,146. During the period the company was involved in an extensive strike. In the first quarter of 1936 the company had a net income of $171,663, or 57 cents a share.

Eastern Gas and Fuel Associates reported a slight decline in earnings during the twelve months ended April 30 when net income was $2,874,984, compared with $2,889,854 in the preceding twelve months. After dividend requirements on preferred stocks and state taxes in connection with the dividends there was a deficit of $589,509, against a deficit of $310,232 in the preceding twelve months.

North American Edison company and subsidiaries reported net income of $12,082,261, or $20.15 a share on the common stock, after surtax, for the twelve months ended March 31, against $9,743,584, or $15.38 a share on the common, in the preceding twelve months.

Reports Increased Earnings.

Net income of Engineers Public Service company and subsidiaries in the same period amounted to $3,010,093, or $7 a share on the combined preferred stock, before surtax, against $2,032,951, or $4.73 a combined share, in the preceding twelve months. After preferred dividend requirements in the twelve months ended March 31, 1937, there remained earnings of 36 cents a share for the common stock.

Eastern Utilities Associates and subsidiaries reported net income of $1,967,672 before surtax for the twelve months ended April 30, against $1,838,319 in the preceding twelve months.

Net income of the Equitable Office Building corporation in the year ended April 30 was $288,476 after surtax, or 33 cents a share, against $275,575, or 32 cents a share, in the preceding year.

Brillo Manufacturing Figures.

Brillo Manufacturing company reported March quarter net profit of $62,339, or 34 cents a share on the common, after dividends on the class A stock. This compared with $62,107, or 34 cents a share on the common, in the first quarter of 1936.

Brazilian Traction, Light and Power Co., Ltd., and subsidiaries reported 1936 net income of $6,243,888, or 88 cents a share on the ordinary stock, compared with $5,210,238, or 74 cents a share on the ordinary stock, in 1935.

Hosiery Firm Sues Union for Seizure of Its Plant

Philadelphia, Pa., May 28.—[Special.]—A damage suit for $3,000,000 was filed in United States District court here today by the Apex Hosiery company against the American Federation of Full Fashioned Hosiery Workers. The company's plant was seized by unionists on May 5.

Several More Firms Decide to Pay Extras

Extra dividends, payments on accumulations, and initial disbursements were declared yesterday by several more companies, and a long list of others declared payments at rates previously maintained.

Major corporations voting usual dividends were the General Electric company, which authorized 40 cents a share on common stock; Montgomery Ward & Co., which declared 50 cents on common and $1.75 a share on preferred; and Radio Corporation of America, which voted 87½ cents a share on its $3.50 cumulative first preferred.

Rail Declares Extra.

The Cincinnati, New Orleans and Texas Pacific railroad declared an extra dividend of $2.50 a share in addition to the usual semi-annual payment of $5 on common stock. The distribution amounts to $672,750 and is similar to that paid a year ago. Last December the carrier paid an extra of $23 a share. The company reported operating income for April was $506,494, a gain of 29 per cent over April last year.

Columbia Pictures corporation voted an extra dividend of 50 cents a share on common stock and voting trust certificates. Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines, Ltd., a Canadian company, authorized a special payment of 5 cents a share and the regular monthly dividend of the same amount.

Holly Oil company of Los Angeles resumed payments by declaring 25 cents a share on common. This was the first disbursement since August, 1933, when 10 cents a share was paid.

Votes Initial Dividend.

A reflection of the rapid increase in the use of auto trailers appeared in the action of Covered Wagon company, which inaugurated dividend payments with the declaration of 37½ cents a share on its $1.50 cumulative convertible class A stock.

A back dividend of $3 a share was ordered paid by the International Agricultural corporation on the prior preference stock. The last disbursement, amounting to $1.75 a share, was paid March 2, 1931.

International Products corporation declared a dividend of $6 a share on the 6 per cent preferred stock to apply on accumulations. A dividend of $3 a share was disbursed last February.

The Virginia-Carolina Chemical corporation voted $1.50 a share on the 6 per cent participating preferred stock to apply on back dividends, which will amount to $53.50 after this payment.

U. S. GAINS MORE GOLD; HOLDINGS NEAR 12 BILLION

Gold stocks of the United States treasury pushed nearer the unprecedented figure of 12 billion dollars yesterday. Release from earmark for foreign account boosted monetary stocks by $4,502,000. An additional $3,783,000 was engaged in England for shipment to this country. This represented practically all metal offered in the London free market yesterday.

The commerce department reported that gold imports in the week ended May 21 totaled $29,918,915, compared with $34,118,963 in the preceding week. There were no exports of the metal. Silver imports were $646,867, against $743,890 in the preceding week.

On Wednesday the inactive gold fund of $745,822,664 alone was larger than the total gold reserves of any foreign central bank or government, except Great Britain and France. Total gold stocks on that date were $11,977,000,000.

Foreign currencies were little changed yesterday in New York. Pound sterling dipped 7-16 of a cent, French francs .00¾ of a cent, and the Swiss franc .02 of a cent, while Dutch guilders were unchanged.

ELECTRO-MOTIVE PLANT ADDITION TO COST $500,000

H. L. Hamilton, president of the Electro-Motive corporation, yesterday announced details of the plan for a new addition to the Diesel locomotive plant at McCook, southeast of La Grage, which will cost approximately $500,000.

Construction will begin about June 1 on the addition, which will consist of a one story building, 816 feet long by 360 feet wide, just west of the present main building. It will be made of concrete bricks, glass, and steel, with a monitor roof.

Hamilton said the expansion was necessary to meet the need of increased facilities for manufacturing Winton two-cycle Diesel engines that power the locomotives produced by the company. Electric-Motive is a unit of General Motors corporation.

This is the second addition to the plant since it was completed in January, 1936. The first addition, which doubled the size of the main building, was put into operation three months ago.

CUSTOMS TOTAL AT CHICAGO RUNS ABOVE YEAR AGO

Customs collections at the port of Chicago in the first five months of 1937 will aggregate $7,948,276, compared with $6,206,208 in the first five months of last year, Joseph A. Ziemba, collector of the customs here, said yesterday.

The increase this year is well spread out over a general list of commodities and manufactured goods and cannot be attributed to fluctuations in movements of any particular group of articles, the figures showed.

The figures for this year included an estimate on business today. The office will close Monday in observance of Memorial day.

Car Loadings Rise; Second Best in Year

Revenue freight car loadings by railroads in the United States during the week ended May 22 totaled 779,276 cars, the Association of American Railroads reported yesterday.

This represented an increase of 5,607 cars, or 0.7 per cent over the preceding week, and was only 3,147 cars below this year's record established during the week ended May 1.

Last week's loadings exceeded those of the corresponding week in 1936 by 95,686 cars, or 14 per cent, and surpassed the like week of 1935 by 180,880 cars, or 30.2 per cent.

Gains were recorded in all types of freight except grain. The grain movement last week was 751 cars below that of the preceding week and was 5,196 cars below that of the like week a year ago.

The association's classified report of loadings of the respective commodities follows:

	Wk. ended May 22.	—Change from— Prec. wk.	Yr. ago.
Miscellaneous	327,740	+ 584	+43,368
Merchandise	170,150	+ 177	+ 8,056
Coal	117,249	+ 987	+11,089
Grain	26,154	— 751	— 5,196
Live stock	13,713	+1,146	+ 2,560
Forest products	41,747	+2,266	+ 8,333
Ore	72,272	+1,206	+25,416
Coke	10,251	+ 42	+ 2,060

The Dow-Jones seasonally adjusted loadings index declined to 92.9 from 93.6 for the preceding week.

The Associated Press seasonally adjusted index of freight car loadings, based on 1929-'30 as 100, advanced to 80.5, compared with 80.2 the preceding week.

BROKERAGE FIRM WILL DROP SMALL MARGIN BUSINESS

New York, May 28.—(AP)—Wall street was reminded today of the shrinkage in credit speculation in stocks by announcement of a stock exchange house of abandonment of its small margin accounts after July 1.

Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co., international brokerage and investment house, announced it would restrict its stock commission business to cash for accounts with less than $25,000 average annual debit balance. Anticipating a cut in its commission business, it made arrangement for dismissal compensation for thirty-five to forty employés. To cover handling costs the firm will charge annual service fees against cash custodian accounts.

Margin trading has been reduced by high cash requirements under federal reserve rules and SEC efforts to trim in-and-out trading. Dealings have thinned out further in wake of the spring market break.

MOST OF PRINCIPAL EXCHANGES CLOSED TODAY FOR HOLIDAY

All leading security markets of the United States and many commodity markets will close today for the Memorial day holiday. The Chicago Board of Trade grain and cotton divisions, the New Orleans Cotton exchange, and the coffee division of the New York Sugar and Coffee exchange will transact business as usual.

Chicago banks will be open today but will close Monday along with principal live stock and commodity exchanges. The New Orleans cotton market, however, and most southern markets and banks will be open Monday.

All North American and foreign grain exchanges will be open today, but American grain markets will close Monday. Necessity for completion of May grain deliveries prevents closing of North American grain exchanges today, traders said.

RURAL ELECTRIC LAW BOOMERANG FOR WISCONSIN

Madison, Wis., May 28.—[Special.]—Residents of Wolf River, who might have had electricity within sixty days, will be forced to wait at least six months for the service as the result of operation of the new Rush law, by which rural electric coöperatives may block private utility extensions. This was disclosed today in a report of the state public service commission.

Wolf River residents recently notified the commission they wanted electric service. Finding no coöperative in the area the commission directed the Wisconsin Power and Light company to solicit customers. The company signed up twenty customers and applied for permission to build eight miles of transmission line.

The state rural electrification administration office objected that the project would interfere with a newly formed coöperative. In accordance with provisions of the Rush law a map was filed with the commission reserving the territory for the coöperative for six months.

Board of Trade Members Will Discuss Refinancing

A meeting of Chicago Board of Trade members has been called for next Tuesday to discuss changes in rules in connection with refinancing the mortgage securing the Board of Trade building, La Salle street and Jackson boulevard. Members will vote on the proposition the following day, June 2.

Fast Train's Net Profit Is $2.49 a Mile

Modernized, speedy passenger train service has been highly profitable to the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific railroad, the company announced yesterday.

A study of the accomplishments of the Hiawatha, crack train between Chicago and Minneapolis-St. Paul, Minn., at the end of its second year of operation, showed that every time the train passes a mile post on its speedy run it nets the company $2.49. And posts are passed every minute.

During the two years' operation more than 550,000 paying passengers have been carried on the train. Gross revenues totaled $2,600,000.

Gross Earnings $3.62 a Mile.

In terms of miles gross earnings of the Hiawatha during 1936 amounted to $3.62 per mile. Operating costs, including interest and depreciation, were $1.13 a train mile, leaving a profit of $2.49 a mile. The train's proportionate share of track expenses, taxes, solicitation, and miscellaneous costs were not included because of the difficulty in allocating such charges against the operation of a single train.

The earnings statement is said to be the only one made public for an individual train.

Replaced by New Trains.

When the Hiawatha was placed in service May 29, 1935, it consisted of a maroon, orange, and silver train made up of eight newly built cars, drawn by a streamlined steam locomotive. On Oct. 11, last year, the original train was replaced by new and improved equipment, each unit consisting of nine air conditioned cars. The original train is operated in auxiliary service.

The Hiawatha has traveled approximately 615,000 miles in the two years. It makes the 410 mile daily run between Chicago and the Minnesota twin cities in 390 minutes, including six station stops.

EIGHT NATIONS AGREE TO DROP TRADE BARRIERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, May 28.—The governments of Belgium, Denmark, Finland, Norway, Sweden, Luxemburg, the Netherlands, and the Dutch East Indies today signed at The Hague a new "Oslo convention" for closer economic coöperation.

Beginning July 1 these countries will abolish all restrictions on the importation and exportation of their own products. Also they agreed not to increase duties on imports of countries adhering to the Oslo convention.

The Oslo convention was signed in 1930. Under it the signatories agreed to seek lower trade barriers, abolish exchange restrictions, and revive international credit.

Village of Mundelein Sues to Recover Loan to Bank

The village of Mundelein yesterday filed suit in the Lake County Circuit court at Waukegan to collect $25,640 which the village contends was loaned to the State Bank of Mundelein in the public interest in order that it might reopen March 25, 1933, after the Roosevelt moratorium. In return the suit says the bank gave frozen assets as collateral, from which only $5,700, the amount of interest, has been realized. The bank officials now claim no responsibility for the loan, according to Village President Robert F. Rouse.

Curb Exchange Seats Sell Much Lower; 1 at $22,000

New York, May 28.—(AP)—Arrangements have been made for the sales of two memberships on the New York Curb exchange, one at $22,500 and one at $22,000. Last transaction was at $29,000.

Chicago Business Above Year Ago, but Uneven Since March

Business activity in Chicago during April was well above that of April, 1936, but showed irregular trends compared with March this year. This was disclosed yesterday in a survey by the Chicago Association of Commerce.

With the exception of stock exchange transactions, every branch of activity surveyed was well ahead of the same month a year ago. Real estate transfers, building permits, and new construction contract awards rose sharply. The index of factory pay rolls climbed 40 per cent, while the number of employés rose more than 20 per cent.

Rails and Utilities Busier.

Railroads, public utilities, and transportation agencies also reported a much busier month. Pig iron production was 15 per cent ahead of April, 1936. The same rate of improvement was registered in output at the Chicago stockyards.

Compared with March, 1937, declines were shown in the value of building awards, although the number of contracts was slightly higher. The index of department store sales was lower, bank clearings declined, and losses were shown in the volume of check clearings, carloadings, street car trafic, postal receipts, and live stock slaughter. Gains were registered in the cost of building permits, cost of real estate transfers, employment and pay rolls, telephones in use, new automobile registrations, electric power output, airplane travel, and the cost of living index.

PURE OIL WILL REDEEM BONDS TO RECAPITALIZE

Plans New Issue of Preferred Stock.

As a step in recapitalization of the Pure Oil company directors yesterday issued a call for redemption on July 1 of the outstanding balance of $28,500,000 of 15 year 4½ per cent sinking fund notes.

Of the total $4,530,000 par value will be redeemed at 102½, with proceeds resulting from the exercise of common stock purchase warants attached to the notes. The balance of $23,970,000 will be redeemed at 105 as provided in the trust indenture. Pending completion of the refinancing program the company will secure necessary funds through short term bank credit.

The company recently filed with the Securities and Exchange commission a registration statement covering $46,945,540 of new $100 par cumulative preferred stock.

Plans Offering of Stock.

It is expected this will be offered on or after June 11. Proceeds from the sale of this stock will be used for retirement of the notes, to retire 76,620 shares of 8 per cent cumulative preferred stock, and to pay off bank loans of $4,000,000. The balance of the proceeds will be used for capital expenditures, particularly in the refinery division.

A tentative plan for refunding $29,716,800 in equipment trust certificates of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad was announced yesterday by E. M. Durham Jr., chief executive officer for the trustees. He said the plan will be presented to the federal court on Tuesday and authority will be asked to file an application with the interstate commerce commission for approval of new refunding certificates.

Single Issue Is Planned.

Under the plan, which if approved would become effective July 1, a single issues of new securities would be substituted bearing interest of 3½ per cent. Provision is made for semi-annual payments of $1,625,000, which would be applied to payment of interest and principal.

On this basis, Durham said, present outstanding debt of the railroad would be liquidated in 10 years. Interest on outstanding trust certificates has been paid during the period of trusteeship. Principal payments mature in different years up to 1945.

Stockholders of the Phelps Dodge corporation were informed yesterday that conversion into common stock at $50 a share is optional at any time for holders of the forthcoming $20,285,000 of 3½ per cent debentures of 1952.

Conversion Price Adjustable.

The conversion price will be subject to adjustment. Subscription warants will be exercisable on or before June 28, subject to the registration statement filed with the SEC and completion of other formalities. The new debentures are being offered to stockholders of record June 7 on the basis of $4 principal amount for each share held. Proceeds will be used for capital purposes.

The Boston and Maine railroad announced it will pay off the $1,000,000 Portsmouth, Great Falls and Company railroad first mortgage 4½ per cent bonds due June 1 from treasury funds on hand.

Utility Plans Refunding.

Louis H. Egan, president of the Union Electric Light and Power company, said yesterday in St. Louis that preliminary steps have been taken for a refunding operation intended to retire $92,041,200 in bonds and preferred stock, most of which bears 5 per cent. These securities would be replaced by $80,000,000 in long term bonds, possibly bearing 3½ per cent interest, and $15,000,000 in 5 year, 3 per cent debentures.

Stockholders of the Hartman Tobacco company approved a recapitalization plan under which preferred dividend arrears will be eliminated.

Kimberly-Clark Calls Meeting.

Stockholders of the Kimberly-Clark corporation have been called to a special meeting in Chicago on June 12 to vote on a proposal calling for the issuance of $10,000,000 of bonds with which to retire $5,000,000 of 5 per cent first mortgage bonds and to provide working capital and expansion funds. The issue is to be sold privately.

Stockholders of Allied Kid company yesterday voted to simplify the capital structure by eliminating all classes of stock other than the 300,000 shares of $5 par value common.

The Rudolph Wurlitzer company annouced yesterday it would redeem $2,085,700 in outstanding debentures on July 15 at 100½.

Bosses as Well as Laborers Get Pay Boosts

Washington, D. C., May 28.—(AP)—Corporation presidents, as well as laborers, got many pay raises in the last year. Among the thousands of annual reports of corporations flooding into the securities and exchange commission, the number of officers reporting better remuneration [salary or other pay sulh as bonuses] is high and those reporting cuts are few.

One of the largest raises fell to E. T. Stannard, president of the Kennecott Copper corporation, from $75,480 to $92,166. The salaries of Stephen Birch, chairman, and D. C. Jackling, head of subsidiaries, were practically unchanged at $75,320 and $101,510, respectively.

W. S. S. Rodgers, president of the Texas corporation, was boosted from $54,166 to $95,000; T. Rieber, chairman, was raised from $42,100 to $93,333, and Harry T. Klein was advanced from $38,933 to $63,333.

Rail Head Gets More.

In the railroad field, N. W. Clement, president, received $60,000, compared with $8,266 in 1935, and J. L. Eysmans, vice president, received $50,000, as against $42,590.

Vincent Bendix, head of the automotive and aviation supply companies bearing his name, reported a boost from $55,121 to $75,273.

Among other raises were: T. Albert Potter, Elgin National Watch company, from $44,045 to $57,651; E. J. Magnin, I. Magnin, Inc., of San Francisco, from $36,390 to $56,866; Modie J. Spiegel Jr., Spiegel, Inc., of Chicago, from $60,000 to $75,000; Moses Pendleton, American Woolen company, from $50,450 to $62,925; Alvan McCauley, Packard Motor Car company, from $50,269 to $70,299; Ralph E. Day, Bridgeport Brass company, from $36,260 to $46,240; L. K. Liggett, United Drug company, from $71,606 to $75,000.

Other Officials Boosted.

Charles R. Miller, Fidelity and Deposit Company of Maryland, was raised from $31,087 to $42,010; R. T. Riney, Sterling Brewers, from $16,301 to $39,189; J. Howard Pew, Sun Oil company, from $67,612 to $74,750; Edward H. Clark, Homestake Mining company, from $36,070 to $45,000; Harry Gould, American News New York corporation, from $40,000 to $50,000; C. W. Lightfall, Hoover Ball and Bearing company, from $25,108 to $30,527; G. W. Vaughn, Wright Aeronautical corporation, from $25,008 to $32,508, and A. E. Barit, Hudson Motor Car company, from $57,600 to 76,800.

Among the rare cuts in pay were the following: W. F. Detwiler, executive vice president of Alleghany Steel corporation, from $111,704 to $86,790; G. H. Lorimer, Curtis Publishing company, from $90,000 to $79,999; Cornelius F. Kelly, Anaconda Copper Mining company, from $168,138 to $167,263; Edwin D. Bransome, Vanadium corporation, from $32,725 to $25,209.

PAPER COMPANY STOCK ADVANCE HINTS PRICE RISE

MONTREAL, Que., May 28.—[Special.]—A rise in paper company shares on the Montreal market today, involving a turnover of 52,000 shares, or about 74 per cent of the entire volume, was accompanied by a rumor that at least one important producer was planning to announce a $55 per ton price for the second half of 1938. The fact that London, which was heavily interested on the buying side here today, seemed also to have heard the rumor lent it a certain value.

As far as can be learned in newsprint circles it is not a fact that such announcement is contemplated at this time. An announcement may be made in the fall, or later, it was said, but those in close touch with newsprint affairs believe that, with costs rising, no manufacturer is able at this time to commit his company to a fixed contract price so far in advance.

One interesting piece of news was that a substantial tonnage has recently been sold to Argentina. Some 20,000 tons were said to have been involved, all for 1938 delivery, with 10,000 tons at the recently announced increased price of $50, the balance at an open price to be determined later.

Treasury Gets Lower Rate on 273 Day Bill Offering

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau yesterday announced that the average rate on accepted bids for $50,000,000 of 273-day bills sold yesterday was 0.562 per cent, on a discount basis at an average price of 99.574. In the preceding sale of 273-day bills last Monday the average rate was 0.617 per cent. The 108-day bills offered yesterday, also amounting to $50,000,000, sold at an average rate of 0.375 per cent.

PREDICTS NEW AAA PLAN WON'T PASS CONGRESS

Farm Bureau Agent Reports Obstacles.

Washington, D. C., May 28.—(AP)—Chester Gray, legislative representative of the American Farm Bureau federation, predicted today that its efforts to rewrite and broaden the old AAA for the purpose of controling prices and production would fail at this session of congress.

Rep. Marvin T. Jones.

Gray said that Chairman Marvin T. Jones [D., Tex.] of the house agriculture committee is neither friendly nor unfriendly to the proposed "agriculture adjustment act of 1937."

"And obviously," he added, "if it is not sponsored by the chairman the bill cannot pass.

"Too, we have found opposition from the other major farm groups who believe the bill to be unconstitutional in view of the fact that it proposes to control crop production, which was declared to be a matter of state concern in the Supreme court's decision outlawing the processing taxes of the old triple A."

Wallace and Jones Clash.

Secretary Wallace, supporting the bill, clashed with Jones today on the question of how much the proposed farm price stabilization efforts would cost. Their exchange occurred at a house committee hearing on the measure.

Jones, questioning the ability of the treasury to finance the program which Wallace urged, told the secretary he estimated $635,000,000 to $1,250,000,000 would be needed annually for "parity" and soil conservation payments if all farmers complied.

"I think, Mr. Chairman, that your mathematics must be in error," Wallace retorted.

Asserting he based his estimates on production figures for the last ten years and parity prices as determined by the department of agriculture, Jones said he would stand by them until shown they were incorrect. His estimates were far higher than those of the American Farm Bureau federation, which reported the program would cost an annual average of about $300,000,000.

Learn President's Attitude.

Reporters eager to know the President's attitude toward the bill heard him assert at a press conference today that he hoped congress would pass additional farm legislation embracing "the ever-normal granary" suggestions of his farm secretary.

Jones brought out in questioning Wallace the following points concerning the farm bureau's bill:

1. Lack of information on the cost, and concern that it might interfere with President Roosevelt's economy appeals.

2. The question of whether the legislation is constitutional.

3. Demands of dairy and live stock producers that their products be included in the bill along with cotton, corn, wheat, rice, and tobacco.

4. Arguments that the penalty taxes and fines provided to prevent farmers marketing more than their quotas in times of oversupply would not survive court attacks and would incur objections from farmers.

ILLINOIS RETAIL SALES IN APRIL EXCEED YEAR AGO

April retail sales of 950 independent stores in Illinois increased 9 per cent in dollar volume as compared with April, 1936, despite the fact that Easter was in March this year and in April last year, the federal bureau of foreign and domestic commerce reported yesterday.

Sales in April, this year, also were 5 per cent above March after allowance for the one less business day and one per cent greater without an adjustment, according to the department. The report covers the larger independent stores in 22 kinds of business.

Dollar volume of Chicago retail stores covered in the survey increased 11.2 per cent in April over the month a year ago and were 0.1 per cent over March, 1937.

New York Stocks.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

New York, May 28.—In a lifeless pre-holiday session, prices on the stock exchange moved in a narrow range today. Closing prices were at practically unchanged levels.

Apparently in a desire to get a jump on the three day vacation, traders stayed away from the market place, making for extremely slow and diminished trading. Volume fell to the lowest mark since April 3, 1935, approximately 559,000 shares turning over.

As a result of the lack of activity price trends were not entirely indicative of the market's strength or weakness, there being quite a spread between bid and asked quotations.

A source of considerable encouragement today was the ability of steel shares at least to hold their own in the face of discouraging news on the labor situation.

Although gains were not large, there was a surprising show of strength by the entire steel group. U. S. Steel common crossed par for a gain of more than a point. Of the three independent steel companies affected by the strike, only Inland Steel took a loss on the day. The others, Republic and Youngstown Sheet and Tube, moved into the plus column.

Other leading industrial stocks were highly mixed in light trading. Chrysler picked up a fraction, while General Motors and lower priced motor shares eased fractions.

National Lead and St. Joseph Lead worked actively higher, while copper shares showed small declines. Oils also were mixed, with gains and losses pretty evenly divided.

Continuing where they left off yesterday, International Harvester and Oliver Farm were outstanding in the farm equipment dividends, both accumulating more than a point.

Despite favorable car loading reports, rails were sluggish.

New York Bonds.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

New York, May 28.—A rally in United States government issues featured otherwise quiet trading and narrow price movements in bonds today. The treasury list closed 1-32 to 11-32 point higher.

The turnover in "governments," however, was held to $338,000. Activity was centered on the treasury 2¾s of 1951-48, and the Home Owners Loan 2¾s of 1949-39, both of which closed off 3-32 point. The treasury 4¼s of 1952-47 scored the widest gain on sales of $124,000.

Trading in other sections of the market reflected a holiday atmosphere as pivotal issues in the corporation list moved irregularly within narrow limits.

Sales of bonds in May were the smallest since November, 1932. The months turnover was $178,925,000. face value, against $294,[illegible],000, last month, and $200,410,000 in May, 1936 The November, 1932 total was $159,419,000.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stocks were quiet and uneven yesterday. Of 88 issues traded, 29 closed higher, 25 lower, and 34 unchanged. Among the more active issues, Borg-Warner common dipped ¼. Butler and Chicago corporation held steady. Cities Service and Marshall Field rose ⅛.

Trading in the week ended yesterday [the exchange is closed today] totaled 143,000 shares, compared with 173,000 shares last week and 207,000 shares in the corresponding week of 1936. This brought the total volume for May to 771,000 shares, against 1,255,000 shares in April and 738,000 shares in May, 1936. The total for the first five months of 1937 was 7,868,000 shares, compared with 8,977,000 shares in the corresponding months of last year.

Bank Stocks.

Chicago bank stocks, as quoted by various dealers, were irregular yesterday. Continental Illinois was unchanged to $1 higher. First National was $2 to $3 higher. Harris Trust was unchanged to $15 lower, and Northern Trust unchanged to $5 lower in bids.

SEES WAY PAVED FOR U. S. CONTROL OF ALL INDUSTRY

Rail Editor Tells Effect of Court Decisions.

The way has been opened to government regulation of all industry similar to that imposed on the railroads because of the Supreme court's decision upholding the Wagner labor relations act, Samuel O. Dunn, editor of the trade magazine Railway Age, asserted yesterday.

Samuel O. Dunn.

"Large industries are now where the railroads were 30 years ago," he told the annual convention of the National Metal Trades association meeting in the Palmer house. "The decisions were rendered at a time when there is a powerful demand for government control of all large industries.

Expects More Regulation.

"It is inconceivable that efforts will not now be made to increase regulation of large industries that are at present much less regulated than the railroads. These industries, by participating in promoting the present regulation of railroads, have established some exceedingly bad precedents.

Dunn said the experiences of the railroads and the decisions in the Wagner act cases demonstrates that the system of private enterprise in the United States can be undermined and destroyed without any change in the provisions of the constitution or any packing of the court.

Theoretically, he continued, the interstate commerce commission while having power to regulate railway rates must not so regulate them as to prevent a fair profit, that is, a "fair return on a fair valuation."

Calls Control Confiscatory.

"In actual practice the present policy of railway regulation is continuously confiscatory. In 1922 the commission specifically held that the railways were constitutionally entitled to an annual rate of return of 5¾ per cent. In the fifteen years since they have actually earned an average return of 3.3 per cent."

Dunn said this outcome has been due to four principal causes: [1]—high taxes and hourly wage rates, the latter established under government wartime operation and subsequently maintained by government influence; [2]—diversion of trafic to government subsidized and unregulated carriers; [3]—regulation of rates in disregard of costs and competition; [4]—the depression.

He urged all industries, as a means to combat the issue, to adopt financial and management policies which are defensible in the public interest, and then carry on an extensive educational campaign to convince the public that private operation and management without undue government regulation is in the interest of all classes.

Illinois to Study Rural Electric Rates, Policies

Springfield, Ill., May 28.—(AP)—The state commerce commission today adopted a motion to "investigate the reasonableness of rural electric rates and line extension policies in Illinois." The current issue of the Illinois rural electrification bulletin said the commission has directed Dr. Paul J. Raver, executive officer, to institute staf studies on this subject. The costs of construction will be studied first.

Business Bits

Victor H. Stempf, a member of the firm of Touche, Niven & Co., will address a dinner meeting of the Illinois Society of Certified Public Accountants at the Union League club next Tuesday on the subject, "Trends in Corporate Recapitalization." Stempf is chairman of the committee on federal taxation of the American Institute of Accountants and vice president of the New York State Society of Certified Public Accountants.

Walter W. Templin, formerly executive vice president and director of the Pepsodent company, in Chicago, yesterday became president of J. Stirling Getchell, Inc., New York advertising company. Getchell, who had been president, became chairman of the board of the company.

Allen L. Lindley, chairman of the business conduct committee of the New York Stock exchange, has joined the firm of Shields & Co. as a limited partner. The firm of Lindley & Co. has been dissolved.

The Chicago advertising man who is judged to have made the most outstanding contribution to advertising will be presented with a special award at the first annual awards meeting of the Chicago Federated Advertising at the Hotel Sherman Thursday, June 3. John Benson, president of the American Association of Advertising Agencies, will speak on "The Influence of Public Thinking on Advertising Copy."

The Prest-O-Lite Battery company, Indianapolis, has appointed the Leo Burnett Company, Inc., of Chicago, as its advertising agency.

James L. Mayberry, manager of the Chicago office of Shearson, Hammill & Co., will celebrate his 35th anniversary with the firm at a dinner in his honor on June 2 at the Chicago club.

Dr. Joseph E. Goodbar, president of the Society for Stability in Money and Banking, Inc., will address the Iowa Bankers association's convention at Sioux City on June 1. Laurance Armour president of the American National Bank and Trust company, will speak Wednesday, June 2.

The Federal Reserve System—8.

An explanation of the federal reserve system's money issuing and money creating functions is not complete without a discussion of the modifications made in recent years.

Each of the twelve regional reserve banks has the power to issue money—federal reserve notes—backed up to 60 per cent by paper evidencing loans by the commercial member banks to business men and farmers and the remaining 40 per cent by gold certificates.

During the depression, however, it was found that although the supply of gold was sufficient for its 40 per cent part of the backing for money the reduced volume of busines activity and bank loans to business and agriculture afforded a too skimpy supply of the sort of paper required for the remaining 60 per cent backing.

This, together with the fact that the commercial member banks and the central reserve banks themselves were having to buy great quantities of federal government obligations, led to an amendment of the federal reserve act by congress which authorized the reserve banks to substitute federal government bonds, notes and bills for commercial and agricultural paper in making up that 60 per cent of the backing for the paper money not covered by gold. This has been criticized in some quarters as inflationary because increases in the federal debt, unlike increases in commercial and agricultural loans, are not automatically evidence of the expanding productivity of the nation's business and agriculture.

Tomorrow: Types of money.

CHARTER DENIED CHICAGO GROUP'S INSURANCE UNIT

Hartford, Conn., May 28.—[Special.]—The Connecticut senate today rejected by vote of 32 to 3 a charter for the proposed American Manufacturers' Insurance company. The senate committee on insurance had previously recommended the granting of a charter.

Although several leading Connecticut citizens were named as incorporators of the new company, its actual backers were Chicago interests, headed by James S. Kemper, president of the Lumbermen's Mutual Insurance company.

At the committee hearings several weeks ago, the charter was opposed by practically every insurance company in Hartford as well as the state insurance commissioners office and a number of Connecticut bankers. It's opponents declared the proposal of the American Manufacturers Insurance company to write both stock and participating fire insurance was a dangerous precedent.

Kemper said in New York today, "we are proceeding today to set up the company in another good state where our taxes will be less and our operating costs lower."

M. P. Luthy, secretary of Lumbermen's Mutual, declared that immediate steps would be taken to obtain a charter in Massachusetts.

COURT APPROVES PLAN OF UNITED CIGAR STORES

New York, May 28.—[Special.]—Dictating an opinion from the bench, Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe today confirmed the plan for reorganizing the United Cigar Stores of America under section 77B of the bankruptcy act. Attorneys said the proceeding was one of the most expeditious in this district, as the first hearing on the plan was held on March 29.

"With confirmation of the plan control of the debtor by the Phoenix Securities corporation was assured. Judge Coxe scotched charges that Phoenix had unfairly come into the dominating position by purchasing United Cigar debentures and landlords' claims at big discounts. All such purchases were made openly, for cash, and were lawful, the court ruled.

A small group of common stockholders had opposed the plan. This group announced that it "intends immediately to determine upon a course of action concerning an appeal from this decision of the court."

Judge Coxe said he saw no justification for fixing the company's assets at more than the reported figure of $16,673,783.

SOCIAL SECURITY ACT IS UNSOUND, BANKERS TOLD

Insurance Chief Doubts Its Effectiveness.

Atlantic City, N. J., May 28.—[Special.]—The present form of the social security act is unsound and could be vastly improved, M. A. Linton, president of the Provident Mutual Life Insurance Company of Philadelphia, told the Pennsylvania Bankers' association here today at its forty-third annual meeting.

M. A. Linton.

Linton is a member of the newly created advisory council on social security, appointed by United States Senator Pat Harrison, chairman of the senate finance committee, and Arthur J. Altmeyer, chairman of the social security board. He conceded at the start that "validation of the act by the Supreme court places the seal of approval on the quest of the American people for collective economic security."

Doubts Success of Plan.

"There is considerable doubt whether the program as now constituted will accomplish its purpose, either effectively or economically," Linton said. "The creation of a huge reservoir of $47,000,000,000 invested in government bonds simply means that the government debt can never be reduced below the limits of the reserve.

"And the interest on the government bonds will have to be paid out of current taxation. Then why not pay the old age benefits out of current taxation? Why not do away with the topheavy reserve system altogether, allowing the present national debt to be retired in the usual manner through the application of general revenue funds?"

Linton also pointed out that the present plan "provides glaring inequalities in benefits that will not meet with popular approval when they are generally known."

Bank Practice Criticized.

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., May 28.—[Special.]—Certain banking practices were criticized by bankers here today in the second day's session of the District of Columbia bankers' convention.

W. T. Van Doren, vice president of the association and cashier of the Liberty National bank, Washington, advocated "more human" operation of trust departments. In the handling of trust funds for persons entirely dependent in many cases on the trust officer, he said, there should be greater consideration for the well being of the customer and less cold calculation of what each account means to the bank. In most cases, he pointed out, a trust beneficiary had nothing to do with the selection or retention of the administering bank, and consequently it was the trust department's duty to offer every possible help to the beneficiary.

Urges More Efficiency.

Aboard S. S. Washington, at Sea, May 28.—(AP)—Striking the keynote for the "floating convention" of the New York State Bankers' association, Raymond N. Ball, president, warned today unit banking must bring itself to its highest efficiency or run the risk of being eliminated entirely.

Ball said he expected to see in operation soon a nation-wide system of investment advisory agencies he has proposed.

Air Line Reports New Mark Set by Outbound Chicagoans

The record for passengers carried from Chicago on American Airlines' planes was broken yesterday when 235 reservations had been booked by 3 p. m. The previous record was established on Nov. 30 last, when 216 passengers were carried. C. A. Rheinstrom, vice president in charge of sales, said the company was anticipating "200 or better" days today, tomorrow, and Monday, with special sections operating to New York, St. Louis, and Indianpolis, where the 500 mile automobile race will be held.

HALL PRINTING NETS $701,523 IN FISCAL YEAR

Geiger Explains Strike Situation at Plant.

The W. F. Hall Printing company yesterday reported for the fiscal year ended March 31 a net income of $701,523, or $1.79 a share on the common after preferred dividend requirements, compared with a net loss of $13,200 in the preceding fiscal year. Profit was the best since 1932, when $1,058,308 was earned.

The strike at the company's plant is for the sole purpose of forcing a closed shop and does not represent any real dissatisfaction with wages, hours, or other conditions of employment, Alfred B. Geiger, president, said in the annual report.

Majority Refuses to Strike.

"A large majority of our total employment refused to strike and we have been able to maintain production schedules fairly well, notwithstanding the strike, which still continues," Geiger said. "We are hopeful that some solution of this labor controversy will be worked out shortly."

Geiger said that the management is considering the refunding of present bonded debt, amounting to $6,383,000 of 6 per cent sinking fund bonds, with a view of reducing fixed charges. The mortgage on the Superior street property was retired during the year, he pointed out, and there are no bank loans.

To Vote on Stock Option.

He said than an option given him by directors to purchase 13,000 shares of common stock in the treasury at $7.50 a share must be ratified by the stockholders and will be considered at the annual meeting. The company paid taxes of $549,210 during the year.

Current assets of $3,680,802 on March 31, 1937, including cash and marketable securities of $1,527,902, compared with current liabilities of $1,387,361. A year earlier, current assets were $2,853,921, including cash and marketable securities of $769,932, against current liabilities of $784,930, exclusive of a purchase money mortgage maturity.

State of Pernambuco Bonds.

Investors' Guide: Please give me information on State of Pernambuco 7s of 1947?—J. H.

Answer: Pernambuco is one of the smaller states of Brazil, with area of about 50,000 square miles, but has a population of almost 3,500,000. Sugar and cotton are principal products, with coffee third in importance.

State of Pernambuco bonds—external 7s of 1947, 5s of 1946, and 5s of 1942—are included in a Brazilian foreign debt adjustment plan operating from April 1, 1934, to March 31, 1938. A new plan is to be considered later this year.

Interest on these bonds is payable under the plan at the rate of 17½ per cent of the full coupon in the year ended March 31, 1935; 20 per cent the next year, 22½ per cent the year ended March 31, 1937, and 32½ per cent in the year ended March 31, 1938. Thus, $7.87½, or 22½ per cent, of the $35 semi-annual interest specified in the coupon was paid March 1, 1937, and Sept. 1, 1936, on the 7s of 1947.

Bondholders are not required to accept payment, but if they do they surrender their coupons and accept the amount tendered as full settlement of the coupon in question.

Pacific Power and Light.

Investors' Guide: Please give me information on Pacific Power and Light company bonds as an investment.—Mrs. W. J.

Answer: Despite improvement in earnings during the last two years, the first mortgage prior lien 5s of 1955 still are regarded as somewhat speculative. There are $20,500,000 of the bonds outstanding. Interest and other fixed charges were covered 1.6 times in 1936, compared with 1.41 times in 1935, and 1.25 times in 1934.

Pacific Power and Light furnishes electricity to 115 communities with population of almost 200,000 in the Columbia river valley in southern Washington and northern Oregon. It is controled by American Power and Light company, which owns all common stock.

Out of Business.

Investors' Guide: I am desirous of learning when the Garard Trust company went out of business.—D. P.

Answer: Garard Trust company went into receivership on March 1, 1930, and the bondholders' protective committee was formed on March 3, 1930.

WE NEED GOOD MEN, THEY NEED US.

Our trained men in Chicago already have a lot to do, but if you are capable and determined we want to make contact with you. Whatever work you consider, do so carefully, because your future is at stake.

Many men who have the natural ability to succeed actually fail in sales work because they are not properly instructed. For example, women influence or control 80% of all retail buying. Has the man who is responsible for your success carefully taught you the woman's point of view and how to sell both men and women?

You can begin to earn a high comm. while training. Promotion awaits you as soon as you can assume the added responsibility. See Cookware Co. of America, Hotel Sherman, TODAY.

Chicagoland and Europe Tie in International Golden Gloves Fights—Heavyweights Thrill Crowd

PICTURE STORY OF STEEL STRIKE BATTLE

A throng of striking steel workers and sympathizers marches from massmeeting at 9233 Houston avenue vowing to close the Republic Steel corporation's South Chicago plant, where, according to the company, 1,000 employes are still on the job. Orators had stirred strikers to high pitch of enthusiasm. Massed picketing has been prevented about the mill. (Story on page 1.)

A determined woman sympathizer carries an American flag at the head of the column as it advances toward the plant. Later, when the strikers reached a police outpost, a man took the flag. The flag bearer struck one of the first blows, bringing pole down on policeman's head, and later was beaten with clubs. Other marchers carried banners with strike slogans.

Police outpost, seeing itself overwhelmingly outnumbered, retreats 50 yards at 117th street and Green Bay avenue, one and one-half blocks from the plant. Four of the ten withdrawing policemen may be seen in the picture. Police made a stand after receiving reinforcement of 20 men from plant guard. Narrowness of police front put strikers at disadvantage.

The police force strikers' column to retreat. Strikers kicked and swung their fists, women screamed, more distant battlers hurled bricks and stones at the height of the conflict. Eighteen strikers were injured, three so severely that they required hospital treatment, and six policemen were hurt. In all, only 40 policemen took part in fight, but 45 more were at scene.
